INTRODUCTORY.

This book is designed to teach bookkeeping as it is practiced by the best business houses. We have no apology to offer for the innovations in methods, or the deviation from the school forms of balance sheets, statements, loss and gain accounts, etc. We believe the time has arrived when all progressive teachers will welcome practical business methods, even though they supplant long cherished school forms and practices.

In the compilation of this work we beg to acknowledge the courtesies and assistance extended us by Lord & Taylor, New York; John Wanamaker, New York and Philadelphia; Park & Tilford, New York; Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia; Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia; Comptroller of Currency, Washington, D. C.; Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury, New York, and of over a hundred other leading business houses and banks which have cheerfully permitted us to examine their books and whose head bookkeepers have furnished much valuable information.

TO THE STUDENT.

Accuracy is the first essential of business; without it you cannot hope to hold a paying position in the commercial world. Accuracy can be acquired only by painstaking, thoughtful work on your part from the start. Read carefully all instructions, and do just as you are told to do.

Do not make mistakes in simple mathematical operations. Errors in addition, subtraction and multiplication are inexcusable, and will not be tolerated in business. Verify all additions and multiplications. Know you are right before you go ahead.

Neatness and Legibility. A neat, legible style of handwriting which can be executed at a fair rate of speed, and absolute legibility in figures, are necessities in the modern office.

The acquirement of these attainments will necessitate constant practice on the part of most students. The script illustrations in the book are excellent models to follow. Do not allow yourself to do careless and slovenly work either in writing or in making figures.

Details. Inability to estimate the importance of a thorough mastery of details is the cause of more failures in life than all other causes combined. Learn to pay attention to the little things. Follow your instructions implicitly; do not be content with doing a thing nearly right, but do it exactly right. Remember, "Perfection is made up of trifles, but perfection itself is no trifle." The successful business man must master multitudinous detail.

MODERN ILLUSTRATIVE BOOKKEEPING.

Bookkeeping is the art, method, or practice of recording business transactions. There are two methods, termed Single Entry and Double Entry.

Object of Bookkeeping.—The object of bookkeeping is to enable the proprietor at any time to determine whether his business is being conducted at a profit or a loss, the sources from which the profits or losses arise, and to afford a record of all debts due and all property belonging to the business and a record of all debts due by the business.

Single Entry Bookkeeping usually provides for keeping accounts with persons only.

Double Entry Bookkeeping provides for keeping accounts with persons, property, expenses and allowances.

Books Required. The books required depend upon the nature of the business, but a complete record of any business may be kept in two books—the Journal-Daybook and the Ledger.

The Journal-Daybook. This book contains a record of each transaction as it takes place, and also the names of the accounts affected by the transaction, showing which accounts are debited and which are credited.

The Ledger. This book contains the names of all accounts occurring in the journal, with all debits from the journal carried to the debit or left-hand side of the ledger accounts, and all credits to the credit or right-hand side, so that a ledger account will show upon its face all transactions by which that account has been affected in the course of the business as recorded in the journal-daybook.

Auxiliary Books.—Every business will keep such auxiliary books of record as the nature of the transactions may require.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

No. 1.—Take a sheet of journal paper and carefully copy the model journal shown on pages 6 and 7, following carefully the script forms of both letters and figures.

No. 2.—Take a sheet of ledger paper and carefully copy the model ledger shown on pages 8 and 9, writing four accounts on a page. Be careful to make plain, neat figures. Make the ledger headings larger than ordinary writing, and see that each heading is written in the center of the page, so that the double lines which divide the page into two equal parts will come exactly, or nearly, in the middle of the heading.

Do your very best work both in the journal and ledger exercises, for they will not be accepted unless the writing is legible and neat, and the figures plain.

Present your work to your teacher for examination and approval.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

GENERAL RULES FOR DEBITING AND CREDITING.

Rule 1.—DEBIT what the business receives, or what costs value. Rule 2.—CREDIT what the business disposes of, or what produces value.

TO BE ENTERED IN THE JOURNAL-DAYBOOK.

Make the entries required by the following transactions similar in form to those shown in model journal-daybook on pages 6 and 7.

No. 1.—JANUARY 1, 190-. I (your name) engage in the Flour and Grain business, investing cash, $4000.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Whatever the business receives, or what comes into the business, should be debited; that is, it should be entered on the left-hand side of your journal-daybook. In this instance the business has received cash to the amount of $4000, hence Cash should be debited.

Whatever the business disposes of, or whatever produces value to the business, should be credited; that is, it should be entered on the right-hand side of your journal-daybook. In this instance the proprietor has produced, or given, value to the business to the amount of $4000 by making an investment, hence the Proprietor should be credited.

The following illustrates the form of the entry, though the amounts and explanation are different:

January 1, 190-

Cash F. W. Leonard	Commenced the Flour and Grain business, investing cash.	3500		3500
-------------------------------------	--	-------------	--	-------------

Make an entry in your journal-daybook according to the above form. Write your name instead of that of F. W. Leonard, and place $4000 opposite Cash, and $4000 opposite your name, instead of the amounts shown in model. The amount placed in the left-hand column of your journal-daybook should be the same as that placed in the right-hand column; in other words, your debits and credits should always be equal.

The name of the account debited is placed near the vertical lines at the left, and the amount placed in the left-hand money column.

The name of the account credited is written one line below the debit, and about three-fourths of an inch farther to the right. The credit amount is placed in the right-hand money column.

Rule 3.—Debit CASH for all cash received.

The term "cash" includes specie (gold, silver, nickel and bronze), treasury notes, national bank notes, gold and silver certificates, checks, post-office money orders, express money orders, bank drafts, and certificates of deposit.

Rule 4.—Credit the PROPRIETOR with all amounts which he invests in the business.

No. 2.—JANUARY 2, 190—. Paid J. C. Smith $75 for one month's rent of store.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Whatever costs the business value should be debited. In this instance you have paid $75 rent for the benefit of the business. Rent has cost the business value. It is an expense to the business, hence Expense should be debited.

Cash has been disposed of. It has produced value to the business; that is, it has been used by you to pay the rent of your store, hence Cash should be credited.

The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

Expense Cash	² Paid B. W. Ames January rent in cash	100	100
-------------------------------	---	-----	-----

Before attempting to make the above entry, examine the model journal-daybook on page 6 so as to be sure of the form and arrangement. Do not copy the illustrations, but make entries similar to them. Your entries must be made for the transactions given, and your amounts must be the amounts given in the transactions, and not the amounts shown in the illustrations. Leave one blank line after each transaction, and write the date in the center of this line, using ditto marks if the date be the same as that of the preceding transaction.

Rule 5.—Debit EXPENSE for all expenses of the business.

The expenses of a business include such items as outlays for rent, postage stamps, stationery, fuel, light, clerk hire, etc.

Rule 6.—Credit CASH for all amounts which are paid out, or taken from the business.

No. 3.—JANUARY 2, 190—. Bought of Scrantom & Wetmore, books and stationery for office use, for which I paid cash, $15.

INSTRUCTIONS.—This transaction is of the same nature as the preceding one. Debit Expense (see rule 5); credit Cash (see rule 6).

In the right-hand half of the wide space in your journal-daybook is written a complete record of the transaction. This record should be as brief as possible, yet it must show exactly what took place, for should any dispute arise it is this record and not the journal entry nor ledger record that will be used as evidence.

No. 4.—JANUARY 3, 190—. Bought of the Upton Coal Co. for cash, for use in store, 5 tons of coal at $5.50 per ton; total, $27.50.

INSTRUCTIONS.—As the coal is to be used for fuel, it becomes an expense to the business. Make entry similar to transactions Nos. 2 and 3. Determine the debit by reading rule 5; determine the credit by reading rule 6.

No. 5.—JANUARY 3, 190—. Paid postmaster $10.50 for 500 stamped envelopes.

No. 6.—JANUARY 4, 190—. Bought of P. D. Hamlin, for cash, 100 brls. flour at $3.90 per brl., 400 bu. oats at 35¢ per bu.; total, $530.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Goods which you buy with the intention of selling are called “merchandise.” You have bought $530 worth of flour and oats for this purpose, hence Merchandise should be debited. You have paid out or disposed of cash to the amount of $530, hence Cash should be credited. The following is the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

	Mdse. Cash	4 Bt. of A. R. Free for cash 200 brls. Flour 3.75 500 bu. Corn 40¢	950		950
--	---------------	--	-----	--	-----

Rule 7.—Debit MERCHANDISE for all goods which you buy for the purpose of selling.

No. 7.—JANUARY 4, 190—. Bought of Charles A. Hubbard, for cash, 1000 bu. oats at 30¢ per bu.; total, $300.

INSTRUCTIONS.—This transaction is similar to the preceding one. Merchandise should be debited (see rule 7); Cash should be credited (see rule 6).

No. 8.—JANUARY 4, 190—. Bought of M. F. Lynch, for cash, 500 bu. corn at 35¢ per bu.; total, $175.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Make entry similar to transaction No. 6. Determine the debit by reading rule 7; determine the credit by reading rule 6.

No. 9.—JANUARY 4, 190—. Bought of H. P. Dennis & Co., for cash, 100 bu. rye at 50¢ per bu., 50 brls. flour at $4.10 per brl.; total, $255.

No. 10.—JANUARY 5, 190—. Sold Wilson Bros., for cash, 100 bu. rye at 60¢ per bu., 50 brls. flour at $4.50 per brl.; total, $285.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Cash should be debited when it is received, or comes into the business; and Merchandise should be credited when it is sold, or goes out of the business. The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

	Cash Mdse.	5 Sold Curtis & Co. for cash 100 brls. Flour 4.50 100 bu. Barley 35¢	485		485
--	---------------	--	-----	--	-----

Rule 8.—Credit MERCHANDISE for all goods which you sell.

No. 11.—JANUARY 6, 190—. Sold H. A. Harvey, for cash, 400 bu. oats at 35¢ per bu.; total, $140.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Make entry similar to preceding transaction. Determine the debit by reading rule 3; determine the credit by reading rule 8.

No. 12.—JANUARY 6, 190—. Sold W. D. Menter, for cash, 200 bu. corn at 40¢ per bu.; total, $80. (Entry similar to transaction No. 10.)

No. 13.—JANUARY 6, 190—. Sold J. B. Hamill, for cash, 200 bu. oats at 36¢ per bu., 100 bu. corn at 40¢ per bu.; total, $112.

POSTING.

At such times as may be convenient, the bookkeeper transfers the items from his journal (in which they have been entered daily as the transactions have occurred) to the ledger.

Transferring entries from the journal to the ledger is called "posting," and when completed all the debit cash items in the journal will appear on the debit side of the Cash account in the ledger, and the credit cash items in the journal will appear on the credit side of the Cash account in the ledger. (See Cash account in model ledger, page 8.) All debit merchandise items in the journal will appear on the debit side of the Merchandise account in the ledger, and all credit merchandise items in the journal will appear on the credit side of the Merchandise account in the ledger; and the same will be true of Expense account, the proprietor's account, and such other accounts as the business may have.

There is no stated time at which posting should be done. In the busy office it is generally done at odd times, when the bookkeeper is not otherwise occupied, but it must be completed at the close of each month, in order to take a trial balance.

When posting, the utmost care should be exercised that all debit items be carried to the debit side of the proper accounts in the ledger, and all credit items to the credit side of the proper accounts in the ledger.

It is quite a common error to post a debit item to the credit side, or a credit item to the debit side of an account, especially when the student is taught to post alternate debits and credits. The practical bookkeeper rarely posts in this manner, but instead posts first all his debits, then all his credits. As he is at all times posting to only one side of the ledger, he reduces to the minimum the danger of posting an amount to the wrong side of an account.

Opening Ledger Accounts.—Examine the model ledger on page 8, and notice the form and arrangement of the accounts. Take a sheet of ledger paper and open accounts as follows: At the top of the first page write your own name. (For form, see account of A. H. Harper in model ledger, page 8.) See that each name is in the center of the page. On the fifth line below write Cash; 12 lines below Cash write Merchandise; 12 lines below Merchandise write Expense. Number your journal page 1; number your ledger page 1.

SUCCESSIVE STEPS.

FIRST STEP.—All amounts in the debit money column of your journal are carried to the left-hand or debit side of your ledger. All amounts in the credit money column of your journal are carried to the credit or right-hand side of your ledger.

The first item on the debit side of your journal is Cash; the amount is $4000. Turn to the Cash account in your ledger and write the amount on the debit side of this account. Place the page of the journal (1) in the folio column of the ledger, and write the date on which the journal entry was made (Jan. 1) in the date column of the ledger, placing the current year above the first entry in the date column for the purpose of indicating the year. The following illustrates the form of your ledger entry.

Cash

1900	Jan 1		1	4000
------	-------	--	---	------	--	--	--	--	--	--

Next enter the page of the ledger (1) in the folio column of the journal. The following illustrates the form.

1	Cash	Commenced the	4000
	Student's name	Flour and Grain							4000 business investing
		cash

In posting always place the number of the page of the journal from which the amount is posted in the folio column of your ledger, and place the number of the page of your ledger on which the account is written in the folio column of your journal. This is termed "postmarking."

SECOND STEP.—All the debits in your journal should be posted first, then the credits.

The next debit item in your journal is Expense; the amount is $75. Turn to your Expense account in the ledger and write $75 in the amount column. Place the page of the journal (1) in the folio column, and the date of the transaction (Jan. 2) in the date column. The following illustrates the form of your ledger entry.

Expense

------	-------	--	---	----	--	--	--	--	--	--

Place the page of your ledger (1) in the folio column of your journal. (For form of entry, see illustration of journal in first step; also see model journal on page 6.)

THIRD STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Expense; the amount is $15. Turn to the Expense account in your ledger and place the amount on the debit side, writing the page of the journal in the folio column of the ledger, and the date (Jan. 3) in the date column of the ledger. The following illustrates the form of the entry, showing the Expense account as it should appear in your ledger at the present time.

Jan 2	1	75
3	1	15

Write the page of the ledger in the folio column of your journal.

FOURTH STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Expense; the amount is $27.50. Post this to your ledger, as previously instructed. The following illustrates the form of an Expense account with three items entered thereon.

Jan 2	1	75
3	1	27 50

FIFTH STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Expense; the amount is $10.50. Post as before to the left-hand side of Expense account in the ledger. Do not neglect to place the ledger page in the folio column of your journal.

SIXTH STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Merchandise; the amount is $530. Post this to your ledger as previously instructed. The following illustrates the form of the entry.

Merchandise

Jan 14	1	530

ELEVENTH STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Cash; the amount is $140. Turn to the Cash account in your ledger and make entry on the debit side, placing $140 in the amount column, the page of your journal in the folio column, the date of the transaction (Jan. 6) in the date column. Place the ledger page in the journal folio column.

TWELFTH STEP.—The next item on the debit side of your journal is Cash; the amount is $80. Post this amount to the debit side of the Cash account in your ledger.

THIRTEENTH STEP.—The next and last item on the debit side of your journal is Cash; the amount is $112. Post this to the debit side of the Cash account, as previously instructed.

You should now have five items on the debit side of your Cash account; namely, $4000, $285, $140, $80, and $112. All the items on the debit or left-hand side of your journal have now been transferred to the debit or left-hand side of your ledger.

FOURTEENTH STEP.—As you have finished posting the debit items, you should next post the credit items of your journal to the credit or right-hand side of your ledger.

The first credit item in your journal is that in which you are credited with your investment, $1000. This should be transferred to your account on the credit side of the ledger. The following illustrates the form of the ledger entry.

Student's Name.

190-		190-
Jan. 1	1 4000

Be sure to place the page of your ledger in the folio column of the journal immediately preceding your name.

FIFTEENTH STEP.—The next credit item in your journal is Cash; the amount is $75. Transfer the amount to the credit side of the Cash account in the ledger.

The following illustrates the form of the Cash account in your ledger as it should appear at the present time.

Jan. 1	1 4000	Jan. 2	1 75
5	1 285
5	2 140
5	2 112

SIXTEENTH STEP.—Transfer the remaining credit items of your journal-daybook to your ledger. (For form of ledger showing accounts with several items entered thereon, see model on page 8.) The Cash account in your ledger will contain eight credit amounts, and the Merchandise account four credit amounts.

All the credit items of your journal have now been transferred to the credit or right-hand column of your ledger.

As the amounts in the debit and credit columns of the journal are equal, it is evident, if you have made no mistake in transferring the entries, that the amounts on the debit and credit sides of your ledger must also be equal; that is, that the sum of the amounts on the debit side of your ledger should equal the sum of the amounts on the credit side of your ledger. To ascertain if this is true, we take what is known as a trial balance.

TRIAL BALANCE

Take a sheet of journal paper, write the words Trial Balance at the top, and under it, at the left, write the names of all the accounts that appear in your ledger, with the ledger page in the folio column. The following illustrates the form.

Trial Balance. Jan. 6, 190-

	A. H. Harper Cash Merch. Expense
--	---	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

The names of the accounts in the left-hand column must be the names of the accounts in your ledger.

The footing of the debit side of all the accounts in your ledger must be entered in the debit or left-hand column of your trial balance. The footing of the credit side of all the accounts in your ledger must be entered in the credit or right-hand column of your trial balance.

The first account in the ledger is the proprietor's (your own) account. There is nothing on the debit side, hence no entry will be made in the debit column of your trial balance. There is $1000 on the credit side of your account. Enter this amount ($1000) in the credit or right-hand column of your trial balance. The following illustrates the form; the amount is different.

Foot the debit and credit sides of your Merchandise account, writing the footing in lead-pencil figures, as previously explained. Transfer the footing of the debit side to the debit column of your trial balance, and the footing of the credit side to the credit column of your trial balance.

Foot the debit side of your Expense account, and transfer the footing to the debit side of your trial balance. There is nothing on the credit side of your Expense account. (For form of complete trial balance having amounts entered thereon, see below.)

Add both the debit and the credit columns of your trial balance; the footings should be equal. If the footings of the debit and credit columns of your trial balance are not equal, it is evident that an error has been made, and you should review your calculations and find the mistake.

The following is the form of a trial balance containing the same number of items found in your trial balance. The amounts are different.

Trial Balance, Jan. 6, 190-

A. H. Harper		3000
Cash	6200	5100
Merch.	6100	4342
Expense	142
	12442	12442

NOTE.—All ruling should be done in red ink unless otherwise instructed by the teacher.

The footing of your trial balance should be $6005.

Present your journal, ledger and trial balance to your teacher for approval. Do not attempt any further work until your teacher certifies to the correctness of what you have already done.

DIRECTIONS FOR CHECKING FROM JOURNAL TO LEDGER.

In order to avoid mistakes in posting, many bookkeepers check every item from the journal to the ledger after it has been posted. As you have completed the posting for the month of February, you may check your entire journal to your ledger. On page 1 of your journal you find the item Cash, Dr., $2500. Put a small check mark opposite the $2500, as shown in the following form.

January 1, 190-

Cash	Commenced the	3500
F. W. Leonard	Flour and Grain		3500
	cash

Turn to the Cash account in your ledger; the $2500 should appear as the first entry on the debit side of the Cash account. If you find it there, place a small check mark opposite the $2500, as shown in the following form.

Cash

Jan.	1		1 3500

Check all your debits first. See that each debit item in the journal has been carried to the debit side of the account named in the ledger, and place a check mark against each account both in the journal and in the ledger. Check the credit items in the same manner.

If any posting has been omitted, you will discover it in the checking; or if any item has been posted twice, or to the wrong side of an account, it will appear unchecked and will thus be detected. This process of checking requires a little extra time, but it prevents many errors in trial balances, and the student will find it a profitable exercise.

A hard, sharp-pointed pencil should be used for checking and for pencil footings in the ledger. Make your figures and check marks light.

No. 34.—Foot your ledger in light lead-pencil figures, as explained on page 19, and take off a trial balance, as explained on page 18. Your trial balance must show the footings of each account in your ledger. When accounts balance they should be omitted from the trial balance.

No. 35.—Submit your journal-daybook, ledger and trial balance to your teacher for examination and approval.

Indorsing a note consists in writing your name on the back of the note, about one and one-half inches from the upper end. The effect of an indorsement is to make the person who writes his name on the back of a note responsible for its payment in case the maker fails to pay the note when it is due. If the note is payable to order, the indorsement is also necessary for the purpose of transferring the title.

The following is a form of indorsement commonly used in transferring notes like that referred to in transaction No. 65.

Post from your journal, following directions for posting on page 13. Take a trial balance (see instructions below), and present your journal, ledger and trial balance to your teacher for approval.

In taking the trial balance, March 31st, you may write only the difference between the two sides of each account in the money columns of the trial balance. Pencil foot your ledger accounts as usual. On the larger side of the ledger account, in the explanation space, near the top of the account, write the pencil footing of that side of the account; underneath it write the pencil footing of the smaller side; subtract, writing the remainder underneath, and leave these pencil figures in your ledger. Carry this remainder only into the trial balance opposite the name of the account, and on the larger side. Use a hard, sharp-pointed pencil and make your figures small like all pencil footings. (See Cash and Merchandise accounts in model ledger, page 8, to show the method of finding the difference between the sides of accounts to be used in this form of trial balance.)

The following is a trial balance taken in this manner from the model ledger on pages 8 and 9.

DIRECTIONS FOR FINDING MISTAKES IN TRIAL BALANCES.

The debit and credit columns of your journal are equal. If the items are posted correctly, it is evident that the debit and credit sides of your ledger will also be equal. The debit and credit money columns of your trial balance should be equal, as the trial balance is made up of the differences between the debit and credit money columns of your ledger; but every bookkeeper finds from practical experience that errors occur, and it is by no means uncommon to find a difference between the debit and credit money columns of the trial balance when it has been taken off from the ledger.

If you have checked the items from the journal to the ledger, as directed on page 26, any mistakes in posting should be discovered, but many bookkeepers do not check, using every other means of finding mistakes before resorting to this expedient; for, in a large business, it is a considerable addition to the work of the bookkeeper if he is obliged to check all postings a second time.

The following directions will, it is believed, enable you to detect most mistakes.

1. Verify your additions, both in the trial balance itself and in each account in the ledger.
2. See that the subtraction has been correctly performed in finding the differences between the sides of the ledger accounts.
3. Find the exact amount of the difference between the two sides of the trial balance. Look through your journal and see if any such amount appears in either column of the journal. If you find the amount, it has very probably been omitted in the posting and will rectify the error.
4. Look in the journal for an amount equalling half the difference between the two sides of the trial balance. A debit amount of half the difference posted to the credit side, or a credit amount posted to the debit side of the ledger would give the amount of the difference.
5. See if the difference between the sides of the trial balance is divisible by 9; if so, it is probable that figures have been transposed in posting, e. g., 39 posted as 93. There is no method of locating such an error except by checking.

Finally, if the error is not discovered by any of these methods, it is necessary to check from the journal to the ledger. In doing this work be sure that you check in both books. If this is carefully done errors must be detected.

STATEMENT.

In addition to keeping accounts, the bookkeeper must be able to show at any time whether the business is profitable or unprofitable, and from what sources (accounts) the gains and losses arise. This is usually done at stated periods—generally yearly—by making a statement which shows in detail just what property or resources the business has on hand, what debts or liabilities it has outstanding, what gains it has made, and what losses it has sustained. From this material it is easy to show the present standing or worth of the business, and determine whether it is prosperous or unprosperous, as well as to indicate the sources from which the gains arise or the losses occur.

The first step in making out a statement is to take an inventory of the property on hand.

INVENTORY.

An inventory is a list of unsold merchandise and other property on hand at the time the statement is rendered. Since Merchandise is debited when bought, and credited when sold, it is evident that the value of unsold merchandise must be ascertained before it can be determined whether there has been a gain or a loss. A complete list of every article of merchandise is taken and kept in a book or on sheets, with the value indicated. The cost price of merchandise is generally assumed to be the value of the goods unless there has been a decided rise or fall in the market price since the articles were purchased. By comparing the purchases and sales in your journal, it is found that you should have on hand the following.

INVENTORY, MAR. 31, 19—.

2830 bu. Corn,	35¢,	990.50
1250 " Oats,	30¢,	375.
400 " Rye,	55¢,	220.
213 brls. Flour,	3.90,	830.70	2416.20

CLASSES OF ACCOUNTS.

Every business will contain two classes of accounts, which may be called Accounts of Business and Accounts of Finance.

Accounts of Business are those accounts which indicate a gain or a loss to the business, such as Merchandise, Expense, Interest, Discount, Real Estate, and other accounts of a similar nature. The chief business account of any business will be Merchandise, for it is from the buying and selling of goods that the principal profit is derived. All accounts of business are placed together on a statement known as a statement of losses and gains. The following is the form of such a statement.

Statement of Losses & Gains, Mar. 31, 19—

		LOSSES.	GAINS.
Merch.	Value of unsold	4200.
"	Excess of cost over sales	3642.
"	Gain		555
Expense	Cost	126.50
Net Gain		431.50
		555	555

HOW TO MAKE OUT A STATEMENT OF LOSSES AND GAINS.

Take a sheet of journal paper and write at the top thereof, Statement of Losses and Gains, March 31, 19—. All losses are placed in the left-hand or debit column of the statement, and all gains are placed in the right-hand or credit column.

1. Take the amount of merchandise which you have on hand, as shown by your inventory, $2416.20, and place it after Merchandise, value of unsold, writing it short, as shown in model, page 35.

2. The excess of the debit over the credit side of your Merchandise account, as shown by your trial balance, is $1736.50. Take this amount and place it after Merchandise, excess of cost over sales, writing it short, as shown in model.

3. It is evident, from the above, that you have paid out $1736.50 more than you have received for merchandise, and if you had no goods on hand your loss would be $1736.50; but it is estimated that the goods you have on hand are worth $2416.20, and could be sold for this amount, so in reality you have a profit of $679.70 ($$2416.20 - $1736.50 = \679.70). Write your profit in the Gain column after Merchandise Gain. (See model.)

4. The debit side of your Expense account is $104 greater than the credit side, so it is evident that there has been a loss on expense of $104. Place this amount after Expense in the Loss column.

5. Foot your Loss and Gain columns. The footing of your Gain column is $679.70, and the footing of your Loss column is $104; the difference between the footings is $575.70. As the Gain column is the greater, it is evident that the business has made a profit of $575.70. Write this amount after the words Net Gain, in red ink, in the Loss column. Now foot your Gain and Loss columns, and write the footings as shown in model. When an amount is written in red ink, it indicates the difference between two columns, or between two sides of an account. Red ink entries are always placed on the smaller side, and show that the opposite side or column is greater than the column containing the red ink entry by the amount of such entry.

ACCOUNTS OF FINANCE.

The second class of accounts in your trial balance may be called Accounts of Finance, since they represent money value or money indebtedness to the business. They comprise the resources or property of the business, and its liabilities or debts, and include such accounts as Cash, Bills Receivable, Merchandise (property on hand), Bills Payable, accounts with persons, etc. The difference between the resources or property of any business and its liabilities or debts will show the present worth of that business, and the Proprietor should have credit for this amount. To ascertain the present worth of the business, you should make out a statement of resources and liabilities. The following is the form of such a statement.

Statement of Resources & Liabilities. Mar. 31, 190-

		RESOURCES.	LIABILITIES.
Merch.	as per Inventory	4200
Cash	amount on hand	1825 30

Bills Rec.	notes on hand	7 45
L. C. Kean & Co.	due them		1260
Calhoun, Robbins & Co.	" "		1865

Bills Pay.	notes outstanding		1865
Present Worth			3597 25
		9012 25	9012 25

HOW TO MAKE OUT A STATEMENT OF RESOURCES AND LIABILITIES

Take a sheet of journal paper and write at the top thereof, Statement of Resources and Liabilities, Mar. 31, 19—. Write on the statement the names of all accounts in your ledger, except your own, Expense, and Loss and Gain, as shown in the above model, but do not put any figures in the amount columns. The left-hand or debit column of your statement is used for your resources; the right-hand or credit column is used for your liabilities.

1. Take the amount of merchandise you have on hand, as shown by your inventory ($2416.20), and place it after Merchandise, in the Resource column.

2. The debit side of your Cash account, as shown by your trial balance, is $1145.50 more than the credit side. This is a resource, and should be written after Cash in the Resource column.

3. The debit side of the account of W. A. Scott, as shown by your trial balance, is $377 more than the credit side. This is a resource, and should be placed after W. A. Scott in the Resource column.

4, 5. Treat the accounts of S. A. Dodge & Co., J. S. Sumner, E. H. French & Co., Emerson & Sons, Wm. Archer & Co., Weston & Hill and Roberts Bros. in a similar manner.

6. The debit side of your Bills Receivable account, as shown by your trial balance, is $669.50 more than the credit side. Place this amount in your Resource column. In making up your statement all resources should be given first, then the liabilities.

7. By referring to your trial balance, it is ascertained that the credit side of your Bills Payable account is $845 more than the debit side, hence you have a liability of $845. This amount should be placed after Bills Payable in your Liability column.

8. By referring to your trial balance, it is ascertained that the credit side of the account of A. J. Lane is $302 more than the debit side. Place the amount after A. J. Lane in the Liability column.

9, 10. Treat the accounts of W. H. Stevens, F. A. Smith & Co., Rice, Miller & Co., H. S. Clough & Co. and Kidder & Hill in a similar manner to that of A. J. Lane.

11. Find the difference between your Resource and Liability columns. The difference in the present instance is $3042.70. Place this amount in your Liability column, in red ink, after the words Present Worth. The difference between the resources or property of any business and its liabilities or debts will show the present worth of that business. In case the liabilities or debts should exceed the resources or property, it is evident that there would be no present worth, and that the business would be insolvent; that is, it could not pay its debts if called upon to do so.

12. You will now make out a proof of your statement of resources and liabilities. See model below.

Proof of Statement.

D. H. Martin PROPRIETOR	Invested	3300.
	Withdrew	1412.50
	Net Investment		3158.75
	Net Gain		431.50
	Present Worth					3590.25

The amount of the Proprietor's investment is taken from the credit side of his ledger account. In your ledger this amount is $2500. The amount of his withdrawals is taken from the debit side of his ledger account. In your ledger this amount is $33. Subtract the withdrawals from the investment, which will give you the net investment, and in your case the amount is $2467. Place this after your name, as shown in model.

13. The amount of your gain, as shown by your loss and gain statement, is $575.70. Place this after Net Gain.

14. Your net gain added to your investment should give the present worth of the business, which is $3042.70. This amount agrees with the amount shown in the statement of resources and liabilities, hence the statement is correct. If the business shows a loss, the amount of the loss should be subtracted from the net investment to find the present worth.

MODEL LEDGER.

The preceding two pages represent a model ledger properly closed and ruled. The student should carefully examine the form and ruling.

HOW TO CLOSE THE LEDGER.

Close your accounts of business first, then your accounts of finance.

Merchandise.—The first account in your ledger which shows a loss or a gain is Merchandise. The debit side of this account is $1736.50 more than the credit side. This indicates that you bought $1736.50 worth more merchandise than you have sold, but you still have on hand (see inventory, page 35), $2416.20 worth of merchandise. It is presumed that you can sell this merchandise for its cost value, $2416.20; if so, Merchandise should be credited for this amount. Place your inventory on the credit side of your Merchandise account in red ink. Write March 31 in the date column, the word Inventory in the explanation column, and $2416.20 in the amount column. (See illustration below; also see illustration in model ledger, page 40.) The footing of the credit side of your Merchandise account, including the inventory, is now $8533.20. The footing of the debit side is $7853.50. As the footing of the credit side is the larger, it is evident that there has been a gain of $679.70 ($8533.20—$7853.50=$679.70). Place the amount of the gain, in red ink, on the debit side of Merchandise account, writing March 31 in the date column, the word Gain in the explanation column, and $679.70 in the amount column. (See illustration below; also model ledger, page 40.) Foot your Merchandise account, rule it, and bring your inventory below the ruled lines on the debit side.

You made an entry of the gain ($679.70), in red ink, on the debit side of your Merchandise account, which of course throws your ledger out of balance. Transfer this amount, in black ink, to the credit side of the Loss and Gain account, writing the page of Merchandise in the folio column of the Loss and Gain account and the page of Loss and Gain in the folio column of the Merchandise account. (See illustration below.)

Loss & Gain

Expense.—The debit side of the Expense account is $104. As there is nothing on the credit side, it is evident that expense has cost the business $104. Write the amount of the loss on the credit side of the Expense account, in red ink, and foot and rule the account. (See illustration below.)

The debit side of the Proprietor's account shows withdrawals to the amount of $33; the credit side shows an investment of $2500 and the gain, $575.70, making a total of $3075.70. It is evident that the present worth of the business may be found by taking the difference between the sides of the Proprietor's account. The difference between the sides is $3042.70. Make an entry on the debit side of the Proprietor's account, in red ink, for this amount, and foot and rule the account. Transfer the amount, in black ink, to the opposite side of the Proprietor's account on the first line below the ruling under date of April 1st.

The following represents the form of a Proprietor's account properly footed and ruled. The figures in the amount columns are different from the figures in your books.

				Apr. 1	Present Worth		740030

Accounts of Finance.—With the exception of the Proprietor's account, it is not customary to close the accounts of finance. Should a personal account balance at any time, it may be footed and ruled, or a single red line may be drawn under each side to indicate that the account balances. (See model on page 41.) Should it be desired to close the accounts of finance at any time, this may be done by taking the difference between the sides and placing it on the smaller side, in red ink, writing the word Balance in the explanation column. (See Cash account in model ledger, page 41.) The accounts may then be footed and the red ink balance brought below the ruled lines on the opposite side from which it is written.

INSPECTION BY TEACHER.

Your ledger is now closed. Present the work to your teacher for inspection. Be sure that every detail has received proper attention, and that no dates, page marks, nor explanations have been omitted. Notice the fact that your closing entries in the ledger are in red ink, and that all transfers are in black ink. Some accountants use no red ink, but make all entries and rulings in black ink.

PROOF TRIAL BALANCE.

After closing the ledger, the student should take off a proof trial balance in order to be sure that the ledger is in balance before making additional entries therein.

HOW TO MAKE OUT A PROOF TRIAL BALANCE.

Take a sheet of ordinary journal paper, and at the top write the heading Proof Trial Balance, March 31, 190-. Do not write the names of the accounts in the explanation column, as the amounts are sufficient for this work (see illustration, page 47). Commence with the first account in your ledger. If the balance is on the debit side, write the balance in the debit column of your proof trial balance; if the balance is on the credit side, write the balance in the credit column. In the present instance the balance as shown by your account is $3042.70. Place this in the credit column of your trial balance. The balance as shown by your Merchandise account (as brought below the ruled lines) is $2416.20. Place this in the debit column of your trial balance. There is no balance shown by the Expense account or Loss and Gain account, so omit these accounts from your trial balance. The balance shown by your Cash account is $1145.50. Place this in the debit column of your trial balance. Continue this process until the balances of all the accounts in your ledger have been placed on your trial balance, then foot your trial balance. If it balances, present it to your teacher for examination and approval.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE STUDENT.

You are now to act as bookkeeper for James M. Hastings, who commences the Flour, Grain and Produce business to-day (April 1), at 146 Elm St., your city. You will receive a salary of $60 per month. Your teacher will furnish you all the vouchers (business papers) and blank forms necessary to perform the numbered transactions which follow.

You will get the same experience you would in a real business, so far as it is possible within the limits of a school to give this experience. Bills of merchandise bought, and other business papers, will be given you by your teacher, or will come from a pad of incoming vouchers, just as they would come to the business house by mail. These papers are similar in every respect to those used in business. All papers issued by the business are to be written up by you, and all transactions must be recorded in the books exactly as in real business.

As Mr. Hastings attends to the buying and selling, and is absent from the city a large part of the time, it will be necessary that you sign and indorse notes, checks and other negotiable paper during his absence, as well as keep the books of the business. In order to do this, you must have a power of attorney. Mr. Hastings gives this to you, and it forms the first of your incoming vouchers, which you will find in a pad marked "Incoming Vouchers." Remove this power of attorney from the pad and fill out the blank spaces. Read it carefully and see what powers it confers upon you, then fold lengthwise and write on the upper right-hand corner, Power of Attorney, J. M. Hastings, April 1, and the current year, and place the paper in your Voucher File.

A power of attorney is a legal document which confers upon the holder the right to perform certain acts specified therein, in the name of some other person who issues the power of attorney. It is generally witnessed by a notary public, who stamps the document with his seal.

Such a power of attorney as you have received should be presented at the bank with which the maker does business, and also at the post-office and express office, as it gives the holder the right to indorse post-office and express money orders in the name of the maker.

You will receive all goods purchased, deliver the goods sold, and make a full and complete record in the books of the business of all transactions which may occur.

The work in your books will not be like the work of any other student. Your selling price-list will be assigned by your teacher from the numbered lists found in the text-book, page 66. Your price-list will be unlike that of any other student, and you must adhere strictly to this price-list in order to get correct results.

Do not compare your books with those of other students. The results will be different, and you cannot learn too early the habit of self-reliance. Understand why you make each record, and you will succeed.

Before making the entry in your books for any transaction, determine first which accounts are affected by that transaction, and then which account is to be debited and which is to be credited, by applying the rules for debit and credit in the journal exercises to which you will be referred by number.

Books Kept.—The books which you will keep in this work are the journal-daybook and the ledger as principal books, and the check book as an auxiliary book.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

No. 1.—APRIL 1. After reading your instructions carefully, ask your teacher to assign you a selling price-list, and take from your incoming voucher pad the cash which shall constitute Mr. Hastings' investment. After this has been done, count your cash and place it in the envelope entitled "Cash Drawer," which you will find in your large envelope entitled "Business Forms."

Determine the debit by reading rule 3, page 10; determine the credit by reading rule 4, page 11. For transaction similar to this, see transaction No. 1, page 10. Make proper entry in your journal-daybook. The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

April 1, 190-

No. 2.—APRIL 1. Mr. Hastings has rented the building at 146 Elm St. from R. B. Hines. According to the lease he is to pay $100 per month rent. Pay the rent for April in cash, placing the cash in your "Cash Paid Out" envelope.

Determine the debit by rule 5, page 11; determine the credit by rule 6, page 11. The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

Expense	"Paid one month's	75

FIGURES IN THE CENTS COLUMN.—When the amount to be written consists of an even number of dollars, it is the custom of some bookkeepers to leave the cents column blank, while others write two ciphers in that column. A common error in bookkeeping is to omit the cents of an amount. If the ciphers are written in the cents column when the amount is an even number of dollars, this error is not likely to occur, otherwise the writing of ciphers in the cents column is a waste of time and makes the addition of a long column of figures more difficult. The better method is to indicate even dollars by writing a light dash in the cents column, as shown in the model below.

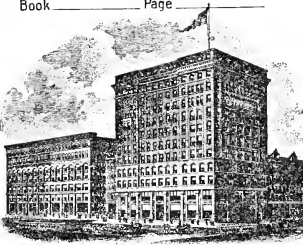

Flour,	250 lbs.,	at 4.50	1125 —
Oats,	600 bu.,	36¢	216 —
Corn,	225 bu.,	50¢	112 50
Rye,	101 bu.,	50¢	50 50
Barley,	100 bu.,	48¢	48 — 1552 --

In paying out money always make payment in bills of the largest denominations possible. In this instance you should take a hundred-dollar bill. Should you have occasion to pay out $75, you should make payment by using one fifty-dollar bill, one twenty-dollar bill, and one five-dollar bill.

Read the lease carefully and see what rights and restrictions it mentions. Place the receipt and the lease in the envelope marked "Vouchers for Others."

No. 3.—APRIL 2. This bill shows a cash purchase from Daniels Bros. of 200 Lrls. flour at $4.20 per brl., 400 bu. oats at 23¢ per bu.

You will find this invoice (No. 3) with merchandise cards (No. 3) on a pad in your envelope entitled "Incoming Vouchers." The vouchers, cards, etc., on this pad are numbered to correspond with the numbers of the transactions in this book. Be sure that the number of the voucher and the number of the transaction agree before attempting to make a book entry. Detach the invoice and the merchandise from the pad. See that you have on your cards the amount of flour and oats called for in the bill, and if so, check each item on the bill, using pen and ink and placing a check mark in the vertical column at the left of the bill. See that the multiplications and additions are correct, placing a check mark against each correct amount at the right. If the bill is correct, write O. K., with your initials underneath, in the lower left-hand corner. The following represents the form of a bill after it has been treated as explained above.

If the bill is correctly made out, take the money to pay it from your Cash Drawer, and place it in "Cash Paid Out" envelope. Place the merchandise in the envelope marked "Store Room." Determine the journal entry by referring to rule 7, page 12, and rule 6, page 11. The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

Fold the bill lengthwise, face outward, and write across the face, Entered, with the date underneath. Place it in the envelope entitled "Voucher File."

No. 4.—APRIL 2. This bill shows a purchase from D. Deavenport & Co., for cash, of 1200 bu. corn at 28¢ per bu., 150 brls. apples at $1.65 per bbl.

Check and O. K. the bill as in No. 3. Take cash to pay the bill from your Cash Drawer, and place in "Cash Paid Out" envelope. Place the merchandise in the Store Room. Your journal entry will be similar to No. 3. Fold the bill, write Entered across the face, and file as in No. 3. Follow all instructions in the exact order in which they are given.

No. 5.—APRIL 3. Mr. Hastings has taken this order and received the cash for the goods, 50 brls. apples, 50 brls. flour.

Copy the selling price-list which your teacher assigned you on voucher No. 5a, and paste it on the inside of the front cover of your text-book.

Select from your Store Room the merchandise which the order calls for, and make out a bill to J. A. Barker at your selling price on one of the blank billheads which you will find in your envelope entitled "Business Forms." Use one of the bills in your Voucher File as a model.

After making out the bill, review your multiplications and additions so as to be positive that they are correct. Remember that bills sent from an office must be right. If the bill is correctly made out, its amount will agree with the cash received with the order (No. 5), and you may receipt the bill and place the cash in your Cash Drawer.

Place the merchandise and the receipted bill in the envelope entitled "Vouchers for Others." Determine the debit by reading rule 3, page 10; determine the credit by reading rule 8, page 12. The following illustrates the form of the journal entry, though the amounts and explanation are different.

	Cash Mdse.	3 Sold M. B. Dale 10 brls. Flour 5.25 12 " Apples 2.25	8250	8250

You will notice that all merchandise which you sell is itemized in your journal-daybook, while that which you buy is entered in total only. In selling merchandise you give a bill to the person to whom the sale is made, and to preserve a complete record of the sale you must enter the items singly in your journal-daybook, for the purchaser may require of you a duplicate bill at any time, and unless you have the items in your books it will be impossible to prepare the duplicate.

When you buy merchandise you receive a bill, and as this bill is on file you can refer to it at any time that you desire to examine the items, so that it is necessary to enter the total only in your journal-daybook.

No. 6.—APRIL 3. Purchase, for cash, from L. A. Wright & Co., 1000 bu. oats, 125 brls. flour.

You will find this invoice (No. 6) and the merchandise cards (No. 6) on the pad of incoming vouchers. Detach the invoice and the merchandise from the pad, and compare the merchandise cards with the items on the invoice; if correct, check the items and verify the calculations.

Pay the bill by taking the proper amount of cash from your Cash Drawer and placing it in the envelope entitled "Cash Paid Out." In paying cash in this work always place the cash in the envelope entitled "Cash Paid Out." This envelope will be delivered to your teacher after the work has been completed.

Place the merchandise in the Store Room and make proper entry in your journal-daybook. (For entry similar to this, see transaction No. 3, page 51.) Fold and file your invoice according to instructions given in transaction No. 3, page 52.

No. 7.—APRIL 4. You have purchased, for cash, books and stationery as per invoice No. 7.

Take the invoice (No. 7) from your incoming voucher pad, verify, and if correct write your initials under the O. K. and pay the bill, placing the cash in the envelope entitled "Cash Paid Out." Determine the account to be debited by reading rule 5, page 11; determine the account to be credited by reading rule 6, page 11. Fold and file the bill.

No. 8.—APRIL 4. Sell E. M. Smythe & Co., for cash, 900 bu. oats, 900 bu. corn at your selling price.

Proceed according to directions given in transaction No. 5, page 52. Place the merchandise cards, with a receipted bill, in Vouchers for Others. Always count your cash before receipting a bill. Determine the debit by rule 3, page 10; determine the credit by rule 8, page 12.

No. 9.—APRIL 4. You have bought merchandise on account, as shown in invoice (No. 9).

Detach the invoice and the merchandise cards from the pad. Verify the calculations and O. K. the bill; if it is correct, place the merchandise in the Store Room. Make the proper entry in your journal-daybook. For entry similar to this, see transaction No. 15, page 23. Determine the debit by rule 7, page 12; determine the credit by rule 9, page 23.

This bill is not receipted. Why not? Fold lengthwise, write Entered across the face, with the date, and place it in your Invoice File. Place all bills bought on account in the envelope entitled "Invoice File."

No. 10.—APRIL 4. FIRST REPORT. Detach the report blank (No. 10) from your incoming voucher pad, and from your journal entries determine how much cash has been received. This will be shown by taking the sum of your cash debits. Write the amount opposite Cash Received in the report. From the cash credits in the journal find how much cash has been paid out, and write it opposite Cash Paid Out in the report. Write the difference between the cash received and the cash paid out opposite Cash on Hand in the report. This amount should agree with the amount of cash in your Cash Drawer; if it does not, trace the error. From the credits of merchandise in your journal find how much merchandise you have sold, and place it opposite Bills of Merchandise Sold in the report. These are all the results required in the first report.

You will now present the report to your teacher, with your journal, "Vouchers for Others" and "Cash Paid Out" envelopes. Examine every voucher carefully to see that it is correctly made and checked, as well as neatly written. Poor work will not be accepted, and it is a waste of time to hand it in. Rewrite all work that is not your best before presenting it for inspection. If your work meets your teacher's approval, he will retain your Cash Paid Out, returning the remainder of your vouchers with your journal.

No. 11.—APRIL 5. Mr. Hastings has decided to open a bank account and has selected the Commercial Bank as the institution with which to do business.

Method of Opening a Bank Account.—If the person who wishes to open a bank account is not acquainted with the officers of the bank, he should get some one to introduce him. At the time of the introduction the cashier takes the depositor's signature in a signature book or on a card. The following represents the form of signature card when a person signs as attorney.

FORM OF SIGNATURE CARD.

In this instance you represent Mr. Hastings, and he has given you the power of attorney to sign his name. Take the power of attorney (No. A) from your Voucher File, and read it carefully. Next detach the blank card (No. 11) from your incoming voucher pad, and write the name of J. M. Hastings and your name thereon, according to form shown above. You should write the signature on the card in the exact manner in which you propose to write it on checks. Give the card to the bank. In case there is no regular bank in the school, your teacher will receive your signature card and transact with you the business of the bank. Make out a deposit ticket for $5000. The model shown on page 55 illustrates the form of ticket you should make out.

In making out a deposit ticket be sure to list currency and checks separately. Each check should be set down as a separate and distinct item. Take $5000 in cash from the Cash Drawer, and take the money, deposit ticket and bank pass book to the bank and present them to the teller, who will receive the cash and give you credit for the amount, by entering it upon the left-hand page of the bank pass book, with the date and his initials. (If the school has no regular bank, go to your teacher, who will make the teller's entry.)

Make no journal entry for this transaction. The $5000 has not left the business, but has been placed in the bank for safe keeping and is still at your disposal.

No. 12.—APRIL 5. On your incoming voucher pad you will find an order (No. 12) for merchandise from Chas. E. Hayes, who wishes to purchase on account.

Select the goods from the Store Room and check each item on the order as soon as filled. Make out the bill from your price-list, but do not receipt it. Place the number (12) on the bill. Verify your calculations and make your journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 10, page 24; determine the credit by rule 8, page 12.

In filling orders be sure that the proper merchandise cards accompany each bill. Unless you are careful in this respect, you will not have the right quantity of merchandise on hand when you take your inventory at the end of the month. If you have followed directions, the cards in your Store Room will then agree with the quantity of merchandise on hand.

Place the merchandise and the bill in the envelope entitled "Vouchers for Others." Fold the order lengthwise, face outward, and write Filled, with the date, across the face. Place the order in the Voucher File.

No. 13.—APRIL 6. This order calls for merchandise to be sold on account.

Select the goods and check each item upon the order as filled. Verify your calculations and place the order number on this and all following bills. Make entry similar to that for transaction No. 12. Fold and file the order.

No. 14.—APRIL 8. This invoice of merchandise (No. 14) is purchased on account. When terms are not mentioned, it is understood that the purchase is on account. Compare the merchandise with the items on the bill, and check each amount if correct. O. K. the bill, file it, and make your journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 7, page 12; determine the credit by rule 9, page 23.

No. 15.—APRIL 8. You have received cash (No. 15) in part payment of bill sold to Chas. E. Hayes on the 5th inst.

Count the cash, and if correct, write a receipt for the amount, using No. 2 as model. Place the cash in your Cash Drawer and the receipt in Vouchers for Others. Make proper entry in your journal-daybook. Determine the debit by rule 3, page 10; determine the credit by rule 11, page 25.

No. 16.—APRIL 9. Pay Hatheway & Reynolds $400 in cash.

Take the cash from your Cash Drawer and place it in the "Cash Paid Out" envelope, taking a receipt (No. 16) for the amount. Place the receipt in your Voucher File. Make proper entry in your journal-daybook. Determine the debit by rule 12, page 25; determine the credit by rule 6, page 11.

No. 17.—APRIL 10. Mr. Hastings has ordered this merchandise on account from Geo. C. Cary.

Examine the merchandise and see that it corresponds with the quantities called for in the invoice. Check each item, verify the calculations, and O. K. the bill. Make proper entry in your journal-daybook. Determine the debit by rule 7, page 12; determine the credit by rule 9, page 23. Fold the bill and place it in your Invoice File.

No. 18.—APRIL 10. This note has been received from Ellis & Rand in part payment for transaction No. 13.

Examine the note carefully. Who promises to pay the note? Who should receive credit for this note? Make proper entry in your journal-daybook. Determine the debit by rule 15, page 29; determine the credit by rule 11, page 25. Place the note in your Cash Drawer and keep it there until it is disposed of or paid.

Notes are not cash, but are kept in the Cash Drawer for convenience only.

No. 19.—APRIL 11. This order from Chas. E. Hayes is for merchandise on account.

Select the merchandise from the Store Room and make out the bill. Verify your calculations and make proper journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 10, page 24; determine the credit by rule 8, page 12. Place the bill and the merchandise in Vouchers for Others.

No. 20.—APRIL 12. This invoice is for merchandise purchased from L. A. Wright & Co. on account.

Check each item on the bill as you compare the merchandise with the items. Verify the calculations; if correct, O. K. the bill. Place the merchandise in the Store Room. Make proper journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 7, page 12; determine the credit by rule 9, page 23.

No. 21.—APRIL 14. Give L. A. Wright & Co. Mr. Hastings' note for $400, at 10 days, on account.

Make out a note, using Voucher No. 18 as model; also see form of note, transaction No. 54, page 30. Be sure to fill out the blanks on the stub of your note book before removing the note. Make proper journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 12, page 25; determine the credit by rule 16, page 30. Place this note in the envelope entitled "Bills Payable File," which you will find in your package of Business Forms. Do not lose the contents of this envelope, as you will be required to take from it each note or bill payable when it becomes due.

No. 22.—APRIL 14. This order from Ellis & Rand is for merchandise on account.

Select the goods and make out the bill. Verify the calculations and make journal entry. Place all bills to others with goods sold in Vouchers for Others.

No. 23.—APRIL 16. C. E. Hayes has given his check to apply on account.

The check is regarded as cash, because it can be converted into cash at once by presenting it at the bank. Examine the check carefully to see that it is properly dated, filled out, and signed. Make proper journal entry. Determine the debit by rule 3, page 10; determine the credit by rule 11, page 25. Place the check in your Cash Drawer and count it as part of your cash.

A check is an order written by a depositor, requesting the bank in which he has money deposited to pay a certain amount to some person named, or to his order, upon presentation of the check. The bank will require the person named to be identified, if he is not personally known, and will also require him to indorse the check; that is, write his name across the back at the left end of the check about one inch from the top.

No. 24.—APRIL 16. SECOND REPORT. From your journal find out how much cash has been received since the first report was made out, April 4, and write it opposite Cash Received. Find the amount of cash paid out during the same space of time, and place it opposite Cash Paid Out. Add the cash received to the cash on hand shown in the first report, and subtract the cash paid out from this amount. The remainder will be the amount of cash on hand; but $5000 of the cash on hand is in the Commercial Bank, as shown by the stub of your check book. Write this $5000 opposite Cash in Bank, subtract from the cash on hand, and the remainder will be the amount in the cash drawer, which should agree with the actual currency in your Cash Drawer.

Find the amount of merchandise sold since the first report; also notes issued by the business. The latter will be found by taking the credits of Bills Payable in your journal, which should correspond with the bills payable in your envelope entitled "Bills Payable File."

Examine your vouchers to see that they are correct in every respect. Hand the report, with your journal, Cash Paid Out, and Vouchers for Others, to your teacher.

No. 25.—APRIL 17. Give George C. Cary a check for $300, to apply on account.

Open your check book and fill out the stub as shown in the following form of check book stub. The stub is the original entry of this transaction, and should be filled out before the check.

	Three hundred & 00/100		Dollars
	J. M. Hastings by Student, V. C. C.

In filling out a check be sure to commence writing the amount of dollars at the extreme left-hand end, as shown in model, and fill up the blank space after the amount with a waved line. Failure to observe these instructions may render the maker of a check liable, in case the check should be raised by any dishonest person into whose hands it might happen to fall. Sign the check in the same manner in which you wrote J. M. Hastings' name upon the signature card.

You will notice that the above check is made payable to order. When a check is so written, the holder is compelled to indorse it before obtaining money thereon, or before transferring it to another person. If a check is made payable to bearer, it is transferable upon delivery without indorsement. Most banks require all checks to be indorsed before they will cash them. This is not necessary if the check is payable to bearer, but such practice affords a means of identification should any dispute arise as to who obtained the money.

Remove the check from the check book and place it in Cash Paid Out. Subtract the amount of the check from the amount in the bank, and bring down the balance. Geo. C. Cary will present this check at the bank, and when the bank pays it, the check will be charged to J. M. Hastings' account and deducted from the deposit he has made.

In order to make the check book agree with the bank account, you must subtract all checks when given and add all deposits when made. Errors in the check book are very common, and it will necessitate the utmost care on your part to prevent their occurrence.

Take a blank deposit ticket and write opposite the word Currency the amount of bills in your Cash Drawer, and under Checks write the amount of each individual check separately on the deposit ticket.

The accompanying illustration represents a deposit ticket properly filled out. The items are different from those on your deposit ticket.

Place the currency, checks and deposit ticket in your bank pass book, and present to the teller, or to your teacher if no bank is used in connection with the work. See that the proper amount is entered in the bank pass book, and add this amount to the balance in the Commercial Bank, as shown by the stub of your check book. Leave your bank pass book at the bank to be written up.

No. 42.—APRIL 30. THIRD REPORT. Prepare your report blank, showing cash received, cash paid out, cash on hand in the Commercial Bank, merchandise sold, and such other results as are called for on the report blank. Hand the report, together with your vouchers and journal-daybook, to your teacher.

No. 43.—APRIL 30. Draw a check on the Commercial Bank, in favor of your teacher, for the amount of your bank balance, and give the check to him.

POSTING.

In your ledger, at the top of page 1, write J. M. Hastings; 15 lines below write Merchandise. At the top of page 2 write Expense, and 15 lines below write Loss and Gain.

These accounts make a section of the ledger containing all the business accounts (see page 35), or accounts showing losses or gains; the Loss and Gain account, where these gains and losses are gathered under one head (see page 40); and the Proprietor, who receives the gain from the business or sustains the loss, should there be one.

These accounts make a section of your ledger containing accounts of finance (see page 36), which show in their balances resources to the business (see page 37). In large business houses accounts with persons owing the business are generally kept in a separate ledger, called the "Customers' Ledger" or "Accounts Receivable Ledger."

This third section of your ledger will contain all accounts of finance, which show in their balances a liability to the business.

In business it is, of course, not practicable to write the names of all ledger accounts before posting, and they are opened in the ledger in the order in which they appear in the journal; but separate sections of the ledger should be taken for each class of accounts.

Post your journal entries (see directions, page 13). Check back your postings (see directions, page 26). Take a trial balance of your ledger balances. If the trial balance is correct, take an inventory of your merchandise from the cards found in your Store Room. You should have on hand the following: 305 brls. apples; 200 brls. flour; 25 bu. barley; 675 bu. corn; 800 bu. oats; 1025 bu. potatoes. Find the value of these goods, using the latest cost price as shown by your invoices. Make statements according to forms on pages 35 and 37. Close your ledger.

The Cash Book.—Cash transactions will be numerous in almost any business, and from this fact it has been found advisable to take the Cash account from the ledger and place it in a book called the "Cash Book," which contains on its left-hand page all cash debits, with the name of the account to be credited in the left-hand explanation space, and in the right-hand explanation space a brief description of the transaction. The amount is entered in the left-hand money column. All items of cash paid out or cash credits are entered on the right-hand page of the cash book, with the name of the account to be debited in the left-hand explanation space, and a brief description of the transaction in the right-hand explanation space. The amount is entered in the left-hand money column.

Since the debit of the cash book shows all cash received, and the credit all cash paid out, it is evident that the difference between the two sides of the cash book should show at any time the amount of cash on hand.

It is unnecessary to keep a Cash account in the ledger, although some bookkeepers do so, carrying the total of the left-hand page to the debit side of Cash, and the total of the right-hand page to the credit side of Cash in the ledger.

The cash book should be balanced at frequent intervals. If a considerable amount of business is done in cash, it is well to balance the cash daily. In this and in all following sets, the Cash account will be kept in the cash book only, and not carried into the ledger. Remember the cash book is the Cash account of the ledger, therefore, the balance of the cash book must be carried into the trial balance when that is taken from the ledger.

The Sales Book.—It is customary in business to place all sales of merchandise, whether for cash, on account, or for a note, in a book called the "Sales Book." The footing of this book will at any time show the total sales of merchandise to date. This book does away with a long Merchandise account in the ledger, as the footing of the sales book is carried to the credit of Merchandise in the ledger at the end of each month, or as often as may be desired.

The second or right-hand money column of the sales book contains the amounts which are to be charged to the debit of the respective accounts, and all discounts and allowances must be entered in the first, or item, column.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

No. 1.—MAY 1. Being offered a higher salary, and considering that the business affords a better opportunity for advancement, you have accepted a position as bookkeeper for Henry F. Adams, wholesale dealer in Tea, Coffee and Spices, at 246 Main St., your city, at a salary of $75 per month. Mr. Adams will do all the buying and fix all selling prices of the goods, and as he is on the road a large part of the time, will give you a power of attorney similar to the one you received from Mr. Hastings, your former employer. File the power of attorney after filling in the proper names in the blank spaces. You will receive all goods, verify the prices, etc., attend to the filling of all orders, and to the delivery of the goods sold, and have full charge of the books of the business.

No. 2.—MAY 1. Ask your teacher to assign you a price-list from the numbered lists on pages 100 and 101, and take from your incoming voucher pad the cash required for Henry F. Adams' investment.

Make an entry in your journal-daybook, giving a description of the conditions under which the business is begun. Do not extend the amount of cash received in the money column. The following illustrates the form of your journal-daybook entry.

May 1, 190-

	Eben W. Jones has this day commenced the Wholesale Tea, Coffee and Spice business, at 172 North St., investing cash, $6000.
--	---	--	--	--	--	--

It is usually customary in commencing business to write in the journal-daybook a brief statement of the conditions under which the business was commenced, and if it be a partnership, a brief summary of the partners' agreement. This record is made in the journal-daybook, as a matter of convenience only. The amount is not extended in the money column, as this is a cash transaction, but the entry therefor is made in the cash book.

Cash Book Entry.—Enter the amount of cash received in your cash book. The following illustrates the form of the entry, but the amount and explanation are different.

Mdse., Dr., and Bills Payable, Cr., would be sufficient to record the transaction (see No. 54, page 30); but as Mr. Adams is purchasing of L. Hennes & Co. on account, it is advisable that their account in your ledger should show all transactions made with them, hence this account is carried to their credit in the ledger, and they are immediately debited for the note sent in payment.

No. 7.—MAY 2. You may deposit in the Commercial Bank all your cash, except $200, which you will retain in the Cash Drawer. Make out a deposit slip and hand it to the bank teller with the currency and bank pass book. Do not fail to enter the deposit on the stub of your check book.

No. 8.—MAY 3. This invoice of merchandise has been purchased of Shields Bros., City, for cash, and you receive a discount of 2%.

Verify the calculations, see that your discount is right, and if the bill is correct make a journal entry debiting Mdse. and crediting Shields Bros. Write a check for the amount called for. See that the stub of your check book is properly filled out before you detach the check from the book. Deduct the amount of the check from your balance in the bank. Place the check in Cash Paid Out, and place the invoice in your Voucher File. This is a cash transaction and should be entered in your cash book. Write on the credit or right-hand side of the cash book the amount, and in the first explanation space, Shields Bros., which is the name of the account debited. In the second explanation space write invoice of May 3.

No. 9.—MAY 3. Order No. 9 calls for a sale of merchandise on account.

Make out the bill, checking each item on the order as soon as entered on the bill. Verify your calculations and be sure the bill is right. In this month's work all sales of merchandise on account will be entered in the sales book. You will therefore enter the same items and prices on page 1 of this book. The following is the form of sales book entry; the amounts are different.

Enter the sale in your sales book, one line below your last entry, debiting F. C. Tenney. Place the date in the middle of the line, as in the journal. Many bookkeepers in making cash sales enter the sale in the sales book as usual, but do not post to the debit of the person to whom the sale is made, placing a check mark against his name. They enter the cash on the debit side of the cash book, with the name of the person or the word "merchandise," but do not post it from that book to the credit of the person, placing instead a check mark against his name in the folio column of the cash book. This method of handling cash transactions has its advantages, as it saves the two postings to the ledger, which offset each other. The footing of the debit side of the cash book will show the debit of cash, and the footing of the total column of the sales book will show the credit of merchandise, so that the proper debit and credit will appear, even though the person who made the purchase is not debited with the purchase and credited with the payment.

Many business houses, however, wish to know just how much business they have done with each customer, and this can only be shown by charging the customer for cash sales the same as for sales on account. When this is done his ledger account shows at a glance just how much business he is doing with the house each month, and this information is usually considered of much more value than the saving of time made by the bookkeeper when he omits to post such items.

In this and the following month's work, cash sales, except for occasional small purchases made by individuals who are not regular customers, will be entered in the sales book and charged to the persons making them, while the payments will be entered in the cash book and credited to the persons making them. In this way the ledger accounts of all regular customers of the business will show the amount of purchases they have made during the continuance of the business.

No. 11.—MAY 4. This order is for merchandise on account.

Make out the bill and check the items on the order. Enter the transaction in the sales book and place the order in your Voucher File. Be sure the amount is correct.

No. 12.—MAY 4. This bill is for books and stationery to be used in the office.

Verify the calculations, O. K. the bill, and write a check for the amount. Enter in the cash book. Do not fail to deduct the amount of the check from your bank balance. This is a common error and causes much trouble in balancing the bank account at the end of the month.

No. 13.—MAY 5. This bill is for office furniture and a safe, which Mr. Adams has purchased for permanent use in the business, and an account will be kept in the ledger with "Furniture and Fixtures."

Fill out a check for the amount and make the proper entry in the cash book, debiting Furniture and Fixtures instead of Expense.

No 14.—MAY 5. Mr. Adams, has decided to purchase the building and lot at 246 Main St. of the National Real Estate Co. Their price is $12000 cash. Not having this amount on hand, Mr. Adams has arranged with James D. Branson to indorse a note for him so that he may borrow $5000 of the Commercial Bank. The following is the form of note required.

$5000.00	(Your place here.)	May 5, 190
Four months after date I promise to pay to the order of James D. Branson
Five thousand		Dollars at Flous City Bank
Value received
No. 2	Due Sept. 5.	H. G. Adams, by Student, Atty.

Indorsing a note consists in writing one's name on the back of the note, and the person who thus writes his name becomes responsible for the payment of the note in case the maker fails to make payment when it becomes due. In the case of the note given above, the note is made payable to the order of the indorser, who writes his name upon the back and gives it to H. F. Adams. Adams takes the note to the bank, receives the money, and will pay the note when due. In case he should fail to do this, then James D. Branson would be called upon to pay it.

Write this note, using the model form on page 75, but make it payable at Commercial Bank. Take the note to your teacher, who will indorse it for James D. Branson, if it is correct; then take it to the bank for discount. The note is due Sept. 5th, which is 123 days after May 5th, the date of discount.

Bank discount is found by taking the simple interest on the face of the note for the time in days from the date of discount to the date of maturity; therefore, you may find the interest on $5000 at 6% for 123 days, which is $1xx.x0. Subtract this amount from $5000, and the remainder, $489x.x0, is the net proceeds or amount to be placed to your credit.

HOW TO CALCULATE SIMPLE INTEREST AND BANK DISCOUNT.

Bank discount is the simple interest on the face of commercial paper for its unexpired time; that is, from the date the paper is discounted to the day upon which it becomes due. In this work the exact number of days between these two dates will be used in all calculations of bank discount. For instance, a note dated May 1st at four months would be due Sept. 1st of the same year; but most banks discounting such paper for the full time would not calculate the interest on its face for four months (120 days), but would take the exact number of days between May 1st and Sept. 1st (123 days). This must be remembered in all calculations of bank discount. First find the date the note becomes due; next find the number of days to elapse from the day of discount to the day of maturity, and then calculate the simple interest on the face of the note for this number of days at the rate of discount given, and you have the bank discount.

The method of counting time for discounting notes varies in different banks, and often in the same bank. Some banks count months for the full number of months, and days for the fraction of a month; others count the actual number of days; while some few count one day more than the actual number of days.

If you have no special method of calculating simple interest, you may use the following rule:

Rule.—First, find one-thousandth of the principal, or face of the paper, by removing the decimal point three places to the left, then multiply by the number of days from the date of discount to the date of maturity, and divide by 6. The result will be the bank discount or simple interest at 6%. If any other rate than 6% be required, divide this result by 6, thus obtaining the interest at 1%, and multiply by the rate required.

The above rule is based on the following reasoning.

The interest on one dollar for 1 year	at 36%	36¢
" " " " " " 2 months	" "	6¢
" " " " " " 10 days	" "	1¢
" " " " " " 1 day	" "	1 mill.

But 1 mill is one-thousandth of a dollar; therefore, it is evident, according to this reasoning, that one dollar at 36% will double itself in 1000 days. If this is true of one dollar, it is true of any number of dollars, and if we take one-thousandth of any principal, no matter what it may be, we shall have the interest on that principal for one day at 36%. To find the interest for any number of days, it is only necessary to multiply the interest for one day, or one-thousandth of the principal, by the number of days, and we have the interest on that principal for the number of days given at 36%. Dividing this result by 6, we get the result at 6%; dividing it by 4, would give us the interest at 9%; or dividing by 9 would give us the interest at 4%, etc. When no rate of interest is mentioned, 6% is understood.

Discount Memorandum.—Take a discount memorandum and fill it out properly. Supply the items from Mr. Adams' note. Pin the memorandum and the note together, and hand them with your bank pass book to the bank teller, who will place the amount to your credit if you have calculated the discount and the net proceeds correctly.

The following is a form of memorandum which is in use. The name and amounts are not the same as appear in your memorandum.

FORM OF DISCOUNT MEMORANDUM.

MAKER	B. M. Parker

<small>The student will fill out this blank and pin to the Note before presenting it at the bank.</small>

In case no bank is conducted with this work, you may place the note and discount slip in Bills Payable File, and enter the amount of the proceeds on the left-hand page of your bank pass book, as shown in the following illustration.

190-	May 5	J. L. B. note proceeds	d. 102.50	4897.50
------	-------	------------------------	-----------	---------

After the amount has been entered in your pass book, place the net proceeds upon the left-hand stub of the check book, as shown in the following illustration.

190-	May 1	Branson note discounted.
		Proceeds	4897.50

Add the amount $4897.50 to the amount now on deposit.

Cash Book Entry.—Make an entry on the debit side of the cash book for the face of the note, $5000. The following illustrates the form of your entry.

May 5	Bills Pay.	Branson note at disc.	5000
-------	------------	-----------------------	------

By making an entry on the debit side of the cash book you debit Cash and credit Bills Payable.

Make an entry on the credit side of the cash book for the amount of the discount, $102.50. The following illustrates the form of your entry.

May 5	Discount	J. L. Branson note ^{due} ₁₂₃	102.50
-------	----------	--	--------

By making an entry on the credit side of the cash book you credit Cash and debit Discount.

The bank really gave you only $4897.50, but you can readily see that if the bank had given you $5000, you would have been required to take from the $5000 the sum of $102.50 and pay it to the bank for discount; and this is the principle upon which the cash book entries are made.

Rule 19.—Discount is debited when it is allowed to other persons, or when it is paid to the bank for cashing a note or draft before it is due.

It is evident that the accounts affected by the transaction in the above example are Cash, since cash has been received by the business; Discount, since discount has been allowed the bank for cashing the note 123 days before it is due; and Bills Payable, since Mr. Adams has given a note payable in four months. It is evident that Cash should be debited, since cash has been received (see rule 3), and that Bills Payable should be credited, since a note has been issued (see rule 16). Discount has cost the business value, since you have allowed the bank $102.50 for cashing a note before it is due; therefore, Discount should be debited (see rule 19).

If the entries were made in the journal, Cash and Discount would be debited and Bills Payable credited, according to the following form.

Cash,	4897.50
Discount	102.50
Bills Payable		5000.00

No. 15.—MAY 5. You have received from the National Real Estate Company the deed of the building and lot No. 246 Main St.

Write a check for the amount called for in the deed. In this transaction real estate has cost the business value, and therefore Real Estate should be debited. The Real Estate account is subject to the same rules as the Merchandise account.

A deed is always received when real estate is purchased, since the title to real estate is shown by this document. The document should be recorded as soon as it is received, since the seller of the real estate might dispose of it to another party, giving a second deed, and in such a case the deed first recorded would be held, at law, a good title to the property.

Rule 20.—Debit REAL ESTATE when purchased, and for all amounts paid for its improvement and permanent repairs.

No. 16.—MAY 6. This invoice has been purchased of the E. Westen Tea & Spice Co. by Mr. Adams.

Verify the calculations and file the invoice, making the proper entry in your journal.

No. 17.—MAY 6. This order is accompanied by a note for $500 to apply on account.

Make out the bill and check each item on the order. Enter in the sales book as a sale on account, making no mention of the note for $500 received with the order. In your journal make the proper entry for the note. What account should be debited? What account should be credited? Place the note in your Cash Drawer.

No. 18.—MAY 8. Take from your Cash Drawer the note received from A. A. Knowles & Co., and prepare a discount memorandum. Calculate the discount on the note from May 8th to the date of maturity (58 days). The discount on $500 for 58 days at 6% is $4.23. (For method of calculating discount, see page 76.) Make a discount memorandum and attach it to the note; take the note to the bank teller, and have the net proceeds entered in your bank pass book. Enter the amount on the stub of your check book, as explained in No. 14, and add the amount to your bank balance. Make an entry on the debit side of the cash book for the face of the note ($500), as in transaction No. 14. The following illustrates the form of your entry, though the amount and explanation are different.

May 8	Bills Rec.	Allen & Co. disc.	560
-------	------------	-------------------	-----

Make an entry on the credit side of the cash book for the amount of the discount. The following illustrates the form of your entry, but the amount and explanation are different.

May 8	Discount	Allen's note 48 ds.	4.48
-------	----------	---------------------	------

In case there is no bank, enter the proceeds in your bank pass book (see model and transaction No. 14, page 77), and place the note in Vouchers for Others.

No. 19.—MAY 8. Make out the bill, checking the items on the order. Verify your calculations and make the proper entry.

No. 20.—MAY 8. Take from your Cash Drawer F. C. Tenney's check in your favor, and enter it upon a deposit ticket. Indorse the check properly (see illustration, page 62), place the deposit slip with the check in your bank pass book, and have the amount entered at the bank. Enter the amount on the stub of your check book and add to your deposit. Make no entry in the cash book.

No. 21.—MAY 8. FOURTH REPORT.

Fill out the report blank, answering the first five questions. Balance your cash book (see model, pages 68 and 69) and see if the amount agrees with your report and also with your bank balance plus the amount in your Cash Drawer, if any. Hand in your cash book, journal, sales book and also all vouchers for inspection.

No. 22.—MAY 9. The invoice of April 30th received from West, Stone & Co. must be paid to-day, if you desire to take advantage of the 3% discount for payment in 10 days.

Take the invoice from you Invoice File and calculate the discount on the amount, $1693.50, at 3%, which is $51.20. Deduct this amount from $1693.50 and draw a check for the net amount of the bill. On the stub of the check show the amount of the bill and the discount, as well as the net amount shown by the check itself. You have paid West, Stone & Co. the entire bill of $1693.50, so you may enter on the credit side of your cash book the following.

May 9	West, Stone & Co.	Paid bill of $1693.50	1693.50
-------	-------------------	------------------------	---------

But West, Stone & Co. have allowed you $50.81 discount for paying the bill within 10 days, which is the same as if you had given them $1693.50 in cash and they had counted out $50.81 of this cash and handed it back to you as discount. Bearing this in mind, you will see that on the debit side of the cash book should appear the following entry.

May 9	Merch. Discount	W. S. & Co. bill $1693.50, 3%	50.81
-------	-----------------	--------------------------------	-------

Merchandise Discount is credited because it has produced value to the business, a bill of $1693.50 being settled for $50.81 less than its face.

Rule 21.—MERCHANDISE DISCOUNT is credited when it is allowed the business by other persons for the payment of a bill within a certain time.

A distinction is made between discount on notes and discount on invoices of merchandise. The former is called "Discount" simply, while the latter is designated as "Merchandise Discount," or "Commercial Discount." The two kinds of discounts are of entirely different characters, and should never be charged to the same account.

In the payment of bills on which commercial (merchandise) discounts are allowed, it is usually customary to have a special column in the cash book in which to enter the discount.

No. 23.—MAY 9. This order calls for your lowest cash discount. Make out a bill at the regular prices, and opposite Terms write, Cash 3%. Enter the sale in the sales book. Do not deduct the 3% discount. You have not yet received your cash; therefore, charge Fletcher Bros. with the full amount, and if they pay the bill within two or three days, allow them the discount, as it is customary to consider such sales the same as cash.

No. 24.—MAY 10. This purchase has been made of Shields Bros., City, by Mr. Adams. Verify the calculations, place the invoice on file, and make the proper entry.

No. 25.—MAY 10. The goods delivered to Fletcher Bros., May 9th, have been paid for, less 3% discount allowed for cash.

The face of the bill is $728.50. Three per cent of $728.50 is $21.85. The bill has been paid in full. Make an entry on the debit side of the cash book for the full amount of the bill ($728.50), writing Fletcher Bros. in the explanation column. Make an entry on the credit side of the cash book for the amount of discount, writing Merchandise Discount in the explanation column. This transaction resembles No. 22, but the conditions are reversed. You receive cash and allow merchandise discount, instead of paying cash and having merchandise discount allowed you.

Rule 22.—MERCHANDISE DISCOUNT is debited when allowed to other persons for the payment of a bill within a certain time.

No. 26.—MAY 11. Dickson & Young hand you this amount on acct., $200 in currency. Place the bills in your Cash Drawer, give a receipt, and make the proper entry.

No. 27.—MAY 11. Deposit $200 currency and the check of Fletcher Bros. in Commercial Bank.

Make a deposit ticket, placing $200 opposite Currency, and the amount of the check opposite Checks. Take the ticket with the cash and the check to the bank, and have the amount placed to your credit. Do not forget to add this amount to the balance on deposit, as shown on the stub of your check book.

No. 28.—MAY 12. Make out the bill and check each item from the order. File the order and make the proper entry.

No. 29.—MAY 14. H. F. Adams draws $100 for private use.

Make a check payable to the order of H. F. Adams, entering the proper explanation on the stub and deducting the amount from the bank balance. Make the proper entry. Get the cash from the bank, but do not put it in the Cash Drawer, as it is not for the business but for Adams' private use. As this $100 is not used in the business you may hand it to your teacher.

No. 30.—MAY 14. When Mr. Adams bought the building 2246 Main St., it was insured by the Equitable Fire Insurance Company for $3000. The policy, No. 27614, expired to-day, and you may write a check for $80 to pay for a new policy for the coming year. Do not fail to fill the stub and deduct the amount from your bank balance. Make the proper entry.

In case a large amount of insurance is carried, it may be advisable to open an Insurance account instead of carrying the cost of insurance to the Expense account, but in the ordinary course of business it may very consistently be carried to the Expense account, since there is no return from it.

No. 31.—MAY 15. Make a bill, with the terms called for in the order. Check each item. Place the order on file and make the proper entry.

No. 32.—MAY 15. This check is received on account. Write an acknowledgment of the remittance (see form, page 81) and place the check in your Cash Drawer, making the proper entry. Balance your cash book. Rule and foot, and bring down your balance on the debit side (see form, pages 68 and 69).

No. 33.—MAY 15. FIFTH REPORT. Make your report and see that your cash on hand in the report agrees with the cash as shown by the balance on the stub of your check book, plus the currency and checks in your Cash Drawer; and also see that it agrees with the balance of your Cash account, as shown in the cash book.

Present all books and vouchers to your teacher for approval.

POSTING.

You will post the entries for this month in the same ledger that you used for the April work, beginning on the first blank page, which you will number 1. Number the other pages as the accounts are opened.

At the top of page 1 write H. F. Adams. At the top of page 2 write Merchandise. In the middle of page 2 write Expense. At the top of page 3 write Merchandise Discount. In the middle of page 3 write Furniture and Fixtures. At the top of page 4 write Real Estate. In the middle of page 4 write Discount. In the middle of page 5 write Loss & Gain. You may now post your books. Post all entries from your journal as in previous sets.

H. F. Adams

Posting from the Sales Book.—The footing of the sales book should be placed to the credit of Merchandise in the ledger, since it indicates the amount of merchandise sold, and each sale entered in the sales book should be posted to the debit of the person to whom the sale was made, with the terms of sale in the explanation space. The ledger

The Telegram.—The telegram has become an important feature of modern business, and it is now used very extensively in ordering goods for immediate delivery. Most of the telegraphic business of the country is transacted by two companies, the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Postal Telegraph Company. The Western Union has communication with almost every city, town and village in the United States, and through the Atlantic cable, with almost every part of the world.

The charge for a telegram depends somewhat upon the distance, and, except in the case of cable messages, it is a fixed sum for a ten-word message, and an additional charge for each word in excess of that number, no charge being made for the name and address of the person to whom the message is sent or the name of the sender. Night messages, that is, messages sent at the convenience of the Company after 6 P. M., are taken at about half the regular rate, and a large proportion of business messages are of this kind.

In writing a telegram care should be taken to avoid the use of all superfluous words, and yet the message must be clear and definite, that mistakes may be avoided. Figures should be written out in full, since the charge is the same for a figure as for a word; for instance, 20 written in figures (20) would be charged as two words, while written in full (twenty) would be charged as only one word. In sending important messages, those in which a mistake would mean the loss of a large sum of money, it is better in every case to have the telegram repeated; that is, the operator at the point to which the message is sent after receiving it telegraphs it back to the operator at the sending point, and the sender knows that his message has been received as it was sent, which is not always the case, as telegraph operators are only human, and mistakes are by no means uncommon. The charge for repeating a message is one-half more than the original cost.

The cost of cablegrams is a certain amount for each word, and the same charge is made for the address as for the words which make up the body of the message. Business houses generally have a code for cablegrams; that is, the name and address are represented by one word; for instance, Smith, Jones & Robinson, 42 Soho Square, London, E. C., England, would be represented by a single word, as "Extract."

The following form of telegram shows the correct method of writing a message containing figures.

May 21	J. H. Vincent	3	10

All C. O. D. sales should be posted to this account, writing the name of the person to whom goods are sent in the explanation space at the left. The posting should be made immediately after the sale is entered in the sales book.

Some business houses enter C. O. D. sales in a special book kept for that purpose, and do not carry them into the main books until the return has been received. When this return has been received they enter the cash in the cash book, crediting Merchandise.

No. 41.—MAY 21. Take from your Cash Drawer the note of Dickson & Young received May 20th, and write the amount of discount upon a discount memorandum. Take the note and memorandum to the bank, where you will receive credit for the net proceeds, if correct. Enter in your cash book (see transaction No. 18).

Do not enter this in the sales book, as it is not for a regular customer, but carry it direct to the cash book, giving Merchandise credit in that book. Make a memorandum of the sale on a slip of paper, and place it in your Vouchers for Others.

In any wholesale house there will be more or less of these petty sales. They are not entered in the sales book, but carried direct to the cash book.

No. 46.—MAY 23. SIXTH REPORT. Render a report and take all papers to your teacher for approval. Do not balance your cash book, but see that the cash balance on your report agrees with the amount of cash in your Cash Drawer, plus your bank balance, and also that this amount is the same as the difference between the two sides of your cash book. Pencil foot the cash book up to this date.

Make out a discount ticket for the note of $$600$ received from A. A. Knowles & Co. yesterday. Calculate the discount and find the net proceeds.

Take the deposit slip, the checks, and the note properly indorsed, the currency, the discount ticket, and your bank pass book to the teller, who will give you credit for the deposit and for the net proceeds of the note. Do not fail to enter these amounts on the stub of your check book. Make the proper cash book entry. (See transaction 18, page 79.)

D. account, and give 3% discount for cash on bill (see No. 40).

No. 56.—MAY 28. Make out bill and verify the calculations. Place the order on file and make the proper entry.

No. 57.—MAY 28. This purchase is made of Chas. K. Fox, City. Place the invoice in your Invoice File and make the proper entry.

No. 58.—MAY 28. C. O. D. on S. E. Kingsley sent May 25th has been returned, and you may pay the express charges, 50%. Make the proper entry (see No. 47).

No. 59.—MAY 29. The goods called for in this invoice have been purchased of West, Stone & Co., New York, by Mr. Adams. Place the invoice on file and make the proper entry.

No. 60.—MAY 29. Send a check for $500 to Shields Bros., to apply on account.

No. 64.—MAY 31. You have received No. 64, a note for $700, at 10 days with interest from A. W. McKey, for which you will give him credit. See that the note is correctly written and place it in your Cash Drawer.

No. 65.—MAY 31. Deposit all cash in your bank. Have your bank book written up, and see that your balance agrees with the balance as shown on the stub of your check book.

No. 66.—MAY 31. Prepare your report and hand in all vouchers to your teacher for approval. Be sure that no careless work is handed in. Balance your cash book and see that the cash balance as shown by the cash book agrees with the bank balance as shown on the stub of the check book.

Some bookkeepers keep a Cash account in the ledger and carry to the debit side the footing of the left-hand page or pages of the cash book and to the credit side the footing of the right-hand page or pages of the cash book. This is unnecessary, since the balance of the cash book itself will show the same result that this account would show when balanced in the ledger. Keep no Cash account in the ledger, but do not forget to carry the balance of the cash book into the trial balance, the same as if the account were kept in the ledger.

Post from all your books to the ledger and check your postings. Be sure that the total of the sales book is carried to the credit of Merchandise. Make out your monthly statement to each customer. Take a trial balance of differences only, and be sure that the balance of cash is entered on the debit side of the trial balance.

Office furniture and fixtures are valued at 10% less than cost.

Office books, stationery and unexpired insurance are valued at $98.75.

Your real estate is valued at cost, as shown by the debit side of your ledger account.

Calculate the amount of your inventory, and write the items and amounts in your trial balance book. After you have taken the trial balance, prepare statements of gains and losses and resources and liabilities, according to instructions below.

In making your statement of losses and gains, include Merchandise Discount and Furniture and Fixtures; in making statement of resources and liabilities, always include all inventories of merchandise, furniture and expense items among the resources.

FORMS OF LOSS AND GAIN STATEMENT AND BALANCE SHEET.

In the previous work the student has prepared simply a statement of losses and gains and of resources and liabilities. This work was designed to familiarize the student with only the fundamental principles of bookkeeping. Now that the student has taken up the study of practical bookkeeping, we have introduced, instead of the elementary statements, the simplest forms of the accountant's regular loss and gain statement and balance sheet. The forms which we present are those which are universally used by experienced accountants and auditors.

The following illustrations differ in many respects from the forms which have heretofore been presented in text-books on bookkeeping, and we believe that all progressive teachers will welcome this change from the theoretical to the practical.

10 Furniture & Fixtures		2750

*To be written in red ink.

Analysis of Statement of Losses and Gains.—The loss and gain statement is closed in two sections. The first section represents the gain on merchandise, without taking into account the expenses of the business; the second section contains the expenses of the business, the gain on merchandise discount, and shows the net gain of the business proper. If there are transactions in stocks and bonds, or anything outside of the business, the gain or loss on such transactions should be included in a third section of the loss and gain statement.

On the debit side of the first section of the loss and gain statement, we have (1) merchandise on hand at the close of last month; (2) cost of mdse. during the month. These two items are entered in the first column, added, and their sums extended into the second column. In the above instance there was no merchandise on hand at the close of last month, hence there is no amount after this item.

On the credit side of the loss and gain statement in the first section, we have (3) amount of merchandise sold during the month; (4) merchandise now on hand, as per inventory.

The amounts of these two items are entered in the first column, and their sum extended into the second column. It is evident that the difference between the amount of merchandise on hand at the beginning of the month plus the amount purchased during the month, and the amount of merchandise sold during the month plus that on hand at the end of the month, will be the net gain on merchandise. This net gain in the above statement is found to be $1440, and the amount is written after No. 5, Gain carried down.

In the second section of the statement of losses and gains, we have on the debit side, (6) the cost of expense; (7) the amount of unexpired insurance and stationery, which, paid for under expense, has not yet been used; (8) the loss on discount; (10) the loss on furniture and fixtures on account of depreciation in value.

In the second section of the loss and gain statement, on the credit side, we have (11) the net gain on merchandise, which is written after Gain brought down (that is, this gain is brought down from the first section); and (12) the gain on merchandise discount. The difference between the sum of the debit and the sum of the credit amounts will show the net gain on the business. This gain is written in red ink after No. 13 on the debit side.

When the proprietor examines the above statement, he can tell at a glance the amount of merchandise purchased during the month, the amount of sales, the amount on hand, his gain on merchandise, and his net gain on the business proper; and if he has purchased and sold stocks and bonds, bank stock, real estate, or anything of this character, such transactions should be shown in a third section of the loss and gain statement, and the statement should show the gain on merchandise, the net gain on the business proper, and the net gain or loss on his entire transactions.

A business might be paying, and the proprietor still be losing money on account of losses sustained by outside transactions. The profit on merchandise might be sufficient, and still the business be conducted at a loss, on account of having enormous expenses. For this, and various other reasons, it is absolutely essential that the loss and gain statement should be closed in sections, so that the proprietor may determine at a glance the exact condition of his business.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE STUDENT.

HOW TO MAKE OUT LOSS AND GAIN STATEMENT FOR THE MONTH ENDING MAY 31.

The numbers given in the following instructions agree with the numbers given in model statement of losses and gains, pages 92 and 93.

1. Turn to the Merchandise account in your ledger. As this is the beginning of the business, there was no merchandise on hand at the beginning of the month, hence nothing will be written after Merchandise on hand at the close of last month, but you may write these words in your statement of losses and gains (see model, page 92).

2. The sum of the items on the debit side of the Merchandise account in your ledger represents the cost of merchandise during the month. Place the amount after Merchandise purchased during the month (see model.)

3. The sum of the items on the credit side of your Merchandise account represents the amount of merchandise you have sold during the month. Place the amount after Merchandise sales during the month (see model.)

4. Take the amount of your inventory and write it after Merchandise on hand now.

5. Take the difference between the sum of the items on the debit side and the sum of the items on the credit side of your loss and gain statement, and write the difference, in red ink, after Gain carried down on the debit side of your loss and gain statement in the second column, after which rule up the first section of your loss and gain statement, as per model.

6. Take the amount of cost of expense, as shown by your trial balance, and write it after Expense.

7. Take the amount of expense as shown by inventory, and subtract it from cost of expense. Extend the difference into the second column (see model, page 92).

8. Take the amount of the loss on discount, as shown by your trial balance, and write it after Discount.

9. Depreciation as under:

10. A depreciation of 10% has been allowed for wear and tear on office furniture. Write the amount of this depreciation, which is a loss to the business, after Furniture and Fixtures, under Depreciation (see model).

11. Bring down the amount of the gain shown in the first section of loss and gain statement, and write it under Gain brought down in the second section of loss and gain statement.

12. Take the gain on merchandise discount, as shown by your trial balance, and write the amount after Merchandise Discount.

13. Take the difference between the sum of the items on the debit side and the sum of the items on the credit side of your loss and gain statement, and write the amount, in red ink, after Net Gain. Rule up the second section of your loss and gain statement, as per model.

Analysis of Statement of Resources and Liabilities.—In preparing a statement of resources and liabilities, commence with the most available asset, Cash. Write the amounts of cash in safe and in bank separately in the first column. Find the sum of these amounts, and write the sum in the second column. (See model, pages 96 and 97.)

Various kinds of property owned by the business should next be listed under the title, Properties as under: Real estate is listed at its ledger valuation, on the presumption that it is worth at the present time the amount paid for it. Naturally there has been wear and tear, or depreciation, upon office furniture and fixtures. The cost of office furniture and fixtures should be shown in the first column, and under this should be written the amount charged off for depreciation. The difference, or present value of the furniture and fixtures, should be extended into the second column. Goods on hand should be inventoried at their cost price, and the amount written in the second column. If there is anything on hand which was charged to Expense when bought, it should be considered an inventory and listed in the second column.

The next title, Sundry trade debtors as under: should include all amounts owing the business by firms and individuals. The amount of notes we hold should be written after Bills Receivable, and the amount due us on account should be written after Open book accounts considered good. Usually an amount is deducted from Open book accounts as a reserve for bad debts. Open book accounts are also frequently divided into two classes—Open book accounts considered good and Open book accounts considered doubtful. If there are any other assets, they should be enumerated in detail on the debit side of the statement of resources and liabilities. In connection with this statement, it is usually customary to make out a list of all persons owing us and all persons whom we owe.

We next proceed to the enumeration of the liabilities. These are written on the credit or right side of the statement. The first title, Sundry trade creditors as under:, should include all persons or firms whom we owe, either by note or on account. The amount that we owe on our notes should be written after Bills Payable. The amount that we owe on account should be written after Open book accounts. If the business has other liabilities, they should be here enumerated. Find the sum of the liabilities, and write the sum in the right-hand column, drawing one red line, as shown in the model.

Next write the amount the proprietor has invested in the business, and from this amount subtract his withdrawal. To the remainder add the net gain from the statement of losses and gains, and extend the total to the last column, in red ink, under the title, Present worth of business. Foot and rule up the statement of resources and liabilities, as per model. A balance sheet or statement of resources and liabilities, made out as above, will show in classified form the actual assets and liabilities of the business. The proprietor of the business, in examining such a balance sheet, can tell at a glance the amount of property he has on hand, and the basis of its valuation, the balance sheet showing any amount that has been charged off for depreciation, or anything that has been added on account of the increase in value. All additions and subtractions should be made in the first column, and only the totals, or the differences, extended to the second column.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE STUDENT.

HOW TO MAKE OUT STATEMENT OF RESOURCES AND LIABILITIES FOR MONTH ENDING MAY 31.

1. Ascertain the amount of cash in the safe or drawer, and write it after Cash in safe.
2. Ascertain from your check book the amount of cash in bank, and write it after Cash in bank. The amounts of cash in bank and in safe should be added, and written in the second money column of the statement (see above model). The amount of cash shown by the statement should be the same as that shown on the trial balance.
3. Take the amount of real estate ($12125), as shown by your trial balance, and write it after Real estate, ledger valuation in the second column of your statement (see model form).
4. Take the amounts charged to Furniture and Fixtures, as shown by your trial balance ($231), and write it after Furniture and Fixtures in the first money column of your statement.
5. A depreciation of 10% is allowed on furniture and fixtures. Write the amount of depreciation ($23.10) after Less depreciation, and subtract this amount from the amount of furniture and fixtures, and extend the difference to the second column of your statement.

7. Write the inventory of expense ($98.75) after the proper title.

8. Take the amount of bills receivable, as shown by your trial balance, and write it after this number.

9. Find the sum of the amounts owing the business by different persons, as shown by your trial balance, and write it after this number. The persons who owe H. F. Adams are: A. A. Knowles & Co., Dickson & Young, A. W. McKey, F. C. Tenney, F. H. Randall & Co., Rice & Pond, E. Mason & Co.

The sum of the amounts owing the business by the above will be the amount of Open book accounts considered good.

10. Write the amount of bills payable, shown by your trial balance, after this number.

11. Find the sum of the amounts that H. F. Adams owes different persons, as shown by your trial balance, and write this sum after Open book accounts. Find the sum of your Open book accounts and Bills Payable, and write the sum under the single ruled line, as shown in above model.

12. Write the amount of H. F. Adams' investment after this number, according to model. The amount of his investment will be the total of the amounts on the credit side of H. F. Adams' account in the ledger.

13. Write the amount of H. F. Adams' withdrawals after this number. The total of the amounts on the debit side of his account in the ledger will be the sum of the withdrawals. Subtract the withdrawals from the amount invested, and write the difference below the single ruled line (see model).

14. Write the amount of the net gain, as shown by your loss and gain statement, after this number.

15. Add the net gain to the net investment (the difference between H. F. Adams' investment and withdrawals), and write the amount after this number in the last money column. Foot and rule your statement of resources and liabilities, as indicated in model.

Hand your statement of losses and gains and your statement of resources and liabilities to your teacher for approval. If correct, close your ledger, and hand in all your books to your teacher for examination.

EXERCISES IN BANK DISCOUNT AND INTEREST.

Take a sheet of journal paper and arrange a cash book for the following transactions. Write the notes on a sheet of foolscap.

In discounting notes, always find first the due date of the note, then find the actual number of days from the date of discount to the due date, and calculate the discount for this time.

MAY 1.—You have on hand D. H. Farley's note for $1200, dated this day, at four months. Have it discounted at the City Bank at 6%. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 2.—Desiring to borrow money, you arranged with E. M. Parker to indorse a note of $4500 for you, payable at the City Bank in 90 days, and the City Bank has discounted this note and placed the net proceeds to your credit. Write the note and make the cash book entries (see No. 14, page 75).

MAY 3.—You have on hand T. M. Hunt's note for $875.50, dated April 20th, at four months. Have this note discounted at the City Bank at 6%. Write the note and make the cash book entries.

MAY 4.—You have outstanding a note in favor of Reed & Barton, dated April 25th, at three months, for $950, and you pay it to-day less the discount for the unexpired time. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries. (Credit Discount.)

MAY 5.—You have on hand J. B. Freeman's note for $728.50, dated April 5th, at four months. He pays it to-day in cash, less discount for the unexpired time. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 6.—You have on hand C. B. Fenner's note for $1100, dated April 25th, at 90 days. Have it discounted to-day at 5%. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 7.—You have a note outstanding in favor of Charles Langdon for $1200, dated April 20th, at four months. If you will pay it now, Langdon offers to allow you 9% for the unexpired time. Accept the proposition and make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 8.—D. W. Evans & Co. owe you a note of $7000, dated April 30th, at four months. Needing the money, you offer them 8% discount if they will pay the note to-day, which they do. Make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 9.—You have on hand Sam. F. Curtis' note for $1200, dated April 20th, at 60 days, with interest at 6%. You have it discounted at the City Bank to-day. Write the note and make the cash book entries.

The above is an interest-bearing note, and in discounting an interest-bearing note, the bank will first find the amount due at maturity. S. F. Curtis' note of April 20th, at 60 days, will be due June 19th, and the interest on $1200 from April 20th to June 19th, 60 days, equals $12, which, added to $1200, makes $1212, the amount due June 19th. This amount should be written on the face of the note, in red ink, by the bank teller. You have the note discounted May 9th. The bank teller will find the time from May 9th, the date of discount, to June 19th, the date of maturity (41 days), and will compute the discount on $1212, the amount due at maturity, and deduct this discount from $1212, leaving $1203.72, the net proceeds of the interest-bearing note.

In this transaction, you have received $1200 for the face of the note. Debit Cash, $1200; in the first explanation space write Bills Receivable, and in the second explanation space, S. F. Curtis note 4 '20. The bank allowed you $12 interest. Debit Cash, $12; in the first explanation space write Interest, and in the second explanation space, on above note. The bank charged you discount, $8.28. On the credit side of the cash book write $8.28, in the first explanation space, Discount, and in the second explanation space, S. F. Curtis note 4 '20.

MAY 10.—You have outstanding a note for $1500 in favor of Barnes Bros., dated April 17th, at ninety days, with interest at 5%. Barnes Bros. need the money, and agree to allow you 6% discount if you will pay the note to-day, which you do. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries. (Credit Cash for interest; debit Cash for discount.)

In this problem calculate the interest at 5% and the discount at 6%.

MAY 12.—You have on hand the note of The Allen Chemical Company for $2650, dated April 12th, at four months, with interest at 6%. You have it discounted to-day at the City Bank at 5%. Write the note and make the cash book entries.

O. M. Curtis gave you a note March 13th, at 60 days, for $890.75, with interest. The note is due to-day, and Curtis has paid you the amount due to redeem his note. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

In the above problem the interest should be found for the time of the note at 6%. In the cash book Cash should be debited for the face of the note, in the first explanation space Bills Receivable should be written, and in the second explanation space, O. M. Curtis note 3 '13. Cash should also be debited for the amount of interest on the note ($8.91); in the first explanation space write Interest, and in the second explanation space, on above note.

MAY 14.—Your note for $746, in favor of G. W. Longley, dated Feb. 14th, at three months, with interest, is due this day, and you pay the note and interest. Write the note and make the necessary cash book entries.

This problem is exactly the reverse of the preceding one. Cash is credited and Bills Payable debited, with G. W. Longley note 2 '14 as explanation, and Cash credited and Interest debited, with on above note as explanation on the credit side of the cash book.

A. S. Hewitt's note of March 14th, at two months, for $722.87, with interest, is due to-day, and he has paid the note. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

MAY 15.—Your note for $1262.25, in favor of L. E. Pearson & Co., dated March 31st, at 45 days, with interest at 5%, is due to-day, and you pay the note and interest. Write the note and make the proper cash book entries.

You have your note for $825, favor E. C. Ayer, and indorsed by him, dated this day, at three months, discounted at the Commercial Bank at 6%, and receive cash for the net proceeds. Write the note and make the cash book entries.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS.

The transactions for the month of June call for the handling of drafts, and the business of the month is a continuation of that of the month of May, with the addition of groceries to the tea, coffee and spices dealt in during that period. It is thought advisable to give space for a short discussion of the subject of drafts before the student is called upon to handle that form of commercial paper in his vouchers.

DRAFTS.

A draft is an order from one person or firm to another to pay a certain sum of money, unconditionally, to some person or firm named in the body of the draft, or to the order of that person or firm.

FORM OF SIGHT DRAFT.

$300.00 Rochester, NY June 1, 190
At sight Pay to the order of Adams & Baker
Three hundred Dollars
Value received and charge the same to account of
To Wm. French
No. 714 Boston Chas. Rand
CHAS. RAND & CO. Stationery Chicago, Ill.

In the above draft Chas. Rand orders Wm. French to pay to the order of Adams & Baker $300. It is presumed that Wm. French owes Chas. Rand this amount, and that Chas. Rand is indebted to Adams & Baker, and gives them this order on Wm. French in payment of his indebtedness.

PARTIES TO A DRAFT.

Drawer.—This name is given to the person who writes or draws the draft. In the form of draft given above the drawer is Chas. Rand.

Payee.—This name is given to the person or firm to whom the draft is made payable. In the form of draft given the payees are Adams & Baker.

Drawee.—This name is given to the person or firm on whom the draft is drawn. In the preceding form Wm. French is the drawee.

COURSE OF PROCEDURE WHEN A DRAFT IS DRAWN.

Chas. Rand owes Adams & Baker and wishes to pay them $300 on account. Wm. French owes Chas. Rand and is willing to pay to him, or to his order, $300, therefore the following transaction is carried out: Chas. Rand writes an order, or draws a draft, on Wm. French, requesting him to pay to the order of Adams & Baker $300.

The drawer should, in every case, notify the drawee that he has drawn on him; or, better still, notify him in advance that he will draw on him at a certain date, for no person, even though he be a debtor, is obliged to accept or pay a draft drawn on him by a creditor.

Having drawn the draft, Rand gives it to Adams & Baker and makes his journal entry, since the transaction is completed so far as he is concerned. Rand has given Adams & Baker the order, which will be worth $300 to them when presented to Wm. French for payment; therefore, Adams & Baker should be debited $300, the amount they will be paid. This amount, $300, will be paid by French, therefore French should be credited the same as if he had paid the amount to Rand instead of to the person Rand designated in the draft.

The following is the form of journal entry required in the drawer's books for the above draft.

Adams & Baker	Drew a sight draft	300
Wm. French	on Wm. French,		300 favor of Adams
	& Baker

Rule 1.—The drawer's entry when a draft with three parties is drawn, whether it be at sight or a time draft, is Payee, Dr. and Drawee, Cr.

Payee's Entry.—The payees, Adams & Baker, receive the draft from Chas. Rand, and they at once take it to Wm. French, or place it in their bank for collection, in which case the bank will take it to French, who pays the $300. In either case Adams & Baker have received cash, $300, and should debit Cash. The draft which produced them the $300 was received from Chas. Rand, therefore Chas. Rand should be credited the same as if he had given them the $300.

The following should be the payees' entry on the debit side of their book.

June 1	Chas. Rand	sight draft on Wm. French	300

Rule 2.—The payee's entry for a sight draft received should be Cash, Dr. and Drawer, Cr.

Drawee's Entry.—When the draft is presented to Wm. French he examines it and notes that Chas. Rand has requested him to pay $300 to the order of Adams & Baker, and if he honors the draft he pays the amount, $300, and since he pays this amount on Chas. Rand's order, he debits Rand the same as if he had paid the cash direct to him and credits Cash, since he has paid it out.

The following is the drawee's entry for the above draft on the credit side of his cash book.

Rule 3.—Drawee's entry for a sight draft paid is Drawer, Dr. and Cash, Cr.

EXAMPLE.—Edward Martin draws a sight draft on B. W. Hammond, requesting him to pay to the order of Chas. Carter $400, which he does. Write the draft and make the entry of each party to the transaction. Write the draft and the entries on a piece of foolscap paper, and show it to your teacher.

FORM OF TIME DRAFT.

$900.00	Rochester, N.Y. June 2, 190
	Thirty days after date Pay to the Order of Edward Curtis
	Nine hundred & ———— Dollars
	Value received, and charge the same to account of
	To D. H. Parsons
No. 46, Detroit Mich.	M. F. Archer

1765-19 C. E. Morris, Stationer, Rochester, N. Y.

In the above draft instead of being payable at sight, it is not payable until 30 days after its date, or July 2. This draft, as soon as received by the payee, Edward Curtis, should be taken to the drawee, D. H. Parsons, who, if he decides to pay it, will write Accepted across the face, with his name. This is generally done in red ink, though the color of the ink is unimportant. In the case of this draft, the drawer's entry will be the same as in the case of the sight draft, for the payee has received value, and should therefore be debited, while the drawee is to pay the draft when it falls due, and should therefore be credited. The payee, however, instead of receiving cash from the drawee, Parsons, has received a promise to pay in 30 days, for writing the word "Accepted," and signing the name across the face of a draft constitutes at law a promise to pay. A promise to pay is a bill receivable to the holder, therefore his entry should be as follows.

Bills Rec.	Recd. M. F. Archers	900
M. F. Archer	draft at 30 days on	900
	D. H. Parsons

Rule 4.—The payee's entry for a time draft accepted is Bills Receivable, Dr. and Drawer, Cr.

When this draft is presented to D. H. Parsons, and he writes Accepted, D. H. Parsons, across its face, he agrees to pay it in 30 days, and the draft at once becomes a bill payable to him. He should debit M. F. Archer, since it is for him he has assumed this obligation, and should credit Bills Payable, since he has agreed to pay $900 in 30 days, or on July 2. The following should be Parson's entry when he accepts the draft.

M. F. Archer	Accepted M. F.	900
Bills Pay.	Archer's dft at 30		900
	days from June 2
	favor of Edward
	Curtis

Rule 5.—The drawee's entry for a time draft is Drawer, Dr. and Bills Payable, Cr.

EXAMPLE.—Geo. W. Allen draws a draft on Chas. W. Clinton for $500, at 45 days' sight, in favor of P. Y. Black. Write the draft as accepted by Chas. W. Clinton, and make the journal entry of each party to the transaction.

The draft is used extensively in business for the purpose of collecting accounts that are past due, and instead of the promissory note in ordinary sales of merchandise. In these cases, the draft is made payable to the order of the drawer, and is generally collected through his bank. The following are forms of sight and time drafts drawn in this manner.

Rule 6.—The drawer's entry is the same as the payee's, since he is payee as well as drawer; that is, in the sight draft he will debit Cash and credit E. M. Leach, while in the time draft he will debit Bills Receivable and credit E. B. Lacy & Co.

EXAMPLES.—J. B. Flint, of Rochester, N. Y., draws a draft at sight, in favor of himself, on A. H. Hines, of Portland, Me., for $250, and deposits it in his bank. Write the draft and the entries of J. B. Flint and A. H. Hines.

J. B. Flint of Rochester, N. Y., has drawn a draft for $300, at 30 days' sight, in favor of himself, on J. L. Osborn, of Manchester, N. H. Write the draft, properly accepted, and make the journal entries of J. B. Flint and J. L. Osborn.

BANK DRAFT.

In business a large proportion of remittances are made by means of bank drafts, which are accepted as cash. The following is a form of bank draft.

FORM OF BANK DRAFT.

No. 569 St. Louis, Mo. June 2, 1901
THE Traders National Bank
 Pay to the order of Emerson Bros. $ 590.50
Five hundred ninety and 50/100 Dollars. to The Seaboard National Bank.
 New York. } J. B. Page CASHIER

A bank draft, it will be seen, is an order from one bank on another, requesting the payment of a sum of money, unconditionally, to some person or firm named in the body of the draft. These drafts can be purchased at any bank for a small sum in excess of the amount for which they are written. It is the custom of every bank to keep on deposit a certain amount at some bank in the commercial center nearest to its place of business. For instance, all banks in the eastern states will have a deposit with some bank in Boston; all banks in the middle west, with some bank in Chicago; all banks in the southwest, with some bank in St. Louis; all banks on the Pacific coast, with a bank in San Francisco; and all the leading banks in the United States will have a deposit with some bank in New York, since New York is the commercial center of the United States.

In the case of the draft shown in the illustration, let us suppose that Emerson Bros. of St. Louis, Mo., wish to send the Eastman Kodak Co. of Rochester, N. Y., $590.50, to pay for an order of goods to be shipped at once. If the Eastman Kodak Co. are not acquainted with Emerson Bros., they would probably hesitate to accept their personal check for so large an amount as $590.50, and would delay shipment of the goods until they found out whether the check was good or not; therefore, Emerson Bros. make out a check like the following.

FORM OF CHECK.

St. Louis, Mo. June 2, 1900
THE Traders National Bank
	N. Y. Draft ($590. ⁵⁰) Each, 50¢ $591. ⁰⁰
Five hundred ninety-one ⁵⁰ / ₁₀₀ Dollars.
No. 282	Emerson Bros.

Emerson Bros. take the above check to the Traders Bank of St. Louis. The bank will charge a small fee for exchange (in this case 50¢), which is included in Emerson Bros.' check, and will make out a draft similar to the form on page 107. Some business houses have these remittance drafts made payable to the order of the person to whom they are to be sent, but the better way is to have the draft made payable to the order of the sender, who will indorse it over to the order of the person to whom it is sent. When this is done, the draft itself, after it has been presented and paid, becomes a perfect receipt for the amount named in its face. In this case, the draft would be accepted as cash by the Eastman Kodak Co., and they would place it as a deposit in their bank in Rochester. This bank would forward the draft to the bank with which it does business in New York, and it would be presented to the Seaboard National Bank of that city, and that bank would pay it and charge it to the Traders Bank of St. Louis. The following shows the draft properly indorsed.

FORM OF INDORSEMENT.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

In the following exercises it is required that the student write each draft, with such indorsements or acceptance as it should bear, on foolscap, and make his journal and cash book entries on a sheet of journal paper.

If the teacher deems it advisable, he may require the student to make the journal and cash book entries of all parties to these drafts.

JUNE 1.—Emmons, Hyde & Co., of Chicago, Ill., have agreed to accept your draft at sight for $600, favor of E. L. Martin. Write the draft and make the proper entry (see rule 1, page 104).

JUNE 2.—Geo. C. Chase, Manchester, N. H., has agreed to accept your draft for $275 at 10 days' sight, in favor of Wm. Darling & Co. Write the draft and make the proper entry (see rule 1, page 104).

JUNE 3.—S. A. Dodge & Co., Millbury, Mass., have accepted your draft for $800 at 60 days after date, in favor of yourself. Write the acceptance and make the proper entry (see rule 6, page 107).

JUNE 4.—John Reynolds & Co., St. Louis, Mo., have agreed to accept your draft for $250 at sight, in favor of yourself. Place the draft in the bank and receive credit for its face. Write and correctly indorse the draft and make the proper cash book entry (see rule 6, page 107).

JUNE 5.—O. H. Waters, Boston, Mass., has agreed to accept your draft for $1200 at four months after date, favor of yourself. Write the draft and have it discounted at the College Bank and the net proceeds placed to your credit. Make the proper cash book entry.

Prepare a discount slip, treating the draft exactly as you would a four months' note of a similar amount and date.

For the above transaction, some bookkeepers would make a journal entry, debiting Bills Receivable (see rule 6, page 107) and crediting O. H. Waters, after which they would make a cash book entry, debiting Cash and crediting Bills Receivable; also crediting Cash and debiting Discount for the discount. But the journal entry is unnecessary, since the bill receivable does not remain in your possession. The better method would be to debit Cash for the amount of the draft and credit O. H. Waters in the cash book, writing draft at 4 mos. in the second explanation column of the cash book; then credit Cash and debit Discount, writing O. H. Waters draft, 4 mos. in the second explanation column on the credit side of the cash book.

JUNE 6.—Wm. Parsons & Co., Worcester, Mass., have drawn on you at sight through the College Bank, for $650. You accept the draft, payable at College Bank, where you have a deposit. Write the draft and acceptance and make the proper cash book entry (see rule 3, page 105).

JUNE 8.—T. W. Preston, Toledo, Ohio, has drawn a draft on you, dated June 5th, at 30 days after sight, favor of himself, for $200. Accept the draft, payable at your office, and make the proper entry (see rule 5, page 106).

JUNE 8.—Ward Bros., El Paso, Texas, who owe you on account, draw a sight draft on Thomas Traynor & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., in your favor, for $300, and you place the draft in the bank with your daily deposit, receiving credit for its face. Write and indorse the draft and make the proper entry (see rule 2, page 104).

JUNE 9.—Fred Kemble & Co., Concord, N. H., owe you on account, and they give you a draft at ten days from date, for $4000, on A. B. Collins, Pittsburg, Pa., to apply on account, which you accept at its face and place in your bank for collection. Write the draft with the proper indorsements, and make the journal entry (see rule 4, page 106).

JUNE 10.—You owe Chas. Farnham & Co. $510 on account, and you give them a sight draft on H. A. Bowen, Portsmouth, N. H., for the amount. Write the draft and make the proper entry (see rule 1, page 104).

JUNE 11.—You owe O. D. Byron $240 on account, and in payment you give him a draft on C. P. Larcum, Syracuse, N. Y., at 10 days after date for this amount. He accepts the draft at its face. Write the draft and make the proper entry (see rule 1).

JUNE 12.—Geo. Farrish & Co., who are indebted to you, indorse over to you a draft drawn by them, in their favor, on Amos Martin, Philadelphia, Pa., for $485, dated June 1st, at four months from date, accepted by Martin. You receive the draft and give Farrish & Co. credit for its face, less discount at 6% for the unexpired time. Write the draft with indorsements and make the proper entry. (Find the due date of the draft, and discount it for the time between June 12th and the due date.)

JUNE 13.—You have in your possession a draft drawn by yourself, June 4th, on J. C. Dennis & Co., Brooklyn, for $915, at 90 days from date, and accepted by J. C. Dennis &

Co. You indorse this acceptance over to J. L. Osborn & Co., who allow you its face, less discount at 6% for the unexpired time. Write and indorse the draft and make the proper entry. (Find due date and discount for unexpired time.)

JUNE 14.—You have the draft of S. A. Dodge & Co., received June 3d, discounted at the College Bank, and the net proceeds placed to your credit. Make the proper cash book entry.

Hand the journal sheet containing the above entries, and the drafts which you have written, to your teacher for examination. Be sure you understand each transaction before proceeding.

NEW BOOKS TO BE USED.

In this month's work you will use, in addition to the books already in use, the invoice book and the bill book.

Bill Book.—This book contains a list and a brief description of all notes which come into the business or which are given by the business. When notes are received or given, the information called for should be written under the proper headings, as shown in the bill book (see model, page 112). This model contains the proper entries for all notes received and given during the month of May. You may copy the entries found in the model bill book into your bill book exactly as they appear in the model. Your bill book will then show all notes on hand and outstanding at the beginning of the month of June.

Invoice Book.—This book is generally made up of the original bills themselves which are pasted in the invoice book, as shown in the model on page 113, and the amount of each invoice is carried into the money column of the invoice book, also shown in the model. When bills are received, after they have been O. K.'d, paste them in your invoice book, taking care that the right-hand edges of the bill do not extend into the money column of the invoice book. In order to avoid this, it may be necessary to trim the edges of some of the bills, for invoices coming from different business houses will not be of uniform size. Paste lightly on the lower edges of the invoice and let them lap over each other, as shown in the model.

It will be seen that the money column of the invoice book should contain the amount of all merchandise bought by the business, and therefore the footing of this money column should be the debit of the Merchandise account. It will no longer be necessary to enter merchandise purchases in the journal, but at the end of the month, or at such periods as may be desired, the footing of the money column of the invoice book should be carried to the debit side of the Merchandise account, and the page of the invoice book carried to the folio column of the ledger, and opposite the footing in the invoice book should be written the ledger page of the Merchandise account. The amount of each bill should be posted directly from the invoice book to the credit of each person or firm from whom the merchandise is purchased, and the page of the account in the ledger should be written on the invoice itself, as shown in the model on page 113.

First. That the said J. B. Lamson of the first part shall contribute the entire resources of his late business located at 241 Chestnut St., Manchester, N. WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

JUNE.

No. 67.—JUNE 1. H. F. Adams is desirous of adding a line of standard groceries to the Tea, Coffee and Spice business in which he is now engaged. Not having sufficient capital to carry on the business alone, he has sold to you a one-half interest in his business for a sum equal to his net worth at the close of the month of May.

Mr. Adams is to do all the buying for the new firm and also to spend a part of his time as traveling, or outside, salesman, while you are to take full charge of the books and attend to the payment of bills, make all notes, checks, drafts and other negotiable paper of the firm, and attend to the management of the store.

The gains and losses of the business are to be shared equally. Each partner is to give his full time to the business, and H. F. Adams is to draw a salary of $125 per month and you a salary of $100 per month. The firm name is to be H. F. Adams & Co.

Prepare articles of copartnership between the two partners, yourself and H. F. Adams, (see model, page 114). For amount of investment, see H. F. Adams's present worth, statement May 31. Present this copy to your teacher for approval, and make such changes as he may suggest. Copy carefully, in ink, on legal cap, the corrected articles of copartnership and present to your teacher, who will sign for H. F. Adams. Sign your own name below that of H. F. Adams, and affix seals. Ask some student, or your teacher, to sign as witness in the left-hand corner opposite the names of yourself and H. F. Adams.

In business two copies should be prepared, one for each partner, and a lawyer experienced in partnership affairs should prepare these articles of copartnership.

Fold the articles of copartnership twice from bottom to top, and brief them by writing on the outer right-hand corner at the top the following:

*Articles of Copartnership between
and

No. 68.—JUNE 1. Procure from your teacher $200 in cash and check for the balance of your investment, which will be the same as H. F. Adams's present worth at the end of May. Enter the amount in the cash book on first line below the balance for June 1, crediting yourself for investment.

Write a check in favor of H. F. Adams & Co. for the amount of H. F. Adams's balance in Commercial Bank, as shown by the stub of your check book. Deposit this check and check received from teacher. You will no longer sign or indorse checks and other negotiable paper with your name as attorney, for you are now a member of the firm of H. F. Adams & Co., and have the same right to sign checks and other papers that Mr. Adams has; but, in order that your teacher may be able to identify your work readily, you will write your own name under that of H. F. Adams & Co. on all paper you may have occasion to indorse or sign.

No. 69.—JUNE 1. You will pay H. F. Adams's gas bill for the month of May, $7.87. This bill belongs to last month's business, but it has been agreed that such bills as did not appear on the books shall be paid by the new firm when due.

Write a check for the amount and place the receipted bill in your Voucher File. Place the check in Cash Paid Out. Make the proper entry in your cash book.

No. 70.—JUNE 3. This transaction calls for an invoice of merchandise purchased.

Examine the invoice and see that it is correct. If found to be correct, paste the invoice in your invoice book and write the amount of the invoice in the money column of the invoice book (see model, page 113). No journal entry is required for this transaction for, as explained under "Invoice Book," page 111, all postings are made directly from the invoice book.

No. 71.—JUNE 3. This transaction is similar to No. 70 and should be treated in the same manner.

Examine the invoice and see that it is correct; if so, then paste it in the invoice book and enter the amount in the money column of the invoice book.

No. 72.—JUNE 4. You now take out a policy of insurance on your stock of merchandise for $3000 at 1% premium.

Make a check for the amount in favor of the Equitable Fire Insurance Co. Place it in your Cash Paid Out envelope. Place the policy in your Voucher File, and make the proper cash book entry (see transaction No. 30, page 82).

No. 73.—JUNE 4. You have outstanding a note in favor of L. Hennes & Co., for $1505, which is due 60 days after date, May 2d. This note will fall due July 1st.

As you have money in the bank which you do not need to use in your business at present, you may pay this note. It is the custom in business to allow discount for the unexpired time on all notes paid before due. You will therefore take the note from Bills Payable File and calculate the discount on its amount for the time which it still has to run (from June 4th to July 1st=27 days). Subtract the discount, $x.xx, from the amount of the note, and write a check for the balance. Place the check in Cash Paid Out, and write Paid, June 4, 190-, across the face, and place the canceled note in your Voucher File. This transaction calls for a cash book entry. Credit Cash for the full amount of the note, and debit Cash for the amount of the discount. In your bill book under When and How disposed of place 1505 in the Amount column, June 4 in the Date column, and Discounted in the Explanation column.

FORM OF NOTIFICATION OF DRAFT.

Rome, N. Y., June 1, 190 .

Messrs. White, Smith & Perry,
Providence, R. I.

Gentlemen,--

We have this day drawn upon you at sight, in favor of A. V. Jackson & Co., for $225. Please honor the draft and oblige

Yours truly,

Williams & Raymond.

W.

No. 74.—JUNE 5. You may draw at sight on Rice & Pond, of Georgetown, for $265, which is the amount you owe E. Westen Tea & Spice Co., to balance the account of May 7th.

Write the draft, following the model on page 103. Enclose it with a letter of remittance properly addressed to E. Westen Tea & Spice Co. (see model, page 86). Write a letter to Rice & Pond, notifying them that you have drawn on them at sight for $265, and request them to honor the draft (see model, page 116). Referring to rule 1, page 104, make your journal entry. Place both letters in your Vouchers for Others.

No. 75.—JUNE 5. F. C. Tenney, who lives in your city, has agreed to accept your draft at sight for $90, in favor of C. K. Fox, who also lives in your city.

This transaction is similar to No. 74. Write the draft and place it in Vouchers for Others. Make your journal entry as in No. 74. Why do you make C. K. Fox Dr.? Why do you make F. C. Tenney Cr.?

No. 76.—JUNE 5. This order has been received from your Mr. Adams, and A. W. McKey agrees to accept a draft at 30 days from the date of the sale.

Using the model on page 105 as a form, draw a draft at 30 days for the net amount of the bill, as shown in the right-hand column of your sales book. Do not write Accepted across the face, but take the draft to your teacher, or to the person appointed to attend to such paper, and if correct, he will write Accepted, with the name A. W. McKey, across the face of the draft. When he has done so, place the accepted draft in your Cash Drawer. Make the proper journal entry. What account should be debited, and why? What account should be credited, and why? (See rule 6, page 107.)

Make a bill of the goods ordered, checking off each item on the salesman's order. Enter the sales in your sales book, deducting 1%, and place the bill in your Vouchers for Others.

No. 77.—JUNE 6. This is also a salesman's order from a city customer, and calls for a 3% discount for payment by ten-day acceptance.

Fill the order, verify your calculations, and enter in your sales book, deducting 3%. Draw a ten-day draft on F. C. Tenney for the net amount of the bill and take it to your teacher for approval. If the draft is correct, he will accept it for F. C. Tenney. Place the draft in your Cash Drawer and make the proper journal entry. This transaction is similar to No. 76.

No. 78.—JUNE 6. This invoice has been purchased by Mr. Adams, who has agreed to accept a draft at 10 days, and the draft ready for acceptance accompanies the invoice.

See that the invoice is correctly made, and if the amount is right, then write across the face of the draft, in red ink, Accepted, payable at Commercial Bank, with the date, June 6, 190-, and sign the name, H. F. Adams & Co. Place the draft thus accepted in your Bills Payable File, after you have entered it in your bill book.

Paste the invoice in your invoice book, and at the proper time you will post it from this book to the debit of Merchandise and to the credit of West, Stone & Co. Make a journal entry, debiting West, Stone & Co. for the amount of the acceptance. What account should be credited, and why? (See rule 16, page 30.)

Some bookkeepers would post direct from the invoice book to the credit of Bills Payable, but if this is done the ledger will not show how much business you have done with West, Stone & Co., and it is believed this information is worth more than the trifling addition of time required to post to the credit of West, Stone & Co. from the invoice book, and then post back to their debit from the journal.

No. 79.—JUNE 7. This order has been taken by Mr. Adams, who has received a check for $600, to apply on account.

No receipt is required. Fill the order, checking off each item. Verify your calculations and enter in the sales book. Place the check in your Cash Drawer, and make the proper entry in your cash book.

No. 80.—JUNE 7. Deposit in your bank the check received from A. A. Knowles & Co., and have the two acceptances received June 5th and 6th discounted and the net proceeds placed to your credit.

Your bank pass book should show a separate entry for each of these acceptances. You may also leave for collection the note of A. W. McKey, which is due June 10th. This note should be entered in your bank pass book, but the amount should not be extended into the money column. The following is the form of entry to be made in the bank pass book.

June	7	Note, A. W. McKey,	$700,
------	---	--------------------	--------

See that your notes are properly indorsed and make out a separate discount slip for each of the acceptances. Make cash book entries and entries in your bill book for the two acceptances, but no entry should be made for the note which is left merely for collection. You will be notified when it is paid and the amount will be carried into the money column of your pass book. Do not forget to enter the net proceeds of the two acceptances on the stub of your check book.

Some banks give a receipt for notes and other paper left for collection, instead of entering short in the pass book. Others enter all such paper in the back part of the pass book.

No. 81.—JUNE 7. REPORT. Make out your report and hand it, with Vouchers for Others and Cash Paid Out, to your teacher.

Do not proceed until this report is returned, approved, unless your teacher so directs.

No. 82.—JUNE 8. Pay your bill of June 1st, favor of City Mills Co., deducting a discount of 3%.

Calculate the discount and make out a check for the balance. Fill out a remittance blank, and place the check and the remittance blank in Vouchers for Others. Make the proper entries in the cash book.

No. 83.—JUNE 8. This invoice has been received for goods purchased by Mr. Adams. Verify the invoice and paste it in your invoice book.

No. 84.—JUNE 10. Pay your invoice of June 2d by check, less discount, and make the proper entries in your cash book.

No. 85.—JUNE 10. This order has been received by mail.

Make a bill for the merchandise, checking each item as entered on the bill. Draw a draft, as requested, and leave the draft at your bank for collection, having the amount short-extended in your bank pass book. This draft, when accepted, will become a bill receivable. If you should send the draft to Mason & Co. for acceptance, you would make no entry at the time, but would await its return from them. Instead of doing this you have placed the draft in the bank for collection, which is the ordinary method of handling such paper. As Mason & Co. have agreed to accept it, you may debit Bills Receivable and credit them. Enter the draft in your bill book.

No. 86.—JUNE 11. This order has been handed in by Mr. Adams.

Make a bill, and do not forget to check off the items. Be sure your calculations are right, after deducting 3% discount. Charge Fletcher Bros. only the net amount of the bill entered in the sales book, as you know them and are sure they will pay on receipt of goods.

No. 87.—JUNE 11. This check has been received in payment of merchandise delivered on the same date to Fletcher Bros. Credit them for the amount of the bill, as shown in your sales book under same date.

No. 88.—JUNE 11. This bill is for freight and drayage on all goods received up to date.

You may pay this bill in cash. Place the amount in your Cash Paid Out envelope, and place the receipted bill in your Voucher File.

No. 89.—JUNE 12. On May 5th H. F. Adams borrowed from the bank $5000, to pay for the building and lot, 2246 Main St., giving a four months' note for the amount. As the firm now has several thousand dollars in the bank, for which there is no immediate use, it will be well to pay this note, as discount will be allowed for the unexpired time. The note has 85 days to run, and the discount on $5000 for 85 days is $7x.x3.

Make a check for $49xx.x7, take it to the bank teller and receive the canceled note. Make an entry in the cash book and in your note ledger. If no bank is used in connection with these transactions, the note will be found in Bills Payable File. Take it from the file and place the check in Cash Paid Out, instead of giving it to the bank teller. Write, Paid, June 12, 190-, across the face of the note, and place it in your Voucher File.

No. 90.—JUNE 12. This order has been received through Mr. Adams, together with a check for $500 to apply on account. Make the bill and enter in the sales book. Credit F. H. Randall & Co. in the cash book for the amount of the check.

No. 91.—JUNE 13. This invoice has been purchased by Mr. Adams, who has O. K.'d it. Verify the calculations and paste the invoice in the invoice book.

No. 92.—JUNE 13. Take from your Cash Drawer $100 in currency, and also the checks of Fletcher Bros. and F. H. Randall & Co. Deposit these in the bank, and ask the teller if the interest-bearing note of A. W. McKey, dated May 31st, and left by you for collection, has been paid. It has been paid. Therefore, have him place the note and interest to your credit in the bank pass book. On a slip of paper calculate the interest on this note for 10 days, and add the amount of the interest to the face of the note. This is the amount which should be placed to your credit in the bank pass book. If your interest calculation is correct, the bank clerk will give you credit for the amount of the note, which is its face plus the interest. (If no bank is used, enter the amount yourself.) Add this amount to your bank balance on the stub of your check book, and also add the amount of the deposit slip.

You have received $701.17 in cash. Of this amount $700 is for bills receivable, the amount of A. W. McKey's note; therefore, Bills Receivable should be credited $700 in the cash book, with the explanation, A. W. McKey's note 5 31. The remaining $1.17 has been received for interest, and therefore Interest should be credited in the cash book $1.17, with the explanation, on above note.

Rule 23.—INTEREST is credited when it is allowed to the business by other persons.

No. 92.—JUNE 13. Your acceptance of June 3d is due to-day, and as it was made payable at the bank, it should be charged to your account.

Take this acceptance from the Bills Payable File, and present it to the bank teller, requesting him to charge it to your account. He will keep the draft and return it to you canceled when your bank book is written up. If you have no bank, write Paid, June 13, across the face of the draft, and enter it on the credit side of your bank pass book, placing the canceled draft in your Voucher File.

Make an entry in your cash book, to show that the acceptance has been paid. What account should be debited? Why? In your check book on the stub deduct this amount, $1111.62, from the amount on deposit, as shown by the balance of the stub. Why should this be done?

No. 94.—JUNE 14. This order has been sent in by Mr. Adams, who is on an out of town trip. Desiring to take advantage of the discount, Rice & Pond have given him their note at four months, with interest, for $1000, to pay the balance of their old account and to apply on this order. They agree to accept a sight draft for the balance of the order, whatever it may be, or will send check on receipt of bill.

Fill the order and enter in your sales book, allowing them 3% discount. Prepare freight receipts to accompany this invoice. Place the note in your Cash Drawer and make the proper entries in the journal and in the bill book. Do not draw at sight for the balance, but allow it to remain on account.

No. 95.—JUNE 14. This order is from a new customer and is sent in by Mr. Adams, who vouches for the financial standing of the firm. They ask regular ten-day cash discount, and agree to accept a sight draft in ten days.

Make the invoice and freight receipts and draw a sight draft, dating it ten days ahead, or June 24th. Write a letter to accompany the bill, informing Varick & Co. that you will draw on them, as requested, in ten days. Enclose invoice, letter and freight receipt in an envelope properly addressed. Place the draft in your Cash Drawer, and two or three days before it becomes due place it in the bank for collection. You will be informed when to do this.

Many bookkeepers would not draw the sight draft at this time, but would wait until it became due. If a draft is not drawn at the same time a sale is made, it is apt to be overlooked.

No. 96.—JUNE 14. Pay your invoice of June 5th, City Mills Co., $1266, less 3% discount. Calculate the discount, which will be $37.98. Write a check for the amount due. Enclose the check with a remittance blank filled out in a properly addressed envelope, and place in Vouchers for Others. Make the proper entries for the transaction.

No. 97.—JUNE 15. This purchase has been made by Mr. Adams, who, wishing to take advantage of the best discount, agrees to pay spot cash or to give a note with interest. Not wishing to pay cash at this time, you may give a note at 15 days, with interest, for the amount of the invoice. Paste the invoice in the invoice book and make entry in the note ledger. Place the note in Bills Payable File.

No. 98.—JUNE 15. SHIPMENTS. This letter calls for a shipment of merchandise to another person, to be sold on commission, and such transactions are not at all uncommon in business. When, for any reason, goods are not selling well in any particular locality, it is often good policy to send them to a commission merchant in some place where there is likely to be a better demand for them. The commission dealer sells the goods, and after taking a certain per cent for commission, sends the balance to the person who shipped the goods. A quantity of goods shipped to be sold on commission is designated as a "shipment." The shipment is entered in the sales book under the title "Shipment to (the name of the commission dealer)." The shipment is charged for the regular cost price of the merchandise, and if any charges have been paid the shipment is also debited for these in the cash book.

An account is opened in the ledger with each shipment. If two or more shipments are sent to the same person or firm, an account is opened with Shipment to _____ $1, Shipment to _____ $2, and so on, opening a separate account for each shipment sent.

You may send T. W. Bowen & Co., Dover, a trial shipment of 50 brls. Northern Star and 25 brls. Searchlight. Fill out a shipment blank found in your business forms, also a freight receipt, which you will enclose in an envelope addressed to T. W. Bowen & Co. The following is a form showing the proper method of entering a shipment in the sales book.

Shipment E. W. Pace*1	Chicago, Ill.
50 brls. White Cloud Flour		4 50	225
100 " Snow Flake "		4 25	425
20 hf. cts. Oolong Tea	1000*	50	500	1150

Rule 24.—SHIPMENTS are debited for the cost price of the merchandise shipped, and for all advance charges paid upon it.

Find the cost price from your invoice book.

No. 99.—JUNE 15. You may pay your clerks as follows: R. E. Leavitt, $30; D. J. Allard, $20. As you have not enough money in your Cash Drawer, you may make out a cash check for the amount required, $50. Receive the cash and place it in Cash Paid Out.

If there is no bank, present the check to your teacher, who will give you the money. Make the proper entry for the above transaction.

When cash is drawn from a bank for use in business, what is known as a cash check should be used. Such a check requires no indorsement. The following is a form of cash check.

No. 100.—JUNE 15. REPORT. Make out your report and hand it, with Vouchers for Others and Cash Paid Out, to your teacher. Do not proceed until the report is returned, approved, unless your teacher so directs.

No. 101.—JUNE 17. This is a mail order and calls for a small lot of tea, to be followed with a larger lot of goods, to be sent as soon as you are satisfied as to the reliability of the firm, with whom you have had no dealings thus far.

Make out a C. O. D. and enter the sale in your sales book, as in No. 40, page 88. This is a cash sale, and as such it is entitled to 3% discount. Deduct the discount when you enter in the sales book, also upon the bill, which should be for the net amount only.

No. 102.—JUNE 17. You have received but few orders for Ceylon tea recently, so you have decided, with Mr. Adams, to make a shipment of 20 cases of this tea, closing out your stock. Send it, with 10 mats Java coffee, to T. W. Bowen & Co., of Dover, to be sold on commission. Pay freight in advance, $3.60, in currency.

Enter the shipment in your sales book (T. W. Bowen & Co. 22), and make the proper entry in your cash book for the $3.60 paid as freight. What account should be debited for this amount? Why? (See No. 98.)

No. 103.—JUNE 17. This purchase of merchandise has been made by Mr. Adams. Paste the invoice in your invoice book after verifying the calculations.

No. 104.—JUNE 18. Write a check for the amount due Shields Bros., and send it with a remittance blank properly filled out. Make the proper entry.

No. 105.—JUNE 18. This draft has been drawn on you by L. Hennes & Co., and is the amount due for bill of May 24th. You will accept the draft, and place it in your Bills Payable File. What account should be debited? Why? (See transaction, No. 78, page 117.)

No. 106.—JUNE 19. The references given by D. W. Perry & Co. having proved satisfactory, you may fill their order of June 15th. Do not forget to check each item and make the entry required.

No. 107.—JUNE 19. This is a return of C. O. D. sent June 16th. Make the proper entry (see No. 47, page 89). Pay 50¢ in currency for express charges.

No. 108.—JUNE 19. Take from your Cash Drawer the note of Rice & Pond received June 14th, and have it discounted and the net proceeds placed to your credit.

This is a fourth months' interest-bearing note, therefore, on a discount memorandum, write the amount of interest which will be due Oct. 12th, on which date the above note is payable, and add the interest to the face of the note. The interest on $1000 for four months is $20. From June 19th to Oct. 12th, the due date of the note, is 115 days. Calculate the discount on $1020, the amount due Oct. 12th, for 115 days. This amount is $19.55, which subtract from $1020, and you will have the amount to be placed to your credit in your bank pass book and on the stub of your check book.

In the cash book you have received cash for the note, $1000, and also for the interest, $20; therefore, you will have two entries on the debit side of your cash book. What account should be credited for the $1000? Why? What account should be credited for the $20 interest?

On the credit side of your cash book you should place the amount of discount you have allowed the bank, which is $19.55 (see example May 9, page 99).

No. 109.—JUNE 19. In this transaction Randall & Co. have ordered goods and sent you a check sufficient to pay the balance of their bill of June 12th, and part of the merchandise ordered in their letter accompanying the check. They are entitled to 3% discount on such goods as this check will pay for. At 3% discount, 97% will pay for $1.00 worth of goods as invoiced at their regular price, therefore it is evident that $600 will pay for as many dollars' worth as 97% is contained in $600. $$600 \div .97 = \618.56 , and F. H. Randall & Co. should be credited with this amount. Enter $$618.56$ on the debit side of your cash book, and on the credit side enter $$18.56$, the amount of merchandise discount allowed F. H. Randall & Co. Enter the sale as usual in the sales book. Do not deduct 3%.

No. 110.—JUNE 20. This account sales has been received, together with a check for the net proceeds. It is the amount you have received for the shipment made June 15th, and shows you how much Bowen & Co. received for the goods, also the amount they paid for freight and their commission. What account should be debited? What account has produced value to the business in this case?

Rule 25.—SHIPMENTS are credited with the net proceeds shown on the account sales received from the person to whom the shipment was sent.

Place the check in your Cash Drawer, and the account sales in your Voucher File.

No. 111.—JUNE 20. Take from your Cash Drawer $50 in bills; also the checks of F. H. Randall & Co. and T. W. Bowen & Co. Enter the amounts on a deposit ticket, and take it with the checks and your bank pass book to the bank. Make the proper entry on your check book stub.

No. 112.—JUNE 20. Purchase of merchandise on account by Mr. Adams.

No. 113.—JUNE 20. Pay Reynolds, Davis & Co's. invoice of June 10th, less 2%, by check.

No. 114.—JUNE 21. This bill is for freight and cartage to date. Write a check for the amount, and place it in Cash Paid Out. Place the receipted bill in your Voucher File. What account should be debited for this amount in your cash book?

No. 115.—JUNE 21. Mr. Adams has purchased this invoice and has agreed to accept a draft at 30 days for $800, the balance to be paid in four months. Accept the draft which accompanies the invoice, and place it in Bills Payable File. Make the proper entries in your books for the transaction.

No. 116.—JUNE 21. This purchase is on account. Enter as usual.

No. 117.—JUNE 22. Mr. West, of West, Stone & Co., has called upon you, soliciting orders, and being short of money has agreed to allow you 2% discount on the invoice of May 20th, which is not due until July 19th, if you will accept a ten-day draft. You agree to this proposition, and accept a draft for the amount, less 2%. Place the draft in Bills Payable File. What account should be credited for the 2% discount?

No. 118.—JUNE 22. Smith, Perkins & Co. have decided to retire from business, and have made Mr. Adams an offer of 12½% discount from regular market quotations for such goods as he can use from stock. This invoice has been selected on the terms indicated. Write the check and note, and enter in cash book, journal and bill book. Place the check in Cash Paid Out and the note in Bills Payable File.

No. 119.—JUNE 24. Take the sight draft on Thos. Varick & Co. from your Cash Drawer and enter it on a deposit ticket. Take this ticket, with your bank pass book, to the bank, and ask the teller to enter it to your credit. You drew this draft at the time of sale, but made no entry. What account should be debited, now that you have received credit for the draft at your bank? What account should be credited?

It is the custom of most banks to place sight drafts to the credit of responsible depositors, when requested, the same as checks. If not paid, they are charged back to the depositor.

No. 120.—JUNE 24. REPORT. Make out your report and hand it, with Vouchers for Others and Cash Paid Out, to your teacher. Do not proceed until the report is returned, approved, unless so directed by your teacher.

No. 121.—JUNE 24. This account sales has been received from T. W. Bowen & Co., who have placed the net proceeds to your credit subject to your sight draft. What account should be debited for this amount? Why? What account should be credited? Make the proper entry in your journal, and place the account sales in your Voucher File.

No. 122.—JUNE 24. Fletcher Bros., of your city, have been getting 3% discount for cash, but being short of money at this time, they ask you to take their acceptance at 30 days, with interest at 6% added, for the amount of the bill, and still allow them the full amount of the discount. Adding 6% interest to the net amount of the bill will give you, in 30 days, the same amount as if they had paid you cash and you had placed it on interest for that time, so you will accept the proposition and fill the order.

Draw a draft at 30 days on Fletcher Bros. for the net amount of the bill, as shown by the sales book, with 30 days' interest at 6% added. Take the draft to your teacher, who will accept it for Fletcher Bros. if the amount is correct. Enter in your sales book, journal and bill book.

No. 123.—JUNE 24. The draft on E. Mason & Co., at 10 days, left for collection June 10th, has been paid. Have the bank teller enter the amount in your bank pass book. (If you have no bank, enter it yourself.) Make the proper entry in your cash book, and do not fail to add the amount to the balance shown on the stub of your check book.

No. 124.—JUNE 24. Draw a draft at sight on T. W. Bowen & Co. for the net proceeds of shipment No. 2, as shown by account sales of June 22d. Enter the amount of this draft on a deposit slip and take it to the bank with your bank pass book. Have the teller give you credit for the amount of the draft (see No. 123). Enter on the stub of your check book. Make the proper cash book entry.

No. 125.—JUNE 24. This order is sent in by Mr. Adams, and Varick & Co. agree to accept a draft at four months on receipt of goods. (No discount on this order.) Make freight receipt.

No. 126.—JUNE 24. This order is sent in by Mr. Adams, and contains a check for $500, to apply on invoice of the 19th, less 3% for such part of the bill as this check will pay (see transaction No. 109, page 123).

No. 127.—JUNE 25. This acceptance was drawn by A. W. McKey on C. H. Brooks & Co. on June 15th, and was accepted by C. H. Brooks & Co. McKey hands the acceptance over to you; it is not due for 50 days, therefore it is not worth its face, $500, but the discount on $500 for 50 days should be deducted from the face of the paper in order to find out what it is really worth to you on June 25th. The discount on $500 from June 25th to the date at which the draft becomes due, August 14th, 50 days, equals $4.17. Deducting $4.17 from $500 leaves $495.83, the net value of the draft June 25th. Credit A. W. McKey for this amount. What account should be debited for the face of the draft? Why? What account should be credited for $4.17? Why? Make proper entry in bill book.

Enter in your journal.

Rule 26.—DISCOUNT is credited when it is allowed to the business by other persons.

No. 128.—JUNE 25. Ship T. W. Bowen & Co. 100 brls. N. S. flour, 100 brls. Searchlight, 20 hf. chests English Breakfast, 24 hf. chests Oolong, 100 doz. C. corn, 100 doz. C. tomatoes, and pay freight in advance by check, $27. Make sales book and cash book entries.

No. 129.—JUNE 25. Draw at four months from date, on Varick & Co., in favor of E. Westen Tea & Spice Co., for the amount of the bill of the 24th, $510.04. Send it to E. Westen Tea & Spice Co., to apply on account, less the discount for four months.

The draft is not worth $510.04 until it becomes due, four months after date, or Oct. 25th. Calculate the discount for four months, which will be $10.20. The net value of the note at this time, therefore, is $499.84. For what amount should E. Westen Tea & Spice Co. be debited? For what amount should Varick & Co. be credited? What account should be debited for $10.20? Why? Place the draft in Vouchers for Others, and enter in your journal.

No. 130.—JUNE 26. On the evening of June 25th a fire resulted in the partial destruction of the building, 246 Main St., and the total loss of office furniture. The books were saved; also the cash and the contents of safe. Most of the goods were destroyed. From your books you find that you had on hand the list of goods No. 130. This schedule of goods has been carefully made up from your sales book and invoice book, and is believed to be a correct statement of merchandise on hand at the time of the fire.

Fill out the amounts. Sign your own name after that of Mr. Adams. Then hand the schedule to your teacher, who represents the insurance company, and tell him that you present this as your claim for loss by the fire.

No. 131.—JUNE 26. This offer requires the consent of the Equitable Insurance Company before it can be accepted, as no adjustment of the loss has been made. Ask your teacher, who represents the insurance company, for permission to accept this offer. He will write Permission is hereby granted to accept this offer, across the face of the letter from Fletcher Bros., and you may make out a bill of sale for the entire lot without itemizing. Place the check (No. 131) in your Cash Drawer, and make the proper entries.

No. 132.—JUNE 27. Pay invoice of June 14th favor of Geo. C. Buell & Co., less discount, by check.

No. 133.—JUNE 28. Your acceptance of June 18th, favor of L. Hennes & Co., is due to-day.

Take this acceptance from Bills Payable File, and proceed exactly as in No. 93. Enter in your cash book, bill book, and check book. Deduct the amount from your bank balance on the stub of your check book.

No. 141.—JUNE 30. It has been decided to discontinue the business. You take for your net worth the amount of the shipment to T. W. Bowen & Co., No. 3, at its ledger valuation, $1955, and receive a check for the balance. Make out the check, and enter in the cash book. Make a journal entry to show the transfer of the shipment. Post these two entries and balance the cash book. H. F. Adams retains the remaining resources of the business, you agreeing to make up one-half of any losses which may occur from bad debts, and he agreeing to pay all the liabilities of the business. The real estate is valued at $6000. Draw a check to the order of H. F. Adams for the balance of cash remaining in bank. Indorse this check in H. F. Adams's name to the order of your teacher and give it to him. (No entry.)

Prepare a memorandum of this agreement, and sign it and ask your teacher to sign for H. F. Adams. Get your check cashed and hand the amount to your teacher.

Prepare a notice of dissolution of partnership, according to model (see Appendix), and inclose a copy with your monthly statement to each customer.

Write a letter to T. W. Bowen & Co., Dover, notifying them of the dissolution, and requesting them to send the net proceeds of shipment No. 3 to you when they render an account of sales.

EXAMINATION.

The United States Civil Service Commission in its examinations in bookkeeping requires the candidate to take common foolscap paper and make all rulings required by the transactions. Unless otherwise directed, you may take common foolscap paper and rule properly for the journal, sales book, cash book and ledger, on which to copy the records required in the following series of transactions, which are designed to test your understanding of the principles taken up in the past three months' voucher work. No references are given, as no new principles are introduced.

Your teacher will assign you a selling price list from the Cost and Selling Price Lists, page 132.

Use great care in making your enteries, that no mistakes will appear in your work. After your journal, cash book and sales book have been written up, go over the transactions carefully to see that no mistakes have been made. Then post to your ledger and take a trial balance. Using the models on pages 92, 93, 96 and 97, prepare statements of losses and gains and resources and liabilities, and close your ledger, after which present the examination papers to your teacher.

COMMISSION, SHIPPING AND GENERAL MERCHANDISING BUSINESS.

A large variety of produce and manufactured products is sold through the medium of agents or correspondents, who receive a certain per cent. of the gross sales as their commission for handling the goods. Sometimes the price is fixed by the person shipping the goods, but generally it is left to the discretion of the commission merchant, who obtains the highest price possible at the time of sale. Frequently, the commission merchant advances a part of the value of the goods as soon as they are received, in case the goods are not to be sold at once, and the balance is remitted after the sale has been completed. When the goods are perishable, advances are not usually made, but the net proceeds are remitted as soon as the sale is completed.

The person who sends the goods to the commission merchant is called the consignor; the commission merchant is designated as the consignee. Many commission merchants also sell merchandise on their own account, and make shipments to others, thus conducting a regular buying, selling and shipping business, in addition to their commission business.

Books Kept.—The books to be kept in this business are sales book, account sales register, shipment ledger, cash book, invoice book, journal-daybook, main ledger, and loose leaf consignment ledger. The invoice book and the journal-daybook will be the same as those you have heretofore kept. As but few notes appear in these transactions, the bill book will be dispensed with.

It is the custom of most commission houses to enter a description of each lot of goods received in a book called the receiving book, and to open an account with each lot under an appropriate name in a book called the consignment ledger. Each account contains on its credit side all sales made from the lot of which it is the record, and on its debit side all charges against this lot. When the lot is all sold, an account sales is rendered to the consignor.

By the use of the loose leaf consignment ledger, a description of which follows, the receiving book, consignment ledger and account sales are combined in one, and the book-keeping is greatly simplified.

Each consignment should be accompanied by a letter of advice, containing the list of goods, and this letter should be compared with the goods when they are received, and if there is any shortage the consignor should be notified at once. The receiving clerk generally enters the goods on a blotter as they are unloaded from the trucks, and from the blotter the bookkeeper transfers the items to a loose leaf of the consignment ledger (see model, page 135).

The Consignment Ledger.—In this business, when goods are received to be sold on commission, the consignment will be entered on a loose sheet of the consignment ledger, as shown in the illustration on page 135.

In the small square at the upper right-hand corner of this loose sheet is written the stencil, or private mark, of this consignment, and every package in the consignment will be marked with the same stencil. These stencil marks are arbitrary, and any letter, number, or symbol may be used. In this business the initial letter of the consignor and the number of his consignment will be used as a stencil mark. The loose leaf is now fastened to its cover and becomes a part of the consignment ledger. The amount of freight as shown by the freight bill, which will accompany the goods, should be entered

As the goods are sold, the items are entered in the space under Sales on the loose sheet, and the amounts carried to the right-hand or credit column. These amounts should be taken from the sales book, where they will be found in the special column for sales from consignments. In this business these items, except commission, will be combined under the head of "Charges." Enter the amount of commission and of charges in the left-hand or debit column of the loose sheet. ence between the footing of the right-hand column and the sum of the items in the left-hand column of the loose sheet will show the net proceeds or amount due the consignor, and will, of course, balance the two columns of the loose sheet.

All writing upon the consignment ledger should be done in copying ink, for the leaf is now removed from the ledger, and a copy of it taken in the impression account sales book, the leaf itself being sent to the consignor with a check or draft for the amount of his net proceeds, unless the net proceeds are placed to his credit. In the latter case, the account sales should be sent without the remittance, and after Net proceeds the words Placed to credit should be written. It is important that a good copy of the account sales be taken in the impression book, for should any dispute arise this impression book will be accepted in court as your book of original entry, and many houses post charges, commission and net proceeds directly from this book to their respective accounts in the ledger.

Cash Book.—In this business the cash book will contain several extra columns. On the debit side, the column for merchandise discount will contain all discounts allowed on merchandise sold to other persons and paid for within the terms of the bill, and Cash will be debited for the actual amount received instead of being debited for the full amount of the bill and credited on the opposite side for the amount of the discount, as in previous work. This method of handling merchandise discount is much in favor among business houses, and will be used in the transactions of this month. When these discounts are posted, they are carried to the credit of the person who has paid the bill; at the same time he is credited with the cash which he pays. This necessitates two credit entries on the personal account (see form of ledger account with merchandise discount postings on page 155). When the cash book is posted, the total of the Merchandise Discount column is carried to the debit of Merchandise Discount in the main ledger. The General column contains all cash received from the ordinary accounts of the business. The Shipments column contains all cash received from shipments, and as soon as cash is received from a shipment the amount is carried to the credit of that shipment in the shipment ledger, and the total of Shipments column is carried to the credit of Shipments in the main ledger when the cash book is posted.

The Credit Columns of the Cash Book.—Merchandise Discount contains discount on all bills which are entitled to discount when paid by the business, and the persons to whom the cash is sent are debited for the discount at the same time they are debited for the actual cash sent, requiring two debit postings (see form, page 155).

When the cash book is posted, the total of Merchandise Discount column is carried to the credit of Merchandise Discount in the main ledger. The General column should be posted as in the cash books of previous work.

All cash paid on account of shipments for freight, insurance, or any other cause, should be entered in the Shipments column, and also on the debit side of ledger accounts in the shipment ledger, and the total of this column should be carried to the debit of Shipments in the main ledger when the cash book is posted.

All cash paid on account of consignments, whether for freight, advances, or proceeds remitted, should be placed in the Consignments column and carried to the loose leaf consignment ledger, and the total of this column posted to the debit of Consignments in the main ledger when the cash book is posted.

In balancing the cash book, the footing of the Shipments column on the debit side should be added to the footing of the General column, and the footings of the Shipments and Consignments columns on the credit side should be added to the footing of the General column (see model cash book with special columns).

Sales Book.—The sales book contains a special column for sales made from consignments, and an Invoice Extension column, which should contain the items and the total of the bill given the purchaser, who, as a rule, does not know whether the goods are purchased from a consignment or from the stock of the business.

When sales are entered in the sales book, the stencil mark of the consignment should be written opposite those items which are taken from consignments, and the amounts should be placed in the Sales from Consignments column, as well as in the Invoice Extension column. The amounts of such items as are sold from the stock of the business should be placed in the Sales from Merchandise column.

When the sales book is posted, the total of Sales from Consignments should be carried to the credit of Consignments in the main ledger, and the total of the Merchandise column to the credit of Merchandise in the main ledger.

In this month's work cash sales will not be posted to the debit of the person making the purchase, as in the previous month, and then posted back to his credit from the cash book, but such sales will be checked off in the sales book and also in the cash book, and not posted to the personal account from either book. This method of handling sales for cash is used where there is no special desire to keep a record of the amount of business transacted with each customer, and it will be seen that it saves a considerable amount of posting where cash sales are numerous (see E. M. Lacy entries in form of cash book and form of sales book, pages 136 and 139).

Shipment Ledger.—When goods are sent to other persons to be sold on commission, the date of shipment is written in the shipment ledger, with the name and address of the consignee and the number of the shipment; then follows a description of the merchandise shipped, with the price, which, in a regular shipping business, should be the cost of the goods.

In the debit column, under Ledger Accounts, should be written the value of the merchandise as shown in the Merchandise column, and to this column is also posted, from the cash book or other sources, all expenses incurred on account of this shipment.

When an account sales of a shipment is received, the shipment is credited for the net proceeds from the cash book or journal, and since this disposes of the shipment, the ledger part of it is closed by writing the amount of gain or loss on the smaller side of the account, and ruling and footing (see models, A. M. Archer and D. W. Parks & Co., page 138).

When the books are posted preparatory to the taking of a trial balance, the total of the Merchandise column in the shipment ledger is carried to the debit of Shipments and to the credit of Merchandise in the main ledger (see form of shipment ledger).

Account Sales Register.—This book is kept for convenience in posting commission and charges, and contains columns for the date, stencil mark of the consignment, address of the consignor, amount of gross sales, freight, commission, charges, goods returned, total charges, advances, net proceeds, cash remitted, amount charged to account, folio, name of account.

If accounts are kept with insurance, cartage, storage, etc., of course columns would be added for these accounts, as well as for commission and charges. In this month's work all these accounts are included under the general head Charges.

When an account sales is rendered, the necessary information should also be entered in the account sales register, and at the time of the general posting before a trial balance is taken, the footings of Commission and Charges columns should be carried to the Amount Charged to Account column, and the names Commission and Charges written in the Name of Account column opposite these amounts in the account sales register, while the total of Amount Charged to Account column should be posted to the debit of Consignments, and the items which make up this total posted in the main ledger to the credit of the accounts to which they belong.

If an impression of the loose leaf consignment ledger is taken when an account sales is rendered, the account sales register may be dispensed with, as the commission charges and net proceeds may be posted directly from the impression book.

Letter Impression Book.—In most business houses it is the custom to keep a copy of every written order, letter, postal card, account sales, deposit slip, etc., which leaves the house in the course of its business, as it is often of great importance that ready reference may be had to such documents. This copy is obtained by means of a letter impression book, which is made up of leaves of tissue paper, and a copy may be taken in this book from either a pen-written or a type-written sheet. If proper ink is used, several copies may be taken from the same original.

When letters or invoices are copied in the letter impression book, they should be indexed at once for ready reference. (See form of letter impression book, page 142, showing the proper indexing.)

Indexing.—It is important that all ledgers, as well as letter impression books, be properly indexed.

The vowel index shown in the model letter impression book is an excellent method of indexing, when the index is a part of the book itself, but the ledger index is generally a separate book, of which there are several labor-saving varieties on the market.

Some bookkeepers, before posting a book, take the index, and from it page each item in the book from which posting is to be done, by writing in the folio column the page of the account in the ledger. After all the items to be posted have been pagged, then each amount is carried to the ledger page indicated, and a check mark (✓) placed next to the folio figures. If the ledger contains a large number of accounts, this method of posting will save time and also prevent errors, as the check mark is a double proof that the posting has been done. In actual practice every good bookkeeper will soon memorize the pages of all his principal ledger accounts, and not be obliged to refer constantly to his index.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

JULY 1.

You have accepted a proposition to form a partnership under the name of E. H. Reed & Co., with Ellis H. Reed, who has been engaged in the Country Produce and General Merchandising business, at 312 South St., your city. You are to invest $5000 cash, which you will procure from your teacher, and also the shipment to T. W. Bowen & Co. No. 3, valued at $1955, making a total investment of $6955.00. Ellis H. Reed owns the building at 312 South St., valued at $9500. He makes a bill of sale of this property and transfers it, by deed, to E. H. Reed & Co. He also invests two horses and a delivery wagon, valued at $325, and office furniture and fixtures, valued at $250. He has on hand the following goods: 600 bu. potatoes, invoiced at 60¢ per bu.; 140 brls. apples, invoiced at $3.50 per brl.; 11 boxes cheese, 605 lbs., invoiced at 11¢ per lb.

The following personal balances from customers are due Ellis H. Reed: Theodore Crosby & Co., $129.33; A. W. Noone & Co., $528.44; Public Market Co., $244.60; Geo. H. Tucker & Co., $204.73; City Hotel Co., $250.45.

Ellis H. Reed owes the following balances: Russell & Birkett, $426.45; Curtice, Olney & Co., $1326.40; Lutz Bros., $714.50; Gillette & Hennigan, $541.20; and a note in favor of the Fischer Flour Co., St. Louis, dated June 16th, at 30 days, $845.27.

The new firm assumes all the liabilities of Ellis H. Reed and takes his resources. Each partner is to receive interest at six per cent. on his net investment, after which the gains and losses are to be divided equally.

The forms on pages 143 and 144 show the journal and cash book entries for the investments of Ellis H. Reed and yourself.

Take your investment, $5000, from the cash you received in settlement of June accounts with H. F. Adams, and place it in Cash Drawer. Carry the shipment to T. W. Bowen & Co. to the shipment ledger, exactly as shown on page 150.

Prepare articles of copartnership, embodying the conditions given in the above statement of the business, and present them to your teacher for approval. He will sign for Ellis H. Reed. Sign your own name and ask some other student, or your teacher, to sign his name as witness.

Prepare a circular letter, soliciting shipments of country produce or general merchandise, and mail a copy to each out of town customer with whom you did business in June. These are all country merchants, and are likely to have such goods to dispose of. The following is a form of circular letter.

Paste the gummed edge of the loose sheet to the back of the cover of the consignment ledger. Place the advice of shipment in your Incoming Vouchers (consignment envelope).

No. 2.—This advice of shipment is received with goods mentioned from the Western New York Preserving Company, Springville, N. Y., and should be entered precisely as the lot received in No. 1. Paste the gummed edge on the back of No. 1.

No. 3.—This letter has been received from Rice & Pond, accompanying goods as mentioned. (Enter as in Nos. 1 and 2.)

No. 4.—This invoice is for goods ordered by you July 10th, and should be entered in the invoice book, as in previous work. (Verify the calculations.)

No. 5.—This invoice is for books and other office supplies.

Place the invoice in your Voucher File, as only merchandise invoices should be put in your invoice book, but make no entry at present. The amount will be found in your cash items to be paid at the end of the day, and entered at that time.

No. 6.—This invoice is for goods ordered by you July 10th, and should be entered in the invoice book as in No. 4.

Sales from Blotter.—In this month's work a large number of sales will be made to local persons. No orders will be received for these sales, since most of the orders are given verbally and are entered in an order book or blotter. You will receive among your incoming vouchers a list of these sales each day, and will make out the bills as usual. In entering these sales in the sales book be sure that the stencil mark of the consignment appears opposite each item sold from that consignment, and that these items are carried into the Sales from the Consignments column of the sales book.

No. 7.—These sales have been made as per blotter, and should be entered in the sales book (see model, page 139). Be sure that the cash sale is entered in the cash book, and checked off both in cash book and in sales book (see explanation, page 140).

In this month's work an account will be kept with freight, and all amounts paid for freight on your own merchandise will be charged to this account instead of to Merchandise account.

No. 8.—This is an order on the cashier to pay various bills.

Enter in your cash book, debiting the proper accounts. Allow a line for each charge for freight paid on consignments, writing the name of the consignment in explanation space. Pay the items in currency. Enter freight charges on consignments opposite Freight on the proper sheets in the consignment ledger. Remember to debit Freight for all freight paid on your own merchandise.

No. 9.—This account sales is received from T. W. Bowen & Co., and as they have been notified of the change in your business, they have made the draft payable to E. H. Reed & Co.

Enter in your cash book, crediting shipment to T. W. Bowen & Co. No. 3, for the amount of the net proceeds, and carrying the amount of net proceeds to the credit of shipment No. 3 in shipment ledger. There has been a gain on this shipment. Close the shipment in shipment ledger by writing Gain on the debit side (see page 150).

No. 10.—This check has been received from T. Crosby & Co., in full of account, and is indorsed over by E. H. Reed to E. H. Reed & Co.

No. 11.—Open an account with the Traders Bank, and deposit $4900 cash, the check of Theodore Crosby & Co., and the draft received from T. W. Bowen & Co.

At the close of each day:

First, carry the sales from consignments from the sales book to the loose leaf consignment ledger under Sales. Be sure that you get the right stencil mark, and place a check mark against each item in the sales book as it is transferred (see form, page 149).

Second, carry each item paid for consignments to the consignment ledger under Charges, Advances, etc.

Third, carry any cash received from, or paid on account of, shipments to the shipment ledger (see model, page 138).

The following shows the sales sheet in consignment ledger after the sales of July 16th and the freight charges have been carried to it from the sales book and the cash book at the close of the day.

No. 16.—These sales have been made from the blotter, and should be entered in the sales book. The cash should be entered in the cash book (see transaction No. 7).

The small cash sale of merchandise, $6, is not entered in your sales book, but charged direct to the credit of Merchandise from the cash book. In every business there will be more or less of these small sales, even though it be strictly wholesale business, for it is quite a common practice among business houses to send in friends with a request that, as a favor, a small quantity of goods be sold them at wholesale prices, and it is customary for a wholesale house to comply with such a request. If such sales are made from consignments, it is necessary that they be entered in the sales book, but when made from your own goods, it is customary to enter them in the cash book only, and post to Merchandise account direct from that book. If many such sales are occurring, it is well to have a special column for merchandise sales in the cash book. In this business, as there are only a few sales of this nature, they will be carried to the General column of the cash book, and Merchandise account credited from that book.

No. 17.—This invoice is for goods ordered by you July 10th, and should be entered in the invoice book as usual.

No. 18.—These items should be entered in the cash book, and the item of $55 also entered in the consignment ledger, opposite Charges, on the loose leaf for Fischer Flour Co's. consignment. Write checks for all bills, except the one of $10 for care of horses. Pay this in cash.

No. 19.—This check is received with an order from A. W. Noone & Co. Place the check in Cash Drawer and make cash book entry, but carry the order over until the 18th.

No. 20.—Deposit checks of W. B. Alden & Co. and A. W. Noone & Co.

No. 21.—JULY 18. Render an account sales to E. Mason & Co., and enclose a New York draft for the amount of the net proceeds.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Turn to your consignment ledger and see that all sales from this consignment, M-1, have been transferred from the sales book to the second, or sales, column of the loose sheet stenciled M-1 in the consignment ledger. Foot this second, or sales, column, and place the amount at the bottom of the page. Find the commission at 5%, and write in the first column of the loose sheet the amount, $13.34. Take 1% of the sales for insurance, storage, etc., and place it against the word Charges, under which head insurance, storage, etc., will be kept in the ledger. Subtract the sum of the amounts in the first column from the footing of the second column, and place the difference opposite Net Proceeds in the first column of the loose sheet (see model, page 152). This is the amount to be sent to E. Mason & Co. This amount is to be sent by New York draft, the cost of which you will pay. Make out a check for the amount of the net proceeds of the consignment plus 25 cents, the cost of the draft.

The following is a form of check to be used in the purchase of New York drafts.

No. 215. (Your place here.) July 18, 1900

The Traders Bank

Pay to the order of N.Y. Draft 246, 64 Ex. 25¢ $246.89

Two hundred forty six 89/100 Dollars

E. H. Reed & Co. IN COLLEGE CURRENCY.

Take this check to the bank and purchase a New York draft, payable to your own order, for the amount of E. Mason & Co's. net proceeds. Indorse the draft over to E. Mason & Co.

Enter in your account sales register the information called for in the columns of that book (see pages 140 and 141), taking the amounts from the loose sheet after it is footed.

The form on page 152 shows the loose sheet of E. Mason & Co's. consignment No. 1 as it should appear at the present time.

Enter in your cash book, debiting Consignments (Mason & Co's. const. No. 1) for the amount of the draft, and Expense for the cost of the draft, 25¢. (If a large number of New York drafts is sent, so that there would be a considerable amount paid for exchange, an account with collection and exchange should be kept, but in this business it is not thought advisable to open such an account, and Expense is debited for the exchange on drafts.) Balance the loose sheet in your consignment ledger. If your work is correct, the columns will foot alike. Remove the loose sheet from the ledger and take an impression of it in the letter book. Place the New York draft and the loose sheet (M-1) in an envelope properly addressed, and place in Vouchers for Others.

As the consignment is now closed, and you have sent the net proceeds to the consignor, it is evident that there is no necessity for any record of this lot in your books. If your school is not provided with the proper letter press, then the entry in the account sales register will be a sufficient record of the transaction.

Some business houses have the draft made payable to the order of the person to whom it is sent, but it is better to make the draft payable to your own order and indorse it over to the person to whom it is to be sent, as his indorsement will then be necessary before he can get the cash on the draft, and the indorsement is a receipt for the money.

No. 22.—Render an account sales of lot R-1 received from Rice & Pond.

Fill out the loose sheet in the consignment ledger as in No. 21, and write a check for the amount of the net proceeds. Take a copy of the loose sheet in your letter impression book, and enclose with the check in an envelope, which address to Rice & Pond, and place in Vouchers for Others. (Enter in cash book and account sales register.)

No. 32.—This check is received from G. H. Tucker & Co., to pay the balance due to the first of July, $204.13.

It is not necessary to send a receipt for a check, since the check itself when paid by the bank will be canceled and returned to its maker, and thus show that the amount has been paid to the person in whose favor it was made; but it is customary in most business houses to acknowledge the receipt of a check by a letter similar to the one given as a model on page 81.

No. 33.—The Traders Bank presents Chas. Hunter & Co's. draft at sight. Accept it by writing Accepted, July 19, payable at Traders Bank across the face, and give the draft to the Traders Bank, asking them to charge to your account. The bank will deduct the amount of the draft from your balance on deposit, and the draft will come back to you with your own vouchers when your bank pass book is written up. Do not fail to deduct the amount of this draft from your balance in the bank, as shown on the stub of your check book, and enter in the cash book, debiting Consignments, since it is paid on Hunter's consignment No. 1.

No. 39.—Draw at 30 days, on J. M. Marsh & Co., for $300, and place the draft in Traders Bank for collection. Make journal entry, crediting Shipments and debiting Bills Receivable, since it is understood that Marsh & Co. will accept the draft; also credit Shipment to J. M. Marsh & Co. in shipment ledger for $300. Make no entry on the stub of the check book. An entry will be made in your bank pass book by the teller at the bank when the draft is collected, and you will then enter it on the stub of the check book.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR POSTING.

In this month's business the posting is somewhat more complicated than in the previous work, and it is well to get a clear idea of the books from which the entries in the main ledger are taken, and the manner in which they are posted. The main ledger should be divided into sections, as in the previous month's work, the first containing the partners' accounts and all accounts showing losses or gains, including an account with shipments and the Loss and Gain account. The account with shipments is really an abstract of the shipment ledger and the Shipments column in the cash book, with perhaps an occasional entry from the journal, in cases where the net proceeds of the shipment have been placed to your credit instead of remitted in cash. The second section, called the customers' ledger, should contain all accounts which are resources to the business, and an account with consignments, which is an abstract of the account sales register and the Consignments columns of the cash book and the sales book. The third section should contain all accounts which are liabilities to the business.

The items from the Consignments columns of the cash book and the sales book should be carried to the loose sheets in the consignment ledger at the close of each day, as it is necessary that they appear there before an account sales can be rendered to the consignor, and it is also necessary that the items in the Shipments columns of the cash book be carried to the shipment ledger in the same manner, as they must appear there before the final closing of the shipment ledger or the balancing of the cash book. When the amounts from the Shipments columns of the cash book are carried to the shipment ledger, each shipment should be closed by writing Loss or Gain on the smaller side of the shipment ledger (see model, page 138).

POSTING THE CASH BOOK.

Debit Side of Cash Book.—Post the General column of the cash book on the debit side as in previous cash books, except that cash sales of merchandise which are charged to individuals are not posted, but checked off both in the cash book and the sales book (see model, page 136).

Post the footing of the Merchandise Discount column to the debit of Merchandise Discount in the main ledger. Do not forget to credit each personal account with merchandise discount, as well as with the net amount of cash received (see model following).

Jan.	1	Balance		250	Jan.	7	C		2	237	50
						7	C		2	12	50

Post the footing of the Shipments column to the credit of Shipments in the main ledger.

Credit Side of Cash Book.—Post the General column as in previous work.

Post Merchandise Discount to the credit of Merchandise Discount in the main ledger. Do not forget to debit each personal account with the merchandise discount, as well as with the net amount of cash paid out (see model following).

H. F. WOOD & BROS.

Jan.	9	C		3	570	Jan.	3	S. B.		5	600

Post the footing of the Shipments column to the debit of Shipments in the main ledger.

Post the footing of Consignments column to the debit of Consignments in the main ledger. Balance the cash book (see model pages 136 and 137).

POSTING THE SALES BOOK.

Post as in previous work to the debit side of personal accounts in the ledger, except that cash sales should not be posted to the debit of persons to whom they are made, but checked off as in the cash book (see model, page 139).

Post the footing of Sales from Consignments column to the credit of Consignments in the main ledger.

Post the footing of the Merchandise column to the credit of Merchandise in the main ledger.

POSTING THE SHIPMENT LEDGER.

Post the footing of the Merchandise column in the shipment ledger to the debit of Shipments and to the credit of Merchandise in the main ledger (see model, page 138).

POSTING THE ACCOUNT SALES REGISTER.

Carry the footings of Commission and Charges columns into the Amount Charged to Account column, and opposite these amounts write Commission and Charges in the Name of Account column. (See model, pages 140 and 141.)

Post to the main ledger any amounts which may be in the Amount Charged to Account column to the credit of the names indicated in the Name of Account column of the account sales register, and the total of this column to the debit of Consignments. (See model, pages 140 and 141.)

Post the invoice book as usual.

Your posting is now completed, but you should check back, to be certain that there are no omissions.

Study carefully these directions for posting, and you will have no trouble in taking your trial balance.

No. 49.—JULY 23. This check has been received in payment of bill of July 16th, less 3% on the part of the sale which was made from your own merchandise. See if the check is for the correct amount, and if so, enter it in your cash book, debiting Merchandise Discount for the amount of the difference between the check and the amount of the bill shown in your sales book under date of July 16th.

This is in effect instructing the bank to charge to your account, and of course you must deduct this $500 from the bank balance on the stub of your check book (see No. 33); enter also in your cash book, debiting Consignments, Fischer No. 2. Enter the goods on a loose sheet in the consignment ledger, with the stencil mark F-2, and opposite Advances, in the debit column, write the amount of the sight draft you have ordered to be paid.

Write Accepted, payable at Traders Bank across the face, as in No. 51, and place it in Cash Paid Out, or give it to the bank teller or to the person appointed to take charge of such paper. (Enter in your cash book, debiting Western New York Preserving Co.)

See that the net proceeds are placed to your credit in your bank pass book, and enter in your cash book and on your check book stub the same as a deposit. What account should be credited? What account should be debited?

No. 62.—This memorandum comes with goods received, freight paid, from the Western New York Preserving Company. (Enter on loose sheet of consignment ledger as usual.)

No. 63.—Render an account sales of consignment received from the Iowa Packing Company. Their net proceeds should be $136.48. Send them this amount by New York draft, for which you will pay 25¢. Make the check for $136.73, amount of draft and exchange, and buy the draft at the bank, giving the check in exchange for it. Have the draft made to your own order, indorse properly, and enclose it with the account sales in an envelope addressed to the Iowa Packing Company. Make the proper entries in your cash book and account sales register (see No. 21).

No. 64.—These sales have been made from the blotter. Enter in the sales book and the cash book as usual, and carry to the consignments sheets in the consignment ledger.

No. 65.—Ship to Warren Jordan, New York, to be sold on commission, 150 brls. apples at $2.75, 800 bu. potatoes at 55¢. (Enter in your shipment ledger.)

No. 66.—Cashier's payments for the day. Make out checks and enter properly in the cash book and on the check book stub.

No. 67.—JULY 25. This bill of lading and the accompanying sight draft are presented by the Traders Bank, and the goods mentioned have been received from the Iowa Packing Co., to be sold on their account and risk.

Accept the draft, payable at the bank, and place it in Cash Paid Out, or hand it to the teller if there is one. Deduct the amount from your balance on the stub of your check book. Enter in your cash book, and make a record of the receipt of the goods on a consignment sheet in the consignment ledger.

No. 68.—Enter this lot received from E. Mason & Co. on a loose sheet of the consignment ledger. (M-3.)

No. 69.—Send 500 bu. potatoes at 55¢, and 10 tubs butter at 21¢, to F. H. Larkin & Co., Northboro, to be sold on commission. Take these goods from your own merchandise. (Enter in your shipment ledger.)

No. 70.—Render an account sales of E. Mason & Co.'s consignment No. 2, and send them the net proceeds by New York draft. Make out a check for the amount of the draft and 50¢ exchange. Give the check to the bank teller, or person appointed to take charge of such paper, receive the draft, which should be for $465.47, and indorse it to the order of E. Mason & Co. Enter in your cash book and account sales register (see No. 21).

This check is for a larger amount than you have on deposit in the bank at this time. When you present the check in exchange for the draft to be sent to E. Mason & Co., tell your teacher, or the cashier of the bank, that this overdraws your account, but that during the day you will make a deposit of checks, etc., sufficient to make up the deficiency. Deduct the balance you have on hand from the amount of the check, and write the remainder, in red ink, on the stub of your check book, with the explanation, Overdraft.

It is customary for banks to allow an occasional overdraft from customers in good standing, and such overdrafts will sometimes occur through mistakes arising from the failure to deduct a check from the balance shown on the stub of the check book. In such cases the bank generally notifies the drawer of the check that he has overdrawn his account, and requests him to make up the deficiency.

No. 71.—Order received from D. W. Perry & Co. Fill order as usual, taking apples at $3.50 and butter at 22¢ from H-1; plums at $1.50 and peaches at $1.75 from W-2.

No. 72.—Sales from blotter. Enter in your sales book, and carry to the consignment sheets. Place the cash in your Cash Drawer. Check off cash sales in the sales book and in the cash book.

No. 73.—Cashier's payments for the day. Make out a check for the bill for building stable, and pay the freight bills in cash. Do not forget to charge each consignment and each shipment with its freight bill.

This check is also an overdraft, and, like the amount sent to E. Mason & Co., it will be made up in the day's deposits. Add $350 on the stub of the check book to the red ink overdraft, and write the result underneath, in red ink, with the explanation, Overdraft. When you make your deposit at the close of the day, deduct this red ink amount of overdraft from your deposit for the day on the stub of your check book, and write the difference underneath, in black ink, with the explanation, Balance.

No. 74.—Deposit checks of National Market Co., Public Market Co., Thos. Varick & Co., F. H. Larkin & Co. and F. H. Randall & Co.

No. 75.—JULY 26. This invoice has been purchased from Gillette & Hennigan.

No. 76.—Fill order, taking oranges at $6.00, lemons at $4.75 and pineapples at $1.80 from your own merchandise; plums at $1.50 and cherries at $1.50 from W-2.

No. 77.—This order is received from G. H. Tucker & Co., and, as per letter, you may draw a sight draft for the amount of the bill. Fill the order, taking goods from your own merchandise—pineapples, $1.80; lemons, $4.75; cheese, 15¢; ketchup, $2.50.

Make out the invoice, and deduct the discount at 3%, since the sale is in effect for cash. Draw the draft and place it in your Cash Drawer for deposit at the close of the day with other drafts and checks received. Enter the amount in your cash book the same as if it were a check, and check off the sales book and the cash book entries the same as in regular cash sales.

No. 78.—These are sundry small sales made from your own merchandise and not entered in the sales book, but charged direct to the credit of Merchandise from the cash book.

No. 79.—This is a letter from Russell & Birkett, enclosing a draft. Accept this draft and place it in Vouchers for Others. Enter in your journal.

No. 80.—This check is in payment of bills of July 16th and 17th. The bills are net.

No. 81.—Cashier's payment. Pay freight on Gillette & Hennigan's invoice in cash, $5.60.

No. 82.—Deposit sight draft of G. H. Tucker & Co. and check of City Hotel Co. Enter the sight draft on your deposit ticket under Checks, with the explanation, Sight draft, opposite the amount. It will be received by the bank the same as a check, if the depositor is a responsible person.

No. 83.—JULY 27. Return 10 tubs of butter received from Chas. Hunter & Co., as it is found upon examination to be unfit for your trade.

This transaction calls for an entry in your consignment ledger. Under Sales write 10 tubs butter returned, 600 lbs. Write a letter to Hunter & Co., telling them why the goods have been returned.

No. 84.—Render an account sales to Rice & Pond for consignment No. 3. Send them a check for the net proceeds. Do not fail to enter in account sales register.

Shipments Account in the Ledger.—This account is closed like all the business accounts, by writing Gain or Loss on the smaller side of the account, but it is always necessary to find from the shipment ledger what goods are as yet unsold. Enter the value of these shipments on the credit side of Shipments account as an inventory. The gain or loss shown when the Shipments account is closed should be the same as the difference between the gains and losses from the shipments, less charges on unsold goods, as shown in the shipment ledger, where each shipment is balanced by writing Gain or Loss on the smaller side in the ledger columns of that book. As made up from the postings, the Shipments account in the ledger should contain on the debit or left-hand side: (a) the footing of Merchandise column from the shipment ledger; (b) the footing of the Shipments column from the credit side of the cash book. On the credit side should be found: (a) the footing of the Shipments column from the debit side of the cash book; (b) any amounts from consignees who have rendered you accounts sales, but have not sent remittances. These amounts will be found in the journal, where the entries have been made covering such transactions.

Consignments Account in the Ledger.—Consignments account in the ledger is an account which, when all consignments are disposed of and accounts sales rendered, should exactly balance, for you neither gain nor lose by consignments, your profits from such accounts being shown through Commission and Charges accounts; but consignments will very seldom, if ever, be all closed out at any one time. If you have sold parts of several consignments, and not rendered accounts sales of such consignments, you owe the consignors for the amount sold, and Consignments account balanced will be a liability; but on the other hand, you may have accepted or paid drafts in advance of sale of goods received. In that case, the balance of Consignments account will be a resource, for the consignees owe you for these advances until you have received enough from the sales of consignments to make them up. The balance of Consignments account, therefore, should appear in your statement of resources and liabilities as a resource or a liability, as the case may be.

Consignments account when posted to the ledger should contain on its debit side the footing of the Consignments column from the credit side of the cash book and any debits which may have been posted from the journal. On the credit side should appear the footing of the Consignments column of the sales book.

It is found that you have on hand the following goods:

30 doz. Ketchup,	2.00

It is estimated that the real estate is worth $9700.

The premium on the insurance policy is estimated to be worth $45.83.

The office supplies on hand—paper, envelopes, stamps, etc.—are valued at $35.

Furniture and fixtures valued at $225.

Horses and wagon valued at $292.50.

Unsold shipments have cost you $1253.50, and are valued at that amount, as shown in your shipment ledger.

Make a statement of losses and gains according to the model on pages 160 and 161.

The first part of this statement shows the gain arising from the regular transactions of the business, but the partners agreed that the difference between their investments should be settled by giving interest to each partner for his net investment. This interest must be deducted from the gain of the business, as shown in the second part of the model statement. Find the interest on your own investment and on that of E. H. Reed for the time this business has continued, which is 31 days. Enter the amounts of interest on the debit or loss side of your loss and gain statement, as in the model, then credit Reed one-half and yourself one-half of the gain which remains, for these amounts have been deducted from the total gain of the business.

Make a statement of resources and liabilities according to the model on pages 162 and 163, supplying the necessary figures from your own books.

Close your ledger, making the date July 31st. Do not forget to enter all the inventories on the credit side of the accounts to which they belong.

Close all the business accounts, writing Loss or Gain, in red ink, on the smaller side, and transfer these closing entries to the Loss and Gain account. After this has been done, close the Loss and Gain account by writing Gain from the business, in red ink, on the smaller side of the account. Foot and rule, and bring this gain from the business over to the opposite side of the Loss and Gain account.

There is due each partner interest at 6% on his investment for the time it has been in the business (31 days). Calculate this interest; the amount is $3x.x3 on your investment and $4x.x9 on Reed's investment. This interest is to come out of the gains of the business, therefore enter it on the debit side of the Loss and Gain account in the ledger, in red ink, writing E. H. Reed, interest opposite $1x.x9, and (Student), interest opposite $3x.x3. Transfer your interest to the credit side of your account in the ledger and Reed's interest to the credit side of his account.

Close the second section of the Loss and Gain account by writing, in red ink, on the debit side, (Student), net gain, with one-half the difference between the two sides of the Loss and Gain account as it now stands, and also, in red ink, E. H. Reed, net gain, with one-half the difference of the account as it now stands.

Balance the Loss and Gain account, and transfer your own and Reed's gains to the credit side of your respective accounts in the ledger.

The following model is the exact form of a Loss and Gain account corresponding to the statement of losses and gains on pages 160 and 161. This Loss and Gain account is similar in form to the Loss and Gain account in your ledger.

Ledgers.—The purchase ledger should include the accounts of all persons from whom you buy goods. It does not differ in form from any other ledger.

The sales ledger should include the accounts of all persons to whom you sell goods. It does not differ in form from your main ledger.

Your main ledger should include all the accounts of the business which are not entered in the purchase ledger or the sales ledger. The difference between the sides of the Accounts Payable account in the main ledger should always agree with the difference between the sides of the purchase ledger. The difference between the sides of the Accounts Receivable account in the main ledger should at all times agree with the difference between the sides of the sales ledger.

Invoice Book and Sales Book.—These books will not differ in form from those previously kept, but in the sales book cash sales are placed in the cash column.

Bill Book.—The bill book will be kept as an auxiliary book; that is, a record of all notes received and issued will be made in it, but no posting will be done therefrom. Some bookkeepers post directly from the bill book and keep no Bills Receivable nor Bills Payable account in the main ledger.

WORK FOR THE STUDENT.

AUGUST 1, 190—.

You have entered into partnership this day with H. W. Taylor and Clark F. Wood, who have been conducting a wholesale dry goods business under the style of Taylor & Wood. The name of the new firm will be Taylor, Wood & Co., and its purpose will be to purchase and develop the business of the firm of Taylor & Wood.

The partnership is to continue five years, unless sooner dissolved by mutual consent of the partners. You are to invest $2500 cash in the business, and Taylor and Wood the net investments as shown by their respective interests in the schedule of resources and liabilities given below.

Since you are an experienced salesman, you will receive $175 per month as salary, Taylor $150, and Wood $125.

Each partner shall at the close of each year, or sooner if the books are closed before the end of the year, be charged with interest at 6% on such sums as he may have withdrawn from the business for his personal use; from the date such sums were drawn until the end of the year, or to such time of closing the books, and he shall receive 6% interest on his investment. It is also agreed that no member of the firm shall draw to exceed $250 per month for his personal use.

Prepare articles of copartnership embodying the above conditions.

The resources of the firm of Taylor & Wood, which are to be purchased, and the liabilities of that firm, which are to be assumed by the new firm, are as follows:

Note of Wilson & Randolph for $654.90, dated June 14th, payable at Merchants Bank, Buffalo, N. Y., drawn at two months with interest.

Note of Warren & Co. for $325.00, dated July 23d, payable at Traders Bank, Scranton, Pa., drawn at 60 days without interest.

Note of Isaac Holman & Sons for $715.23, dated June 1st, payable at Second National Bank, Newark, N. J., drawn at three months with interest.

BILLS PAYABLE.

Note in favor of Little Falls Woolen Co. for $500.00, dated April 24th, drawn at four months with interest.

Enter the above notes in your bill book. You will find the bills receivable among your incoming vouchers. Examine these notes, and, if correct, write Taylor & Wood on the back of each note (thus indorsing the notes to the new firm), and place them in your Cash Drawer. Write the two bills payable, and place them in your Bills Payable File.

In the list of resources is an item of interest, $17.48. Interest has accrued on three of the bills receivable, so that they are now worth more than their face value. It is therefore necessary, in opening this set of books, to find the present value of all notes, in order to determine the actual net investment.

The amount of interest due from others to date is found to be $17.48, and, being an available resource already earned, it is so inventoried. In the same way, interest accrued on our own promises to pay is a liability already incurred, and must be inventoried to show all outstanding obligations.

The note of Warren & Co., drawn without interest, will not be worth its face value until maturity. Computing the discount to maturity, we find the present worth to be $2.76 less than the face value. This amount is credited to Discount; always debit Bills Receivable and credit Bills Payable for their face value. (See journal entry Aug. 1st, page 167.)

Open accounts in the main ledger with all the items in the list of resources and liabilities, carrying inventory of merchandise to Merchandise Purchases account. Open investment accounts on page 1, and private accounts on page 2. For ledger explanations, write Inventory for accounts with Merchandise Purchases, Interest, Discount, Insurance, Horse and Wagon, Furniture, and Real Estate; for all others, write Balance. (Allow one-half page to each account.)

The company has decided to continue the lease of the store at Nos. 69 and 71 Second St., paying $300 monthly in advance.

Place balance in bank on stub of check book, or deposit in school bank. Place balance of cash in Cash Drawer.

For various reasons, it is often desirable to make the collection of the purchase price before the goods are delivered to the customer. Such shipments by express are sent C. O. THE BALANCE LEDGER.

In this month's work you will use what is known as the balance ledger for the posting of accounts receivable and accounts payable. The following is a form of this ledger.

WARNER, DEFOREST & CO.,

Amsterdam, N. Y.

Date.	Description.	Terms.	Fol.	Debit.	Balance.	Credit.	Date.	Fol.	Explanation.

The first column at the left is the ordinary Date column. The narrow column following, marked "Description," indicates the book from which the posting is taken. In the Terms column following should be written the terms of sale. The Folio column shows the page of the book indicated in the Description column. The Debit column follows. In the center of the ledger page is a column for balances. Next to this comes the Credit column, followed by the Date and Folio columns, and an Explanation column, which may contain the letters indicating the book from which the credit posting is made; or, if it be a purchase, this column may contain the terms, or in fact any description the entry may make advisable. The balance of the account, when a trial balance is taken, should be placed in the Balance column at the center of the page. The Debit and Credit columns opposite each other will show readily when any particular bill has been paid, and in case a bill is paid in full, instead of ruling the ledger account, it is better to write a small figure opposite each of the accounts which balance (see model above). In this way a mere glance at a ledger account shows what bills remain unpaid, and frequently saves a large amount of work in taking the balance of that account.

This form of ledger is largely in use in business houses which keep a large number of personal accounts, as it enables the bookkeeper to make a statement of any personal account with very little extra labor.

DIRECTIONS FOR POSTING.

In this month's transactions you have three ledgers—the main ledger, the sales ledger, and the purchase ledger. In the main ledger, under the head of Accounts Receivable, you have an abstract of the sales ledger, and under the head of Accounts Payable, you have an abstract of the purchase ledger.

POSTING THE JOURNAL.

The journal, in this month's transactions, contains special columns on the debit side for Accounts Payable and Bills Receivable. Post the footing of Accounts Payable column on the debit side of the journal to the debit of Accounts Payable in the main ledger. Post the footing of Bills Receivable column on the debit side of the journal to the debit of Bills Receivable in the main ledger. Check off each bill receivable in the Folio column of the journal, as all these items are posted at once when the footing of the column is carried to the debit of Bills Receivable in the main ledger.

Post each individual account on the debit side of the journal to the person or firm named in the purchase ledger. The total debit of accounts in the purchase ledger will agree with the footing of Accounts Payable column of the journal.

Post all accounts found in the General column on the debit side of the journal as in the ordinary posting of the journal in previous sets. These accounts will be found in the main ledger.

The credit side of the journal contains special columns for Accounts Receivable and Bills Payable. The footing of the Accounts Receivable column is posted to the credit of Accounts Receivable in the main ledger. The footing of the Bills Payable column is posted to the credit of Bills Payable in the main ledger. Check off each bill payable in the Folio column of the journal, as all these items are posted at once when the footing of the column is carried to the credit of Bills Payable in the main ledger.

Post each individual account to the person or firm named in the sales ledger. The total credit footing of the sales ledger will agree with the footing of Accounts Receivable column of the journal.

The accounts found in the General column are posted as usual.

Carry into the General column of your journal the footings of Accounts Payable and Bills Receivable columns on the debit side, and foot the General column. Carry into the General column the footings of Accounts Receivable and Bills Payable columns on the credit side, and foot the General column. The debit and credit footings should of course be alike.

POSTING THE SALES BOOK.

Post from your sales book all items sold on account to the debit of the proper accounts in the sales ledger. Post the total footing of the last column of the sales book to the credit of Merchandise Sales and to the debit of Accounts Receivable in the main ledger.

POSTING THE CASH BOOK.

The cash book contains, on the debit side, special columns as follows: Amount of Invoice, Discount Allowed, Amount Received, Merchandise, Sundry.

When a customer pays cash on account, the amount of the bill settled is placed in the Amount of Invoice column; whatever discount is allowed upon it is placed in the Discount Allowed column; the net amount of the check, or of cash received, is placed in the Amount Received column. The Merchandise column contains all cash sales of merchandise, and the Sundry column contains such accounts as are not otherwise classified.

In posting, the amounts in the Amount of Invoice column are carried to the credit of the accounts named in the sales ledger, and at the end of the month the footing of this column is carried into the Sundry column of the cash book and posted to the credit of Accounts Receivable in the main ledger.

At the end of the month the footing of the Discount Allowed column is carried to the opposite side of the cash book into the Sundry column, and from that place it is posted to the debit of Discount on Sales in the main ledger.

The Amount Received column is not posted, but should be footed, and its footing added to the Discount Allowed column should equal the footing of the Amount of Invoice column.

The footing of the Merchandise column should be carried into the Sundry column and posted to the credit of Merchandise Sales in the main ledger.

The amounts in the Sundry column should be posted in the usual manner to the accounts named in the main ledger.

The credit side of the cash book contains special columns as follows: Amount of Invoice, Discount Allowed, Amount Paid, Collection and Exchange, Sundry.

When you pay for a purchase, the face of the bill is placed in the Amount of Invoice column; whatever discount was allowed you in the Discount Allowed column; the net amount of the check in the Amount Paid column. All other amounts, except Collection and Exchange, are placed in the Sundry column.

In posting, each amount in the Amount of Invoice column is carried to the debit of the account named in the purchase ledger, and at the end of the month the total footing of the Amount of Invoice column is carried into the Sundry column, and thence posted to the debit of Accounts Payable in the main ledger.

The footing of the Discount Allowed column is carried to the opposite side of the cash book into the Sundry column, and thence posted to the credit of Discount on Purchases in the main ledger.

The footing of the Amount Paid column is not to be posted, but should be added to the footing of the Discount Allowed column, and their sum should equal the footing of the Amount of Invoice column.

The Collection and Exchange column should be footed, the amount carried into the Sundry column, and thence posted to Collection and Exchange in the main ledger.

The items in the Sundry column should be posted to the accounts named in the main ledger..

POSTING THE INVOICE BOOK.

The invoice book should be posted as usual, the items being carried to the credit of the accounts named in the purchase ledger, and the total footing of the book carried to the debit of Merchandise Purchases and to the credit of Accounts Payable in the main ledger.

Having posted your books, check back each item, and be sure that you have posted the footings of the special columns in the journal to the accounts named in the main ledger. See that you have posted the special columns of the cash book to the accounts named in the main ledger, and that each item in the Sundry column has been posted to the account named. See that the footing of the last column of the sales book has been carried to the credit of Merchandise Sales and to the debit of Accounts Receivable in the main ledger, and that the footing of the invoice book has been carried to the debit of Merchandise Purchases and to the credit of Accounts Payable in the main ledger.

Foot your cash book and write the balance, in red ink, on the credit side. See that the amount in the bank agrees with your check book balance, and the amount in the safe agrees with the cash in your Cash Drawer.

Make a statement of the balances of accounts in the sales ledger, and see that the footing is the same as the balance of Accounts Receivable in the main ledger.

Make a statement of the balances in the purchase ledger, and see that the footing is the same as the balance of Accounts Payable in the main ledger.

Take a trial balance of the main ledger, and in this trial balance include the balance of cash, as shown by your cash book.

Present your trial balance to your teacher for examination.

It is desired to make a statement of losses and gains, in order to determine whether the business is being so conducted as to yield a satisfactory profit.

The inventory of unsold merchandise has been taken, and it is found that you have on hand the list of merchandise given on page 182.

The furniture and fixtures of the business, which cost $2600, have depreciated 1% in value.

The horses, wagons and harnesses, which cost $750, show an equal depreciation.

The unexpired policies of insurance are estimated to be worth $267.50, while real estate has advanced in value, so that it is estimated to be worth $12250.

Wamsutta Mills stock is now selling at 115.

There is due for rent on your real estate $100.

Interest accrued on bills receivable, $12.75. Interest due on bills payable, $171.67.

Find the value of your unsold merchandise and all other property, and make a statement of losses and gains according to the following model.

In the third section of the model statement of losses and gains, after the gain from business has been shown as usual in the first two sections, we have on the credit side the items of real estate, Wamsutta Mills stock, and rent, which have no connection with the dry goods business. Add the gain from these items to the gain from the business brought down, and close this section of the loss and gain statement, by writing, in red ink, on the opposite side: Total gain from partnership carried down. Foot and rule this section and bring down the total gain from partnership on the opposite side.

In the fourth section of this statement we have the items of interest and salaries on the debit side. The interest due the partners is found as follows:

H. W. Taylor invested, August 1st, $15800, and is entitled to interest on this amount for 31 days, $8x.x3. He also has in the business a private balance of $400. The interest on this amount for 31 days is $2.x7, making a total credit interest of $8x.x0. Against this amount Taylor is charged with interest on a withdrawal of $200, under date of August 6th. The interest on $200 for 25 days, the time he had it out from the business, is 8x¢, and this amount deducted from $83.70 leaves a credit interest balance of $8x.x7, which you will write opposite the name of H. W. Taylor in the third section of the loss and gain statement.

The following shows the statement of H. W. Taylor's interest account.

C. F. Wood invested $23911.94. This amount has been in the business 31 days, and he is entitled to 31 days' interest, $1xx.x5. He also had in the business a balance of $550 due him on his private account, which is entitled to interest for 31 days, amounting to $2.x4, making a total interest credit due C. F. Wood of $12x.x9.

On August 14th, Wood drew from the business $225, and he is charged with interest on this amount for the time he took it from the business, or 17 days, which is 6x%. Deducting this amount from $126.39, C. F. Wood's interest credit, we have $12x.x5, the balance of interest due C. F. Wood. Write this amount in the third section of the loss and gain statement against the name of C. F. Wood.

The following shows the statement of your own interest account.

Close the Loss and Gain account, by writing Balance carried down, in red ink, on the smaller side. Rule and foot the account. Transfer the balance to the opposite side of the Loss and Gain account, writing Brought down in the explanation column.

On the debit side of the Loss and Gain account write, in red ink, H. W. Taylor's interest, C. F. Wood's interest, and your own interest, taking the amounts from the fourth section of the statement of losses and gains. Also write, in red ink, H. W. Taylor's salary, C. F. SINGLE ENTRY.

Single entry books differ from those used in double entry bookkeeping chiefly in the fact that a single entry ledger contains only accounts with persons, all property accounts being omitted.

The principle of equal debits and credits, belonging to double entry, is not a part of single entry bookkeeping, and consequently no equality exists between the debit and credit sides of the ledger, and no trial balance can be taken of a single entry ledger.

An account with cash should be kept in the cash book, as in double entry bookkeeping, and by means of a bill book it is easy to keep a record of bills receivable and bills payable. An account with merchandise may be kept by the use of an invoice, or purchase, book and a sales book.

A well arranged set of single entry books, correctly kept, will show as complete a record of the business as will a set of books kept by double entry; but it will not be in as compact form, and will require more work on the part of the bookkeeper.

The following transactions are designed to illustrate the method of keeping the books of a modern, up-to-date retail grocery business, at first by means of single entry books, after which will be shown the method of changing from single entry to double entry, continuing the business by double entry, and incidentally showing the use of the card system of ledger bookkeeping.

In order that a complete record of the business may be obtained by single entry bookkeeping, the books used will be as follows: journal, cash book, abstract sales book, purchase book, bill book, general ledger, and card ledger, using the card system only for customers' accounts. For an elementary set in single entry, requiring a less complete record of the business, see Appendix.

Journal. This book contains such debits and credits as may occur outside of the cash book and the sales sheets, which make up the abstract sales book, and in it are kept such matters of record as would appear in the ordinary double entry journal.

The form on page 198 illustrates the journal.

Sales Sheets. When sales of merchandise on account are made, in most modern grocery stores sales sheets, or tickets, are used, and by means of carbon paper are written in duplicate by the salesman as he takes the order verbally or from an order book.

The form on page 199 illustrates the sales sheet.

The original and duplicate sales sheets are sent to the office to have the prices O. K'd. The original is retained by the bookkeeper, and the duplicate is sent with the goods when delivered, so that the customer receives a complete bill with each lot of goods purchased, and there is little chance for mistakes, or for a dispute, when the weekly or monthly bill is rendered. The bookkeeper should enter the amount of each sales sheet upon his abstract sales sheet for the day.

The form on page 200 illustrates a daily abstract sales sheet, in which the name of each customer is given.

Many bookkeepers keep a regular abstract sales book, using the same form as above, and posting directly from this book to the customer's account in the ledger. A better method is to keep only the amount of each sale on the abstract sales sheet for the day, and carry the total of the day's sales to the abstract sales book at the close of each day, posting daily the items from the sales sheet to the customer's monthly statement sheet, and carrying only the total of this monthly sheet to the debit of the customer, at the end of the week or month, on his ledger card, or page, in case a book is used instead of cards. This method is preferable, as these sales sheets are original entries, and it is to them that reference must be made if any discrepancy exists between an account rendered and the record kept by a customer. The bookkeeper should post these sales sheets daily to the monthly statement sheets, and when the posting is completed, should file away the sales sheets alphabetically, or each day's sheets in a separate package, so that they may be readily accessible, should they be required to verify a customer's monthly statement after it has been rendered.

Cash Sales. Sales of merchandise for cash are made in the same manner as sales on account, except that a sales sheet is used similar in form to the one on page 199, which is receipted when the goods are delivered; or, if the sale is made in the store, the customer is given a cash ticket, which is presented with the money to the cashier, who files the ticket with the cash sales sheets on a spindle, or in such manner as may be desired. The sum of the amounts of these tickets and of the cash sales sheets should equal the sum of the cash sales of the day, and should be carried to the Sales for Cash column of the abstract sales book, and also to the debit side of the cash book. (See form of abstract sales book, page 201, and form of cash book, pages 204 and 205.)

Abstract Sales Book. The abstract sales book contains columns for date, number of daily abstract sales sheet, sales on account, cash sales, total daily sales, total weekly sales, and total monthly sales, so that the book will show at a glance each day's business, both cash and credit, the sum in total, and the total sales at the end of each week and month.

The following form illustrates the abstract sales book.

ABSTRACT SALES BOOK.

In the series of transactions following, the daily abstract sales sheet will be used according to the form on page 200, and the abstract sales book will contain only totals, as shown in the above form.

It is evident that the sum of the footings of the Sales for Cash and the Sales on Account columns of the abstract sales book will at any time show the total sales of merchandise to date.

Purchase Book. This book is an abstract of the invoices of merchandise purchased in the regular course of business, and where the ordinary invoice book is kept, it would, of course, be unnecessary to keep the purchase book, since all the material of the purchase book and also the items of these purchases would be found in the invoice book. Many bookkeepers, however, keep a purchase book, and file the invoices loose, instead of pasting them into a book, and in this series of transactions, since no invoices are received by the student, it is necessary to keep an abstract of these invoices, hence the purchase book, which contains columns for the date of the invoice, the ledger folio, the name of the person or firm from whom the goods were bought, the terms of payment, the due date, the date of payment, the amount of the invoice, the discount, and the amount paid.

It is evident that the footing of the Amount of Invoice column in the purchase book will, at any time, show the amount of merchandise purchased, and this amount, less the footing of the Discount column, will be the net cost of merchandise at any date. The total footing of the columns of the abstract sales book will show the amount of merchandise sold at any time. To this amount add the inventory of merchandise unsold, and the difference between this sum and the net cost of merchandise will show the gain or loss.

The form on page 202 illustrates the purchase book.

Cash Book. This book does not differ materially from the cash book kept in double entry. The left-hand page contains a record of all cash received, and the right-hand page a record of all cash paid out; also a special column for merchandise discount allowed on bills paid within the specified date. When such accounts are posted, two debit entries should be made on the personal account affected, one for the merchandise discount, and one for the net amount paid, thus canceling the amount of the invoice (see instructions for posting merchandise discount, page 138). It is not necessary in a single entry cash book to write the name of the account affected by the transaction, except when it is a personal account, as only accounts with persons are kept in the ledger, and only that part of the cash book which affects personal accounts will be posted to the ledger.

The form on pages 204 and 205 illustrates the cash book.

Customers' Statements. In most grocery establishments, where modern methods are in use, the items from the sales sheets are not posted to the ledger account of the customer, but instead are posted directly from the sales sheets to a monthly statement sheet, which at the end of the week or month is handed, or mailed, to the customer, and the totals only of these sheets are posted to his account in the ledger. When a statement sheet is handed in with cash to make payment of the account, the sheet is receipted and returned to the customer, who receives credit in the ledger for the amount of his payment in the regular posting from the cash book, where the payment should be entered when made. The postings to the statement sheets should be made at the end of each day before the sales sheets of that day are filed away for reference.

Some bookkeepers would post the total of each sales sheet to the debit of the customer on his ledger card, or page, but this seems unnecessary, since the monthly statement sheet is really an itemized ledger account with the customer. A shorter method would consist in posting to the customer's statement sheet only the totals of the sales sheets, not repeating the items on the statement sheet. This saves a large amount of work to the bookkeeper, and if the customer keeps his sales sheets delivered with each order, he can readily compare his statement sheet with his sales sheets; but in practice it is found that customers do not invariably keep these sales sheets, and there are more likely to be disputes about the amount of the monthly statement than when the items are repeated on the statement sheet.

Each day after the customers' statements sheets are posted, they should be placed in an indexed file, where they are readily accessible, and from which they should be removed as soon as the month's work is posted, and handed, or mailed, to the customer. An excellent form of file is the "Ledgerette," shown in the accompanying cut.

LEDGERETTE.

The system of bookkeeping by means of loose sheets and cards, properly indexed, in place of books has grown rapidly in favor during the past few years; especially is this true in business houses where there are numerous subdivisions, and where a large number of books would be necessary in order to keep a complete record. The records of the day are made on loose sheets, and these sheets are handed to the head bookkeeper, who places them in properly arranged files, so that the record of each day's business in every department is readily accessible. Out of this system of account keeping has grown what is known as the index card ledger, a method of keeping ledger accounts which possesses many advantages, among which are the following.

First, the ledger kept by this system contains no accounts with persons who have ceased to do business with the firm, for as soon as a customer closes his account, either by removing from the place, or by transferring his custom to some other business house, his card is taken from the receptacle containing the ledger cards and placed in a file kept for accounts which have been closed. Should the customer return, the card may be taken from this file and placed in the ledger index. In taking a trial balance, therefore, the bookkeeper has only live accounts to deal with, and there is less liability to make mistakes.

Second, the cards are easily handled, and once the cabinet has been purchased, it can be extended indefinitely at a trifling expense, the cards costing no more than ordinary paper. In case statements are desired promptly, a ledger of a thousand customers' accounts could be worked upon at the same time by the entire office force, while with a book ledger but one person can work on statements at a time. In case of disputes regarding accounts, where it is necessary to produce the books in court, the ledger card or loose sheet containing the account in dispute can be produced without interfering with the work of the accountants at the office.

An objection urged against the card system has been that it is difficult in posting to find the individual cards, but if properly indexed by number there is no difficulty from this source. The cards can be found as readily as the page of a customer in an ordinary ledger.

FORM OF CARD LEDGER.

The above ent illustrates the form of a card ledger indexed alphabetically, and if the number of customers is not too large, this arrangement is preferable, as it requires no other index. If the business be very extensive, however, it is better to number each customer and divide the ledger into hundreds, then subdivide the hundreds into tens. A small tab at the top of each card is provided for a number, and an index book is kept for the names corresponding to the numbers.

The card itself does not differ in ruling from the ordinary ledger page. In posting to the ledger card, first enter in the explanation column the dates of the sales sheets which make up the customer's statement sheet, then enter the total of the statement in the debit money column. It may require two or three lines of the explanation space to write the dates of the sales sheets, but these dates will save a great amount of labor in looking up sales sheets from the daily files in case of a disagreement between a customer's account as kept by him and as kept by the bookkeeper.

The following is a form of ledger card.

INSTRUCTIONS.—Take a statement sheet for each person named on the sales slips, and enter the items of each day's sales on the statement sheets, allowing a line for each item. When this is completed, place the statement sheets in your ledgerette file. In actual practice, at the end of the day the slips would be placed in an envelope or file, and marked with the date, Oct. 1, 190—, so that if any dispute arose regarding the statement slips they could readily be referred to. (See model of statement sheet, page 203; see cut of ledgerette, page 204.) No entries for the above transactions are made in the books.

The old style grocer enters all his sales on a blotter, posts from the blotter to the ledger, and makes out his statements from the ledger at the end of the month. The modern grocer posts the sales slips directly to the customers' monthly statement sheets, and at the end of the month the statements are ready for the customers, as the bookkeeper should do his posting at the end of each day.

The footings only of the statement sheets are carried to the customers' ledger. In this series of transactions the card ledger is used, but it will readily be seen that the card ledger does not differ from an ordinary customers' ledger (see explanation of card ledger on page 205).

The amount of cash sales, as shown by the cash tickets handed in by the salesmen and the customers, is $121.45. Enter this amount in the cash book, on the debit side, with the explanation, Cash sales, as per tickets.

Enter the total of each customer's sales sheet against the customer's name on an abstract sales sheet, dated Oct. 1, and numbered 1; also enter the total cash sales underneath, and carry these amounts to the proper columns of the abstract sales book (see models, pages 200 and 201).

Paid cash as follows: Books and stationery, $6.25; postage stamps, $1; one month's rent in advance, $50; merchandise purchased of Gray Bros., $15.50; merchandise purchased of Williams & Andrews, $30. Enter in the cash book (see form, pages 204 and 205).

Balance your cash book, entering the difference in red ink on the credit side. Bring down the balance on the left-hand, or debit, side, in the second column, under date of Oct. 8th. In this series of transactions the cash book will be balanced at the close of each day's business, in accordance with the custom in actual retail business.

POSTING.

You may now post your books. Remember that in single entry you post only such transactions as affect personal accounts, and that only personal accounts appear in either the general or the card ledger.

The card ledger debits will be taken entirely from the statement sheets of the ledgerette file. Remove these statements from the file, and post only the totals to the corresponding cards of the card ledger, placing the date of each sales sheet in the explanation space (see model ledger card, page 207).

The card ledger credits will be found on the debit side of the cash book and in the journal. Turn to your cash book and post all cash debits which have been received from persons whose names appear in the card ledger (see form, page 204). Place a check mark against each name in the cash book. Turn to your journal and post any items which may affect customers' accounts, placing a check mark against each item to indicate posting.

Your own account and the accounts with those business houses of whom you purchase goods, and all other personal accounts, except those with customers, will be found in the general ledger, and the postings to these accounts will be made from the journal, the purchase book, and the cash book. Open accounts in your general ledger as follows, allowing one-third page to each account: Page 1, your own account. Page 2, Adams & Hackland, Hackett Bros., E. J. Dunn Grocery Co. Page 3, American Sugar Refining Co., S. M. Crockett & Co., Park & Tilford. Page 4, S. S. Pierce & Co., St. Louis Milling Co., F. H. Leggett & Co. Page 5, Cobb, Bates & Yerxa.

Post from the purchase book the amount of each on account invoice to the credit of the account named; then post from the journal and the cash book such items as should be carried to these accounts. Place check mark against each cash item.

Having completed your posting, make an abstract of your card ledger, showing the amount due from each customer.

From your bill book find the notes receivable in your possession, and from your cash book find the amount of cash on hand.

From your general ledger find the amounts due your creditors, and from your bill book find the notes you have outstanding.

Your inventory shows the following results.

CONTINUATION OF OCTOBER BUSINESS

The business of the past month has shown a small loss, but as the sales are increasing, you have decided to continue the business and take a partner, J. M. Marsh, your present delivery clerk, and to add a department of meats, fish and poultry to your grocery business.

J. M. Marsh invests as follows:

Note in his favor, dated Sept. 4th, at four months from date, signed by Charles A. Lawrence, indorsed by E. W. Lynch. Face of note, $942.68; discount for unexpired time, $—; net value of note, $—.

Note in his favor, dated Sept. 19th, at four months, with interest, signed by George M. Kelly, indorsed by Wm. H. Kelly & Co. Face of note, $622.85; interest due on note to date, $—; value of note and interest, $—.

Horse, wagon, and harness, now used for delivering goods, valued at $250.

Cash, sufficient to make his investment equal your own worth, as shown by your statement of Oct. 31st.

Draw up articles of copartnership, showing investments of each partner, and containing the following conditions.

(Student) shall act as bookkeeper and cashier, and shall have general charge of the inside management of the store; shall receive all cash, sign all notes, checks, and other negotiable paper of the firm, and attend to the purchase of all groceries.

J. M. Marsh shall have charge of the delivery of goods, the taking of orders, with such assistance as may be necessary, and shall attend to the buying of all country produce and provisions.

Each partner shall give his entire time to the business, and shall be entitled to draw, for living expenses, cash not to exceed $100 per month, or its equivalent in goods from the store at cost.

The profits and losses of the business shall be divided equally at the end of each year, or at such period as the books may be closed.

Make a bill of sale, disposing of your entire resources to the firm of (Student) & Marsh, subject to the payment of your liabilities, as shown by your statement of Oct. 31st, the consideration being the two notes, horse, wagon, harness, and cash invested by Marsh.

It has been decided to keep the books by double entry from this date. No new books will be required.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CHANGING FROM SINGLE TO DOUBLE ENTRY.

Turn to your statement of resources and liabilities. Open an account with Merchandise, carrying to the debit side the amount of your inventory. Open an account with Furniture & Fixtures, carrying to the debit side the value of the safe and furniture. Open an account with Bills Receivable, carrying to the debit side the amount of C. H. Stratton's note. Open an account with Bills Payable, placing on the credit side the total amount of notes outstanding. Enter the loss, as shown by the statement of your own account, Oct. 31st, on the debit side of your ledger account, with the explanation, Net Loss, in red ink. Close the account, and bring down your present worth to the credit side, under date of Nov. 1st.

Take a trial balance, including the balance of cash, as shown in your cash book, and the balances of customers' accounts, as shown in your card ledger; the debits and credits should be equal. Your books are now ready to be kept by double entry in the following transactions.

The footing of the Amount of Invoice column of the purchase book should be posted to the debit of Merchandise at the end of the month, as it contains all purchases of merchandise. The footing of the Monthly Sales column of the abstract sales book should be posted to the credit of Merchandise, as it contains all the sales of merchandise.

In your cash book you should enter in the first space the name of the account affected, and in the second space the explanation, as in the cash book of July, pages 136 and 137.

In the journal proceed as in double entry journal, pages 6 and 7.

Make a journal entry, showing the conditions of the partnership, and debit and credit such accounts as are affected by these transactions.

You are now ready to proceed with the work of November.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES AND CORPORATIONS.

The immense increase of business during the latter half of the nineteenth century has made it practically impossible to manufacture, or, in fact, to conduct any of the leading forms of commercial enterprises without a large investment of capital. It is seldom that an individual, or a practical working partnership, which should contain only a limited number of members, is possessed of sufficient funds, and the corporation or joint stock company is the natural outgrowth of these conditions, just as the trust, now so prominent a subject of discussion, is the natural outgrowth of the fierce competition between rival corporations.

THE JOINT STOCK COMPANY.

This is in reality a partnership in which the affairs of the business are conducted by officers chosen by the stockholders. Its advantage over the ordinary form of partnership lies in the fact that it enables a larger number of investors to associate themselves in business than could work effectively as ordinary partners, and the death of a shareholder or the sale of his interest in the business does not make a dissolution of partnership necessary, since his stock, under the act of incorporation, may be sold or transferred like any other personal property.

LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS.

The stockholders of a joint stock company are, under the common law, personally liable for the debts of the business conducted, the same as ordinary partners; that is, each stockholder is personally liable for the entire debts of the joint stock company, but in most states this liability may be limited to the amount of the stock subscribed, provided the joint stock company prints the word "Limited," and the amount of its capital upon all paper of the company. For instance, the heading "Cleveland Iron Works, Limited, Capital Stock $50,000," would indicate that each stockholder of this company is liable to the extent of his stock subscription only. Limited stock companies are much more common in England than in the United States, and must comply strictly with the statute laws governing their organization and conduct.

THE CORPORATION.

Formerly, corporations were organized by direct act of the legislature of the state in which their charter was granted, but the popularity of this form of organization has become so great that most states now have a general statute under which corporations may be formed without delay or difficulty whenever the requisite number of persons decide to associate themselves in the carrying on of whatever business may be selected. The ability of many people of limited capital to combine under efficient management, and without incurring liability beyond the amount of their stock subscription, has been one of the chief sources of the tremendous industrial and commercial growth of this country.

The incorporated joint stock company, or as it is more commonly known, the corporation, has largely taken the place of the joint stock company. A corporation consists of an association of several persons, as provided for by the statute laws of the state in which the corporation is organized. These persons organize for the purpose of carrying on some particular line of business, as stated in their charter. They subscribe a certain amount of money to be used as capital stock, and then, after the election of the necessary officers, proceed in the transaction of their business precisely as a private partnership or joint stock company, with the advantages that, in case of the death of any stockholder, no dissolution is necessary, or in case a partner desires to dispose of his stock, he may do so by sale, or otherwise, without affecting the corporation. The feature which has made the corporation so popular is that each individual stockholder is, generally speaking, liable only for the amount of his individual subscription.

TRUSTS.

Trusts are combinations of corporations, and are organized by the transfer of a majority of the stock of each corporation to a central committee, or board of trustees, who issue to the stockholders certificates showing that though they have parted with their stock they are still entitled to dividends. Such combinations make it possible to reduce the cost of manufacturing, bookkeeping, selling, etc., and furthermore, to limit production in their line of business. The sharp competition of recent years, which has often caused goods to be sold at less than cost, has done much to bring trusts into favor with the stockholders of corporations. Tobacco, sugar, steel wire, and numerous other commodities, are now controlled by great trusts having enormous capital; that of the wire trust alone is ninety million dollars.

THE ORGANIZATION OF A CORPORATION.

The statutes of the various states specify how many stockholders a corporation must include. In New York, at least three persons of 21 years of age must unite to form a corporation; in some states, five or more are required. These people come together and make a certificate which contains

First, the name of the corporation, which in some states must begin with the word "the" and end with the word "company."

Second, the place where the corporation proposes to do business, or locate its principal office.

Third, the nature of the business it proposes to carry on.

Fourth, the amount of its capital, and the number and par value of its shares.

Fifth, the duration of the corporation.

Sixth, such other information as the statute may require.

This certificate is filed in the office of the secretary of state, and he issues a license to the persons making such certificate, authorizing them to open books for subscription to the capital stock of the corporation. Subscription books are then opened, and the capital stock of the company is disposed of by subscription, or otherwise. A certain amount, prescribed by the statute, must be subscribed before the corporation is permitted to do business. After such stock has been subscribed for, and such payment of the subscription made as is required by the statute, a meeting of the subscribers is called, officers are chosen, and by-laws are made. A record of these proceedings is filed with the secretary of state, and a certificate is issued by him to the effect that the corporation is fully organized and authorized to do business under the laws of the state. The organization of a corporation requires a thorough knowledge of the statutes of the state under which it is organized, and no attempt to do business should be made until the statute requirements have been fully met and the corporation organized under legal direction. It is always economy to secure the services of a lawyer familiar with corporation affairs in effecting such an organization and in conducting all operations of the corporation that are required to comply with the laws of the state in which it is organized.

CERTIFICATES OF STOCK.

Certificates of stock are issued to subscribers as soon as their subscriptions are paid, and these stock certificates are transferable, either wholly or in part, at will, unless a subscriber be indebted to the corporation, in which case they cannot be transferred without the consent of a majority of the stockholders.

INCREASE OR DIMINUTION OF CAPITAL STOCK.

In most states the capital stock of a corporation may be increased or diminished by a vote of the stockholders holding a majority of the stock, but all statutes set a limit to the amount of increase, and in no case can the stock be decreased to an amount less than the liabilities of the corporation, and such amount of increase or decrease of capital stock must be filed with the secretary of state when this increase or decrease is voted.

LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS.

In general, the individual liability of a stockholder ceases when he has paid the amount of his stock subscription, provided the capital stock subscribed has already been paid, but if any remains unpaid, the stockholders who have paid their subscriptions are also individually liable for the amount of the unpaid stock; and in some cases, notably national banks, the subscribers to stock are liable for double the amount of their subscriptions.

LOSSES AND GAINS OF A CORPORATION.

The losses and gains of a corporation are found through the Loss and Gain account, the same as in any other business, but from this account they are carried to a Surplus account, which contains on its credit side the gain of the business, or on its debit side the loss of the business. The Surplus account is allowed to remain open until a dividend is declared, when Dividend is credited and Surplus debited for the amount of the dividend.

DIVIDENDS.

The division of profits among the stockholders of a corporation is made by means of a dividend, which is seldom the full amount of the gain, as it is desirable to create a surplus which may be drawn upon as required. Corporations aim to declare regular dividends of a fixed per cent at stated periods, so that their stock may form a desirable investment to capitalists. It is evident that in dull and unprosperous periods of business there may be no profits to divide. It is customary, therefore, to leave in the surplus sufficient funds to provide for a dividend, even though there be no profits in a time of business depression.

Sometimes the Loss and Gain account is closed by declaring a dividend for a certain amount at the time the gain is ascertained, placing this amount to the debit of Loss and Gain, at the same time debiting Loss and Gain with surplus for the balance of gain, and transferring these amounts from the Loss and Gain account to the Dividend and Surplus accounts respectively, but the first method is preferable.

TREASURY STOCK.

Sometimes only a part of the capital stock is subscribed for before business is commenced, and the balance is retained with a view to selling it at a later period, either to provide money for running expenses or to make extensions of business; this unsold stock is known as "treasury stock." Or, it may be found that the entire capital stock has been used for machinery, materials, etc., and in this case sometimes the stockholders, instead of increasing capital stock to get money to carry on the business, donate a pro rata amount of stock to the treasury, and this stock is sold to secure funds as required.

WATERED STOCK.

Watering stock consists in issuing shares without any equivalent addition to the cash capital of the corporation. These shares are distributed among the stockholders, generally for speculative purposes. When this watered stock is issued as a stock dividend, it is generally done by debiting Loss and Gain for the amount of the issue.

THE BOOKS OF A CORPORATION.

The ordinary books of account for conducting a corporation business will be precisely the same as those of a private business, since the transactions will not differ, but a number of auxiliary books are required to show the operations connected with the corporate affairs of the business. These comprise the minute book, subscription book, stock certificate book, transfer book, dividend book, and stock ledger.

Minute Book. This book should contain a record of all the meetings of the stockholders and the board of directors, and is generally kept by the secretary of the corporation. No special form of keeping this book is required, as it is simply a record of the proceedings, and its form is immaterial, provided it contains an accurate report of the proceedings of all the meetings.

Subscription and Instalment Book. This book contains a list of the subscribers to the stock with the number and the par value of the shares subscribed for by each, and it paid for in instalments, a separate space for each instalment.

The following form illustrates the instalment subscription book.

Sometimes an instalment book is kept separately from the subscription book, and as each instalment is paid the subscriber receives a script certificate for the amount of his instalment, and when all the instalments have been paid, he exchanges his script certificates for a stock certificate, which will show the full amount of his subscription.

Stock Certificate Book. This is a book of blank certificates and stubs, and these certificates are issued to the stockholders as soon as their subscriptions are fully paid and the stubs are filled out, and from them is made up the credit side of the stock ledger, in which each stockholder receives credit for the number of shares of stock held by him.

On the back of each certificate is a blank bill of sale, by which the stockholder may transfer his stock to any other person.

The form on page 232 illustrates the stock certificate book and the manner of filling the certificate and stub.

Transfer Book. This is a book of printed forms and blanks to be filled in whenever a stockholder sells his stock, or any part of it, to another person, and each certificate signed by the seller, or his attorney, authorizes the transfer of a certain number of shares of stock from the account of the seller to the account of some other person named in the certificate. The transfer book serves as a journal to the stock ledger, and from it are made all entries to that book after the original stock issue of the business has been entered in the stock ledger. (See form below.)

Stock Ledger. This book is auxiliary to the general ledger, and its credit balance plus Treasury Stock balance should always agree with Capital Stock balance in the general ledger. The stock ledger contains the name of every person holding stock of the company, either by original issue or by transfer. It is made up originally from the stub of the stock certificate book, and as stock is issued each holder is credited in the stock ledger with the par value of his stock. When all the stock is issued, it is evident that the sum of these credits will equal the capital stock, as shown on the credit side of that account in the general ledger.

After the opening entries, all entries in the stock ledger should be made from the stub of the transfer book, and as these entries always consist of a debit to a seller of stock whose name is already in the stock ledger, and a credit of an equal amount to a buyer whose name must be entered in the stock ledger for a like amount, it is evident that the credit balance of the stock ledger plus the treasury stock will always equal the capital stock.

Dividend Book. In this book, against the name of each person who has an account in the stock ledger, is recorded the amount due him when a dividend is declared. This book may contain a space for the signature of each stockholder acknowledging the receipt of his dividend, but in large corporations these dividends are generally paid by voucher checks, which are in themselves receipts.

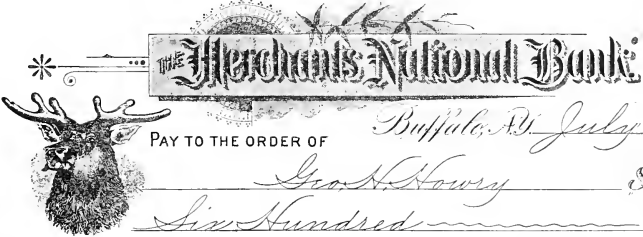

The following forms illustrate the dividend book and the dividend check.

OPENING THE BOOKS OF A CORPORATION.

If the corporation is an entirely new business, it is a simple matter to open its books, as shown in the following propositions.

Proposition. James Brown, William Harper, Charles Edwards, Maurice Chaney and William Upton have formed the American Motor-Carriage Company, with a capital stock of one hundred thousand dollars, of which Brown, Harper and Edwards have subscribed $30000 each, and Chaney and Upton $5000 each. The minute book would show the proceedings of such meetings as had been held, and as soon as all the stock is subscribed for the following journal entry should be made.

Subscription,	100000.00
Capital Stock,	100000.00

This journal entry should be posted to the general ledger.

Suppose these stock subscriptions are to be paid in two instalments, one due Jan. 1st and the other due Feb. 1st. When the first of these instalments is paid, it is evident that the cash book of the corporation should contain a debit entry of $50,000, and that Subscription should be credited for this amount, since it was from subscription that the cash was received.

ENTRY.

CASH, DR.

Jan. 1	Subscription, instalment No. 1, 50000.00

And this amount being posted to the general ledger will cancel half the Subscription account. If the company commences business without collecting the balance of the capital stock, its books for purchase of material, sale of goods, payment of expenses, etc., will be precisely the same as if it were an ordinary partnership.

When the second instalment is paid, there will be another entry of

CASH, DR.

Feb. 1	Subscription, instalment No. 2, 50000.00

And this being posted to the general ledger will balance the Subscription account, showing that it is all paid in. The stock will now be issued, and from the stub of the stock certificate book will be posted to the stock ledger $30000 each to the credit of Brown, Harper and Edwards, and $5000 each to the credit of Chaney and Upton—$100000 in all—which agrees with the amount of the capital stock in the general ledger. The books are now opened, and the business may proceed.

Proposition. Jan. 1, 190-. The Silver Lake Ice Company has been incorporated with a cash capital of $37500, distributed as follows: Edward F. Martin, 100 shares; Geo. Martin, 100 shares; Fred Martin, 50 shares; Geo. Allen, 5 shares; Wm. Ryan, 50 shares; David Ryan, 70 shares, at a par value of $100 each. The stock is paid for in four equal assessments of 25% each, dated Jan. 1st, Feb. 1st, July 1st and July 20th. Make a journal entry to open the books and the four cash book entries required, supposing all instalments are paid when due. What names and amounts would appear in your stock ledger when the stock is issued?

TO CLOSE THE BOOKS OF A BUSINESS ALREADY IN OPERATION, AND REOPEN AS A STOCK COMPANY.

Proposition. The firm of Warren & Carson have been engaged in the manufacture of furniture, and they propose to continue business as The Warren & Carson Manufacturing Company, with a capital stock of $100000, the stock to be divided as follows: W. A. Warren to receive 500 shares and E. B. Carson 250 shares. C. M. Harris has subscribed for 50 shares; D. J. Jones, 50 shares; D. E. Leavitt, 50 shares; and 100 shares are kept as treasury stock, to be disposed of for the benefit of the business when so voted by the directors. The resources and liabilities of the firm of Warren & Carson as follows:

RESOURCES.
Real Estate,	$20000.
Cash,	7500.
Merchandise,	49800.
Unfinished Goods,	24200.
Raw Material,	38700.
Bills Receivable,	22690.50
Accounts Receivable,	41987.50
Total,	$204878.00

LIABILITIES.
Mortgage on real estate,	$15000.00
Bills Payable,	46965.50
Accounts Payable,	72912.50
	$134878.00
Warren's net worth,	46664.75
Carson's net worth,	23335.25
Total,	$204878.00

If it is desired to open a new set of books, as is generally the case when a corporation is formed, it is necessary first to close the old books, which should be done by making a journal entry as follows:

Warren & Carson Furniture Co.,	204878.00
Real Estate		20000.00
Cash,		7500.00
Merchandise,		49800.00
Unfinished Goods,		24200.00
Raw Material,		38700.00
Bills Receivable,		22690.50
Accounts Receivable,		41987.50

Posting this entry will balance all resource accounts. Then should follow the journal entry of

Mortgages Payable,	15000.00
Bills Payable,	46965.50
Accounts Payable,	72912.50
W. A. Warren,	46664.75
E. B. Carson,	23335.25
The Warren & Carson Furniture Co.,		204878.00

Posting this entry will close all liability accounts, the partners' accounts, and also balance The Warren & Carson Furniture Co. account, and close the books of the old business.

To open corporation books, as in the case of a new corporation, the capital stock, $100000, must appear on the credit side of the general ledger. The amount of the resources of the old business must appear as debit balances, and the liabilities as credit balances. The names of Warren and Carson must not appear in the general ledger of the corporation, as their worth at closing has been absorbed by the capital stock. Make the following journal entry.

Subscription,	15000.00
Treasury Stock,	10000.00
Real Estate,	20000.00
Cash,	7500.00
Unfinished Goods,	24200.00
Merchandise,	49800.00
Raw Material,	38700.00
Bills Receivable,	22690.50
Accounts Receivable,	41987.50
Good Will,	5000.00
Mortgages Payable,		15000.00
Bills Payable,		46965.50
Accounts Payable,		72912.50
Capital Stock,		100000.00

Referring to the statement of resources and liabilities of Warren & Carson, it will be seen that the actual difference between the resources and liabilities of that firm is $70000. For this amount W. A. Warren has received $50000 worth of the capital stock in the new corporation, and E. B. Carson has received $25000 worth, a total of $75000, or $5000 more than the actual difference between the resources and liabilities of their firm. It may be very justly assumed that the good will of the old business was worth this amount, and thus Good Will should be debited for $5000 of the stock, or the word "franchise" may be used, if preferred. The remaining $25000 of the $100000 capital stock is balanced by the debit of Subscription, $15000, and Treasury Stock, $10000. Post this journal entry to the main ledger of the new books, and the books of the corporation are correctly opened.

When this entry has been made, Warren should receive $50000 worth of stock certificates and Carson $25000 worth of stock certificates, since their worth in the individual partnership business has been absorbed in the capital stock of the corporation.

When the subscriptions of the new stockholders, Harris, Jones and Leavitt, are paid, an entry of Cash, Dr., $15000, and Subscription, Cr., $15000, will be made, and stock issued to Harris, Jones and Leavitt to the amount of $5000 each, making a total of $90000 on the credit side of the stock ledger. This leaves a difference of $10000 between the stock ledger credits and the credit of Capital Stock in the main ledger. But there is treasury stock yet to be sold, amounting to $10000, and whenever this is sold, Cash will be debited and Treasury Stock credited, thus canceling the Treasury Stock account, while capital stock will be issued to the purchasers, and the amounts entered in the stock ledger, thus completing the $100000 necessary to make it agree with the Capital Stock account in the main ledger.

TO CONTINUE THE BOOKS OF A PRIVATE OR ORDINARY PARTNERSHIP BUSINESS AS THE BOOKS OF A CORPORATION.

In the proposition just advanced and explained, let us suppose that the corporation does not care to go to the expense of purchasing new books, but desires to make such entries as will continue the books of the private partnership as corporation books. Examining the journal entry on page 236, it will be seen that the accounts showing the resources and liabilities of the private business are not changed after they have been closed in the books of the partnership and transferred to the books of the corporation; therefore, no entries of these accounts are necessary, as they will have the same balances, whether the business be a partnership or a corporation.

To change the books from a partnership to a corporation, make the following entry in the journal.

W. A. Warren,	4664.75
E. B. Carson,	2335.25
Subscription,	15000.
Treasury Stock,	10000.
Good Will,	5000.
Capital Stock,		100000.00

Post this entry to the main ledger, and you have the books correctly opened.

The stock ledger, of course, will be opened exactly as in the first proposition, since the conditions are not changed. The capital stock is made up of the surplus of resources over liabilities (which is shown by the net worth of W. A. Warren and E. B. Carson, $70000); of subscription, $15000; of treasury stock, $10000; and of the good will, or franchise, estimated to be worth $5000. The above journal entry will balance the personal accounts of Warren & Carson, and also show the amount of subscription due, the treasury stock on hand, and the value of the good will, or franchise, while Warren & Carson will receive credit on the stock ledger for $75000 worth of capital stock, leaving the remaining $25000 to be credited to the proper persons when the subscription is paid and the treasury stock disposed of.

A VOUCHER SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS.

Within the past few years there has been a great advance in the systematizing of accounts, and in the proper distribution of the various items of expenditure. This systematic accounting originated in the books of railroad companies, and the interstate commerce act, requiring a uniform system of bookkeeping by all the railroad companies of the United States, has done much to secure a uniform and scientific system of accounts among these great corporations; and it is perhaps in the books of railroad companies and other large corporations, which can afford to pay accountants of high ability, that the voucher system of accounts is seen in its highest stage of development. It is, however, easily adaptable to any business, and possesses many advantages, which will readily be seen when it is applied.

The work for the student in the month of December will show the voucher system of accounts as applied to the books of a corporation engaged in the manufacture of high grade shoes.

It is not claimed that the transactions afford a completely scientific exposition of shoe manufacturing accounts, the object being rather to show the voucher system, but in the collection of data the books of some of the largest shoe and leather houses in Rochester, N. Y., and Lynn, Brockton, and Boston, Mass., have been freely consulted.

The following form illustrates the voucher to be attached to a bill of leather received from Cutler & Porter, of Springfield, Mass., purchased on 4 months' time with 5% discount for cash.

The voucher should be pinned, or pasted, to the original bill after it has been certified by the bookkeeper, the buyer, and the receiving clerk, or at least by the bookkeeper, and then invoice and voucher together should be presented to the president or the manager for his approval, after which an abstract of the voucher should be entered in the voucher register (see pages 246 and 247), which will show in the When Due column the date upon which each bill should be paid. When due, or a day or two earlier, the vouchers should be detached from the invoices, and the bookkeeper should calculate the discount, if any, to which each invoice is entitled, and deduct it on the voucher, so that the net amount due will appear in its second money column, after which the voucher should be presented to the treasurer, who should make out a check for the amount due, and the check should be enclosed with the voucher and sent to the person of whom the invoice was purchased. The voucher is an abstract of the original bill, and on the back, under "Charged To," is shown the business account, or accounts, to which it is charged. (See model below.)

Freight bills and other accounts of like nature would generally be paid in this manner, although some bookkeepers would prepare a separate voucher for each invoice. This, however, is requiring an unnecessary amount of work. Many business houses pay all invoices received from the first to the 10th on the 10th, all invoices received from the 10th to the 20th on the 20th, all invoices received from the 20th to the 30th on the first of each month, and regard these as cash payments; and their customers, if notified of this method of payment, generally do not object to receiving such payments and allowing cash discounts. Many business houses have a check prepared as a part of the voucher, and the voucher and check are sent as one to the creditor, thus ensuring the return of the voucher, as it must pass through the bank with the check, which is not detachable.

Voucher Register. This is the distinctive book of the voucher system of accounts, and by its use it is possible to dispense entirely with accounts payable, since the total amount of Vouchers Payable Credit column, as shown in the register, will show the total credits which would be carried to accounts payable in the ordinary form of bookkeeping, while the total amount of Vouchers Payable Debit column will show the debits that would be carried to accounts payable. Of course the difference between the footings of Vouchers Payable Credit and Vouchers Payable Debit columns should show at any time the amount of vouchers unpaid, which will be the accounts payable of the business, and these can readily be proved by comparing with the actual vouchers on file.

As soon as a bill has been examined, a voucher should be made out and certified by the proper parties, after which the distribution of the items to the proper accounts should be made on the back of the voucher; and from this distribution should be made the entries in the voucher register, where as many columns may be provided as the business may require, and these columns may be classified so as to show whether the items of cost were incurred in the first cost, manufacturing expenses, selling expenses, or such other divisions of the business as may be found advisable.

The advantages of such divisions of the expenses of a business cannot be overestimated, as it will be seen by a little study of the register that by the use of the footings of the various columns and the output or product of the business; that is, the number of shoes manufactured in a given period, an approximate cost of almost any department of the work may be obtained. For instance, suppose there were on hand at beginning $10000 worth of leather, and at closing there is on hand $8000 worth, then $10000 minus $8000, or $2000, plus the footing of the Leather column in the voucher register, divided by the number of shoes made in December, will give the average cost per shoe for leather during that month. The same may be applied to the expense of selling, of manufacturing, etc. These divisions of expense will correspond with the divisions of the Loss and Gain account, as shown in the statement of losses and gains at the end of the year.

When a voucher is paid, the usual entry is made on the credit side of the cash book, with the exception that in the left-hand explanation space should be written Voucher, with its number, instead of the name of the account payable settled (see form of cash book, pages 246 and 247).

SHOE MANUFACTURING BUSINESS.

The W. J. Hilton Shoe Company was organized as a stock company Jan. 1, 1895. Its capital stock of $200000 is held as follows: W. J. Hilton, $85000; E. M. Hilton, $40000; E. C. Wardner, $35000; Geo. Lacy, $10000; James Daniels, $9000; R. H. Merriam, $1000; and $20000 of stock remains in the treasury.

The president of the corporation is W. J. Hilton; vice-president, E. C. Wardner; secretary, R. H. Merriam; treasurer, E. M. Hilton; general manager, Geo. Lacy.

The members of the board of directors are W. J. Hilton, E. M. Hilton, James Daniels, R. H. Merriam, and Geo. Lacy.

The salary of the president is $2000; of the treasurer, $1000; of the secretary, $1000; of the general manager, $3000. R. H. Merriam, the secretary, is also the auditor of the books. (Student) will act as head bookkeeper.

In your customers' ledger open accounts with each of the above firms, allowing one-fourth page to each name, and enter on the debit side the date, terms, and amount due from each firm. See that the total of these debit footings equals the amount of Accounts Receivable, as shown in your general ledger.

In your envelope entitled "Vouchers Payable" you will find invoices from other persons, which make up vouchers payable, as shown on the credit side of that account in your general ledger. Remove these invoices from your envelope, and prepare a voucher for each invoice according to models on pages 238 and 239.

No. 2780.—J. Russell & Co. On the back of the voucher charge $247.75 to Machinery & Tools; the balance of the bill to Mill Supplies. Attach the voucher to the invoice, and place both in Vouchers Payable envelope.

No. 2781.—On the back of this voucher charge the full amount of the bill to Materials.

No. 2782.—Charge $462 of this bill to Real Estate and $25 to Repairs, writing Repairs on one of the blank lines at the bottom of the voucher.

No. 2783.—Charge the full amount to Materials.

No. 2784.—Enter the full amount under Machinery & Tools.

Nos. 2785, 2786.—Enter the full amount of each invoice under Materials.

No. 2787.—Charge to Machinery & Tools.

No. 2788.—Charge to Materials.

No. 2789.—Charge to Furniture & Fixtures.

Enter the above vouchers in your voucher register, as shown in model, pages 246 and 247, carrying each amount to the proper column, as shown in the distribution on the backs of the vouchers, and the totals to Vouchers Payable Cr. column. Those accounts which have no special columns should be entered under Miscellaneous Accounts. See that the footing of Vouchers Payable Cr. column in your voucher register agrees with the credit of Vouchers Payable in your general ledger.

Foot and rule Vouchers Payable Cr. column, and also each column of distribution and the Miscellaneous Accounts column, and see that the total of these columns equals the footing of Vouchers Payable Cr. column. These amounts have already been posted, and should not be included in the December posting.

In your stock ledger open accounts as follows: W. J. Hilton, credit, 850 shares, $85000; E. M. Hilton, credit, 400 shares, $40000; E. C. Wardner, credit, 350 shares, $35000; Geo. Lacy, credit, 100 shares, $10000; James Daniels, credit, 90 shares, $9000; R. H. Merriam, credit, 10 shares, $1000. Write the number of shares to the credit of each person in the explanation space of the stock ledger.

The stock certificates would, of course, be already issued, but in order to show how this would be done, you may fill out certificates for the proper amount of stock to each person in your stock certificate book, dating the certificates Jan. 1, 1895. Hand these certificates to your teacher for approval, after which place them in Vouchers for Others.

In the rooms of a shoe factory each operative has a pass book, on which he is debited for all work received, and credited for the same when it is handed back finished. These pass books are collected weekly, and from them is made out the pay roll, which is, or should be, certified by the foremen of the various rooms. The name of each operative is entered on a book in charge of the paymaster, or book-keeper, if the bookkeeper makes up the pay roll, and from the cash he takes the amount called for opposite each name, and places the amount in an envelope marked with the name of the operative and the amount enclosed. These envelopes are placed in a box and handed to the foreman of each room, who distributes them to the operatives. No receipts are called for from the operatives, though in small factories, where only a few employees are to be paid, sometimes each operative is required to sign his name to the pay roll, acknowledging the receipt of the amount opposite his name. A few companies pay their help entirely by check, and the check, of course, acts as a receipt; but in nearly all large establishments, where a great many employees are to be paid, the weekly pay roll is made up as above stated.

PLEASE DATE, SIGN, AND RETURN PROMPTLY.

Under a voucher system of bookkeeping, cash for the petty cash book should be obtained by a voucher order from the manager.

Whenever cash is to be balanced, the footing of Sundries column in the petty cash book should be transferred to the credit side of the main cash book into Cash Paid column, with the explanation, Petty Cash, per P. C. B., and a check mark placed in the ledger folio column, to show that these items have been posted from the petty cash book.

The form on page 249 illustrates a petty cash voucher.

No distribution is required, as the distribution will be determined by the entries in the petty cash book itself. A cash check should be written for the amount. The cash should be handed to the bookkeeper.

Voucher No. 2792 is an order signed by the manager. Enter in your voucher register, but do not extend the amount (see similar entry in model voucher register, pages 246 and 247). Make out a cash check for the amount. Place the voucher in your Receipted Voucher File. Take the check to the bank, or to your teacher, and get the money, which place in your Petty Cash Drawer. This transaction requires no cash book entry, as no cash has left the business; it is simply taken from the bank and placed in the Petty Cash Drawer for future use. Enter the amount of the check in the Dr. column of your petty cash book.

The following form illustrates the petty cash book.

The Bay State Shoe Co. have made a mistake of one dollar in their calculations, and have overpaid you this amount. Write them a letter, notifying them of the overpayment. Credit Bay State Shoe Co. in the cash book for the payment of the invoice of Dec. 11th, with the correct discount, $86.13, and the net amount of cash, $2784.87. Underneath this entry, credit Bay State Shoe Co. for the $1 overpaid, writing the amount in the Accounts Receivable and the Cash columns.

There are two methods of treating overpayments. Some business houses always return a check or currency for the overpayment, but if it is a customer who has an open account, a more common method is simply to credit the customer for the amount overpaid, as in the above instance.

No. 133.—Dec. 31. You may allow 25% of the cost of lasts and patterns, 12½% of the cost of machinery, and 10% of the cost of furniture and fixtures for depreciation. Make a journal entry, debiting Depreciation for the full amount, and crediting Furniture & Fixtures, Lasts & Patterns, and Machinery, each for its respective amount.

Bookkeepers differ in their treatments of such accounts as Machinery, Furniture & Fixtures, and Lasts & Patterns. The practice is far too common, of considering the balances of such accounts as resources, without any regard to the fact that they do depreciate in value. Such a practice is most inaccurate, for, while it may be argued that such property has cost the amount of its debit, and, being on hand and kept in repair, is a resource for this amount, still it is well known that machinery deteriorates rapidly when run at the high speed of our modern factories, and the inventive genius of American mechanics makes it constantly necessary to throw aside comparatively new machinery and replace it with the latest product of invention.

Perhaps the most common method of handling such accounts is to take an inventory at the end of each year, but unless great care is taken, machinery is frequently overvalued, and it is better to keep a regular Depreciation account in the general ledger, and charge this account a certain percentage of such accounts at the end of each year through a journal entry. When this is done, the balances of these accounts will of course represent their actual value, and may be entered as resources in the statement at the end of the year. The percentage should be large enough to allow for wear and tear of machinery, and such shrinkage in value of other accounts as experience has shown will result from the nature of the business; and no attempt should be made to show fictitious gains, through making a smaller allowance for depreciation than the nature of the business will warrant.

Transfer the footing of the Sundries column of your petty cash book to the credit side of the main cash book, writing the total amount in the Cash Paid column, with the explanation, Petty Cash, per P. C. B., and place a check mark in the ledger folio column, as these items will be posted to the debit of the various accounts from the petty cash book, and are only transferred to the main cash book in order that the balance of cash may be shown on that book.

Balance your cash book. Post all books, and take a trial balance.

Close Discount on Sales, Merchandise Returned, Labor, and Freight accounts in the same manner, and transfer to the Merchandise Sales account. Close this account, writing Balance, in red ink, on the smaller side; foot, rule, and bring down the balance on the opposite side. Close Salesmen's Salaries, Salesmen's Expenses, Office Help, and Office Supplies accounts into Merchandise Sales account. Transfer and close the third and final section of the Merchandise Sales account, by entering on the credit side, in red ink, the inventory of manufactured goods on hand; on the debit side of the account, in red ink, write the balance, with the explanation, Gain, and transfer the amount to Loss and Gain account, as usual. Post these cash book and journal entries. Open accounts with Dividend and Premium in the general ledger. If your work is correct, Loss and Gain, Dividend, and Treasury Stock accounts in your general ledger should balance. Open accounts with W. J. Harlan and Mrs. E. M. Hilton in your stock ledger, issue the stock certificates called for, and post to their credit.

Take a proof trial balance (see model, page 47), and hand in all of your books for examination.

APPENDIX.

SINGLE ENTRY.

In single entry bookkeeping the ledger contains only accounts with persons, and consequently only such entries as affect personal accounts should appear in a single entry journal; and since there is no equality of debits and credits in single entry bookkeeping, the journal entries will, in most cases, contain only a single debit or credit.

The following is a model of a single entry journal, showing the records which would be made by single entry bookkeeping for the transactions shown in your model journal-daybook on pages 6 and 7.

MODEL SINGLE ENTRY JOURNAL-DAYBOOK.

JANUARY 1, 190-.

A. H. Harper,		Cr.		3000
Commenced this day the Flour and Grain business, investing $3000 in cash.
	5
J. B. Allen,		Dr.		225
Sold him on account 50 brls. Flour,		4.50
	6
A. H. Harper,		Dr.		50
Drew cash for private use.
	8
J. Grant & Co.,		Cr.		198
Bought of them on account 600 bu. Oats,		.33
	13
J. B. Allen,		Cr.		100
Received of him cash on account.
	15
J. Grant & Co.,		Dr.		198
Paid invoice Jan. 8th in cash.
	25
J. B. Allen,		Dr.		237
Sold him on account 50 brls. Flour,		4.75		50

It will be seen, by comparison, that all records of transactions which do not affect personal accounts have been omitted from the single entry journal-daybook; but a cash book should be kept, which may be the same in form as a double entry cash book, or it may be kept like the following model, which records the cash transactions of the model journal-daybook on pages 6 and 7.

A record of notes issued and of notes received should be kept in a bill book similar to the ordinary double entry bill book, and these records, with an inventory taken in the usual manner, will enable the bookkeeper to prepare a statement at any time showing the resources and liabilities, the present worth, and the net gain of the business.

Copy on a sheet of journal paper the journal and cash book models. There will be space on one side of the journal sheet for both models. Take a half sheet of ledger paper and post the journal entries the same as in double entry, opening the personal accounts required—A. H. Harper, J. B. Allen, and J. Grant & Co.

The cash book shows the amount of cash on hand, $2387. The inventory of unsold merchandise, if taken Jan. 31st, would show the following goods on hand: 350 brls. flour, valued at $4 per brl.; 300 bu. oats at 33¢ per bu.; 300 bu. rye at 57¢ per bu.

The bill book, if kept, would show a note for $338, in favor of the business, signed by A. B. Frye; and the following notes outstanding—one in favor of Garland & Co. for $571, and one in favor of B. W. Keene for $820.

The ledger shows that J. B. Allen owes $362.50.

From the foregoing data it will be easy to prepare a statement of resources and liabilities according to the following model.

STATEMENT OF RESOURCES AND LIABILITIES, JAN. 31, 190-.

			Resources.	Liabilities.

Bills Payable	notes outstanding, per B. B.	$
Present Worth*		$

* To be written in red ink.

Having found the present worth of A. H. Harper, as above, a comparison of his present worth, Jan. 31, 190-, with the amount of his investment Jan. 1, 190-, will show his gain or loss, the same as in double entry bookkeeping. Find A. H. Harper's net gain according to the following model.

STATEMENT OF A. H. HARPER'S GAIN.

A. H. Harper's present worth Jan. 31, 190-	3366	50
" " " net gain*		366 50

Write the statement of resources and liabilities and the net gain on the first blank page of your journal. Carry the net gain to the credit side of A. H. Harper's account in your ledger, the same as in double entry, and hand the journal with your ledger to your teacher for approval.

It is thought the foregoing illustrations will prove sufficient to enable the student to perform the work required in the following series of transactions, using the single entry journal-daybook, cash book and bill book as records of the business.

If A. H. Harper should desire to change his books from single entry to double entry, he should open an account in his ledger with Cash, carrying to its debit side the amount on hand, $2387; also with Bills Receivable, carrying to its debit side $338; with Merchandise, carrying to its debit side the amount of the inventory, $1670; and with Bills Payable, entering on its credit side the amount of the outstanding notes, $1391.

After your papers are approved, make the above entries in the ledger, and take a trial balance, which should give you the following result.

A. H. Harper		3366	50
Cash	2387	00
Bills Receivable	338	00
Merchandise	1670	00
Bills Payable		1391	00
J. B. Allen	362	50

Find from your ledger the amounts due from personal accounts; from your bill book, the value of notes on hand, also the notes outstanding. Compare this with your investment, and find your gain or loss for the month's work.
